TRIBUNE MAN'S SURVEY BARES RUSSIAN ACTS

Finds Finn Liberty Being Crushed

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 3—Finland, promised independence under its armistice agreements with Russia and Great Britain, is being crushed by the soviet boot. It is being Russified as systematically as Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania were communized.

Two weeks' investigation in Finland found the Reds dictating to schools, labor unions, industry, and the goverament. Finnish Communists, trained in Moscow, lead the reorganized Finnish police in coöperation with the soviet secret police. The Finnish army, at Russian order, is turning its guns in a new direction—toward the west.

Two weeks' inquiry uncovered reports of wholesale deportations and enslavement of other Baltic peoples. Information on these points was limited to letters smuggled thru Stalin's tight censorship and to interviews with a few who have escaped from inside the wall of bayonets which surrounds Stalin's newly won territory.

Red Heads Censorship

This series of articles is being written from outside Finland for several reasons. Finnish censorship is headed by a Communist member of the cabinet, Y. K. Leino, whose father-in-law Otto Kuusinen, was general secretary of the Comintern when it openly advocated world revolution. And some of my informants insisted that I should be outside Finland before writing. They feared I might be arrested and forced or tricked into identifying them.

Nameless news is another handicap in reporting Stalin's activities in the Baltic. His division of families into remotely separated labor camps, enforced migrations and diffusion of whole peoples thruout his vast domain, the soviet's award of power and authority to its ideological followers for betraying their nationals—all these factors make the gathering of facts difficult.

Patriots Called "Fascists"

Those I have talked to include former public officials once respected as patriots but now denounced as fascists. They include writers, lawyers, professors, merchants, and industrialists who likewise are called "fascist" in the Helsinki radical press, an application of this term to those who oppose communism.

Witnesses also include Americans, British, and other foreigners of many years' residence in Finland. Some of them might be suspected of prejudices against Russia, founded on business, political, or family connections. But they told of different personal experiences which, even with many grains of salt, add up to a convincing picture.

Guileless Witnesses, Too

Many witnesses are beyond suspicion of guile—an old farmer, a young wife at another farm, and woodsmen and farmers interviewed in forests and fields during a cross-country hike while carrying a shotgun behind a pair of rabbit hounds.

Three excursions were taken from Helsinski to learn of public opinion in the hinterland. The national capital is full of propagandists and counter propagandists, Red espionage, and counter or national espionage. It was found that Finnish villagers and rustics fear Russia as much as the urbanites, and have their own stories to substantiate their fears.

These articles aim, while protecting the identities of the witnesses to Russia's Baltic policies, to give readers a chance to form opinions independent of this correspondent's.

Truman Plans World Parley on Atom Use

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3—President Truman today disclosed that discussions on the use of atomic power will be initiated with other nations in an effort to assure its cooperative development as a peace time benefit and its renunciation as a war weapon.

In a special message to congress on atomic energy, the chief executive declared the hope of civilization lies in "international arrangements looking, if possible, to the renunciation of the use and development of the atomic bomb" and in directing the use of atomic power toward peaceful, humanitarian ends.

Asks U. S. Control Board

The message also urged creation by congress of a national commission to control development of atomic energy for peace time purposes in this country.

Declaring that discussion of the international problem of the atom cannot be safely delayed until the allied nations organization starts functioning, Mr. Truman said:

"I therefore propose to initiate discussions, first with our associates in this discovery, Great Britain and Canada, and then with other nations, in an effort to effect agreement on the conditions under which coöperation might replace rivalry in the field of atomic power.

Plans Report to Congress

"I desire to emphasize that these discussions will not be concerned with disclosures relating to the manufacturing processes leading to the production of the atomic bomb itself. They will constitute an effort to work out arrangements covering the terms under which international collaboration and exchange of scientific information might safely proceed."

The President explained that the outcome of such international discussions will be reported to congress and that any proposed agreements requiring legislative approval will be submitted to congress.

Some Uranium in Canada

Discussing the proposed control commission in this country, Mr. Truman's message called upon congress to lay down the basic principles for activities of an atomic energy commission. The President suggested that the commission be given control of all land and mineral deposits owned by the United States which constitute sources of atomic energy and that it be empowered to purchase property outside of the United States.

The world's largest and richest deposits of uranium are in the Belgian Congo. There are deposits in Canada, where the ore used in making the atomic bombs loosed on Japan at Hiroshima and Nagasaki was mined, and other deposits are in Colorado, Russia and Austria.

Mr. Truman also recommended that the extensive plants connected with the development of atomic energy in Tennessee, New Mexico and the northwest be maintained for development of peace time uses of the energy.

MARS' LITTLE HELPERS

Action Starts for Bonus to Illinois Vets

The Illinois veterans' compensation commission yesterday set machinery rolling for payment of a state bonus to one million veterans at a cost its proponents estimated around 500 million dollars, eight or nine times the cost of the one paid after the first World war.

Meeting in Chicago, the 16 man commission adopted a resolution stating that its members concurred "in the desire to provide as soon as possible an equitable form" of bonus. There was no opposition to the statement.

Taxes to Finance Payment

The statement said the money needed would have to be raised by taxation. It added that in view of the need for coöperation among state departments, and the intricacies of the problem, much study is needed. State Sen. Everett R. Peters [R., Champaign], the commission chairman, was authorized to appoint subcommittees to make the studies. Peters said he would make the appointments next week.

The members did not take up any questions of detail, but several said a huge bond issue would have to be approved by a referendum. They suggested the bonus bonds might have to be supported by an increase in the sales tax.

Sen. Peters and others hazarded a guess that the bonus could not be paid before Jan. 1, 1947. They said a special legislative session would have to approve any plan adopted and order the referendum. All the commissioners said off the record there was little doubt "there is going to be a state bonus."

914,000 Listed in Service

After the last war 28 states paid war bonuses and that of Illinois cost 55 millions. Illinoisans now in service are reported to number 914,000, with more than 100,000 others discharged.

On the commission are five state senators: Frank J. Dick [R., Quincy], Dennis J. Collins [R., De Kalb], Paul Broyles [R., Mount Vernon], Norman C. Barry [D., Chicago], and Roland V. Libonati [D., Chicago]. There are also five state representatives: James J. Adducci [R., Chicago], David Hunter [R., Rockford], Charles D. Franz [D., Freeport], Ben S. Rhodes [R., Normal], and L. C. Harris [D., Granite City].

The other five members, appointed by Gov. Green, are Robert W. Davis, Carbondale, editor; James Simpson Jr., Wadsworth; John Stelle, McLeansboro, former governor; James P. Ringley, chairman of the Illinois veterans commission, and Horace E. Thornton, Chicago Heights, deputy director of the state department of public welfare.

JAP DIVISION BURNS COLORS WITH ARMY POMP

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Oct. 4 [Thursday]—Japanese militarism may be dying, but it seems to be intended that the memory shall linger on. Here is an eyewitness report translated from a Japanese language newspaper of the elaborate ceremony held by one division, which, like others, burned its colors:

"The ceremonies began at 4:30 a. m. Officers and men in full dress uniform lined up on the parade grounds. Presently the color guard came out and planted the colors. At the order 'present arms' several thousand bayonets in sweeping precision formed an ocean of pointed waves as bugles sounded.

"Tears glistened in the eyes of the men as they realized this was their final parting with their colors. After instructions from the divisional commander the men held a march past the colors. And so the colors were removed to the burning ground where they made their farewell in flames."

Senators Flee Avalanche of Bilbo Words

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3—Sen. Bilbo [D., Miss.] began his project of building the nation a new capital today.

He addressed the senate chairs, most of which were vacant, for three hours and 21 minutes in a speech he solemnly estimated to be worth $800,000 to the taxpayers.

The deadpan senator promised to resume his $800,000 a day talks tomorrow, and explained that if he can keep talking long enough the country will have 250 million dollars with which to build a new capital or capitol. Both items got into the discussion, and the senator wasn't always specific as to whether he meant a capitol building or a national capital.

Too Close to Chicago

If it's to be a new capital, Bilbo said he would have no objection to establishing it in Indianapolis, except that Indianapolis is close to Chicago, just as Washington is close to New York.

The announced purpose of the little senator's filibustering is to talk to death or delay passage of a bill freeing land grant railroads from transportation of military and naval property and personnel at half rate for the government.

Land grant railroads are those to which the government gave vast tracts of public land, from 1850 to 1871.

Bill Already Passed

Bilbo says the government would have to spend million of more dollars for transportation bills if the measure passes, permitting land grant roads to charge full rates for federal shipments affected.

The house already has passed the bill which Bilbo is protesting. But the senate can't vote until Bilbo quits talking. He has said he may talk 30 days.

The senate was able to recess tonight, however, on a deal that gives him the floor tomorrow.

Bilbo said the government and the taxpayers are now profiting by 24 to 30 million dollars a month from the half rates. From these figures he drew his $800,000 estimate of the value of his speech today.

Most of the senators fled during the speech.

ACTION FOLLOWS PAY PARLEY FAILURE; GENERAL MOTORS SPURNS CIO DEMAND

30 Per Cent Boost in Wages Called 'Unreasonable'

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3 [Special]—The General Motors corporation today rejected the CIO United Automobile Workers' demand for a 30 per cent wage boost, branding it "unreasonable" and "definitely inflationary."

The rejection was contained in a letter from Charles E. Wilson, General Motors president, to UAW Vice President Walter P. Reuther. It was made public as representatives of the corporation and the UAW met here for the first time to discuss the wage demand.

After Wilson's letter was made public, Reuther called it a "propaganda statement." He said the union is awaiting a counter-offer he said had been promised by the corporation. Negotiations will be resumed Saturday, he added.

Cites Price Boost Danger

Wilson asserted that the granting of a 30 per cent raise in basic wages would increase the price of automobiles to the public by 30 per cent. He denied a UAW charge that General Motors made excessive profits during the war and said the corporation will not use its modernizing and expansion reserves to pay "excess wages for work not performed."

Reminding Reuther that the UAW states it is against inflation, Wilson charged it is responsible by its wage demand for "trying to start an inflationary spiral of increasing wages, costs, and prices."

The General Motors president turned down a UAW suggestion that the corporation take the initiative in developing industry wide bargaining with the UAW. "We are not in a position to do this and we do not believe that it would be a sound development for our country even if we were," Wilson asserted.

Urges Free Competition

He contended that industry wide bargaining would disregard local interests of many groups of employes and of individual employers, to increase costs and prices, and to affect adversely the interests of the people as a whole. He commented that the American system and the American standard of living are based on free competition.

Referring to the UAW threat to single out General Motors for a "labor blockade" as a means of enforcing its demands on the entire automobile industry, Wilson warned that the UAW, by attempting to obtain more than its share in the future, is "doing its best to destroy the possibilities of that future."

Wilson sharply questioned UAW integrity, stating that while the union may have the power to close the corporation's plants and those of its suppliers, "it is not clear that your union can or will live up to its agreements." He said that the sanctity of union agreements is in question, citing the war time strike record of the UAW in General Motors.

Unauthorized Strikes

"While the strike record in General Motors has been better than the average, it is not too good," he said. "We have plants in General Motors closed right now thru unauthorized strikes in violation of our agreements with the CIO."

Wilson said the UAW demand calls for 52 hours' pay for 40 hours of work. He called attention to the fact that this would force the corporation to pay for 67 hours' work each week in order to maintain a 48 hour a week schedule.

"While the guns were still smoking and the echoes from atomic bombs could still be heard, your union made these demands for excess wages on the assumption that they could be paid from past profits or from assumed future excess profits or that they could be earned from current operations with prices frozen at substantially 1942 levels," he said. "These assumptions are not sound."

No Heavy Profits Ahead

Refuting the UAW claim of excess war profits, Wilson said the average yearly net profit in dollars earned during the war was less than the average pre-war net profit despite a doubling of employment and sales. He said a realistic forecast of costs shows there will be no excess profits in the future. He further stated that General Motors would be unable to

BORNEO RUBBER YIELD MAY SET RECORD IN YEAR

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LABUAN ISLAND, Straits Settlement, Oct. 3—The first trickles of clear, colorless, raw rubber were flowing from the overgrown but undamaged plantations of Borneo today and British officials predicted that within a year rubber production from this area would reach a new all-time high mark. The prewar yield was slightly under 100,000 tons annually.

The Japs seized the plantations virtually intact and then let them lie idle. As a result, underbrush has turned the plantations into young jungles. But the rubber trees themselves have benefited rather than suffered from the four years of rest.

Most of the plants where the raw rubber, latex, is processed into amber colored, translucent sheets a quarter of an inch thick, are intact.

The process is simple. The workers add water and acetic acid, let the mixture stand for a day, squeeze out the moisture in a series of rollers, and then smoke the product for three weeks. Ships already are bringing in acetic acid and the latex is being processed as it comes from the trees.

Underbrush First Problem

Col. Makford Oakford, veteran planter in this area, has arrived from London with five other planters. The British government sent them here to speed the reopening of the plantations. Col. Oakford said a preliminary survey indicated the restoration of rubber production would depend only upon the length of time needed to clear away the underbrush which is impassable in most areas. Paths will be cut from tree to tree, and later all the plantation grounds will be cleared.

All the rubber is going into a pool that has headquarters in London. The pool will allot the rubber among the various countries. The tentative price a pound is about 35 cents, compared with the pre-war price of about 20 cents.

[The B. F. Goodrich company said this week that it had perfected a synthetic tire superior to pre-war tires of natural rubber and that the synthetic basis could be produced at a manufacturing cost of 12 cents a pound.]

Col. Oakford said that all concerned with rubber — growers, brokers, and shippers—were making a profit at the 20 cent rate. The higher present rate, he said, should encourage expenditures for the rapid clearing of the plantations and for the improvement of processing facilities.

First Profits to Be Pooled.

At first, all profits from the plantations in the Borneo area will be pooled among all the growers, Col. Oakford said. This will continue, under present plans, until all the PERMANENT SEAT OF WORLD SECURITY LEAGUE TO BE IN U. S.

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The United States should be the permanent seat of the new international security organization, the united nations preparatory executive committee recommended tonight. The announcement did not state whether a definite city or locale had been selected. Sites frequently mentioned include San Francisco, Philadelphia, and Hyde Park, the late President Roosevelt's home.

Committee planners rejected a suggestion that the united nations organization have its home in Europe. Britain, France and the Netherlands opposed having the headquarters in America. Russia voted for the United States and against Europe, supported by Australia, Brazil, Chile, China, Czechoslovakia, Iran, Mexico, and Yugoslavia. Canada and the United States abstained from voting.

The recommendation first will be offered to the preparatory commission, which is expected to meet soon. If the commission approves, the recommendation then will be put before the entire assembly for final action.

10 of 11 Companies Reject Proposal for Truce

Strike Continues

Elwood E. Phelps, Hammond, Ind., president of local 210 of the CIO Oil Workers' union and chairman of the strikers' committee for the northern Indiana area, where eight plants of seven companies have been closed, said last night that the strike in the Indiana area will continue. A resolution adopted by the strikers pledged support to their officers, demanded government support of their wage increase, and urged the oil companies to continue to bargain.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—The White House announced tonight that the government will seize strikebound oil companies tomorrow.

Secy. Schwellenbach

This move came after Labor Secretary Schwellenbach told reporters he had recommended seizure because his efforts to settle the wage dispute between workers and the companies had collapsed.

The strike of the CIO Oil Workers' union—because the companies have not met its demands—has spread to 15 states. It started Sept. 16.

Schwellenbach said 10 of the 11 oil companies involved had rejected his proposal for a temporary settlement. The one exception was Sinclair Oil. The union had accepted.

Draw Up Seizure Orders

Union President O. A. Knight said he did not know whether the strikers will return to their jobs after the government takes over the properties.

President Truman's press secretary, Charles G. Ross, said that the "necessary orders" for the seizure were being drawn.

The hour of taking over was not specified, but Ross said the President will have a statement tomorrow.

The question arose whether the seizure order would include entire companies or only strike affected parts, but there was no elaboration on this point from the White House.

Schwellenbach's seizure recommendation was made to Reconversion Director Snyder.

Truman Cites Wage Policy

Shortly before Schwellenbach's announcement President Truman entered the labor picture by telling a news conference his administration has a definite wage policy.

This policy, Mr. Truman said, was set up in an executive order he issued Aug. 18. He read the order to newsmen but did not elaborate upon it.

Schwellenbach said he did not know whether all refineries and pipe lines in the 15 states would be seized, or whether the government would take over only those needed to supply the army and navy with oil and gasoline.

Balked by "Conditions"

Schwellenbach said conditions attached by the companies to acceptance of his plan made it "utterly impossible to proceed with the arbitration."

Representatives of the companies and the union had been conferring here since last Saturday after a previous conference in Chicago failed.

"I said at the beginning there would have to be some give and take in a thing of this kind," Schwellenbach said. "But there was no giving of any kind."

The 11 companies that participated in the conference were the Cities Service Oil company, the Sinclair Oil company, the Texas company, Tide Water Associated Oil company, Stanolind Pipe Line company, Standard Oil company [Ohio], the Pure Oil company, the Socony-Vacuum Oil company, Shell Oil company, Inc., Union Oil company of California, and the Pan-American Refining company.

Temporary Plan Offered

The union has been demanding a 30 per cent wage increase, but was willing to accept this temporary settlement proposed by Schwellenbach:

1. The companies would grant a temporary 15 per cent raise.

2. An arbitrator would be appointed to decide whether the companies should give more than 15 per cent.

Schwellenbach said he had intended asking Judge Learned Hand of the 2d Court of Appeals in New York to be arbitrator if both sides had accepted.

The 10 companies reportedly said they would accept on these terms:

1. A 15 per cent raise—when they went back on a 40 hour week. Most are working 48 hours now.

2. The arbitrator should study the whole problem of wage increases from scratch—not just start from a 15 per cent increase already granted.

3. The arbitrator should be mutually acceptable to all concerned.

4. The CIO Oil Workers' International union should make the local unions abide by the agreement.

The Sinclair company was willing to accept the secretary's plan but indicated it would withdraw its acceptance if the other companies did not go along.

All the companies wanted it understood that if they granted a 15 per cent raise it would not stand against their chances for getting a price increase on the oil they sell.

Affected by Order

But this point—raises can't be granted if they mean prices must be increased—was the main point in the executive order that the President read to his news conference in the White Houes.

The order also says raises can be granted to correct "inequities" but did not explain what is meant by that word.

It is possible "inequities" might be interpreted by the government as meaning that workers deprived now of war time wages need increases to make up for that lost pay and the increase in living costs. But the order also says that the government can allow price increases—where it sees fit—if those increases are needed to permit wage increases.

Twenty-five Plants Closed

Houston, Tex., Oct. 3 (AP)—Idle refineries and affiliated plants in Texas reached a new high of 25 today with the closing of a southeast Texas pipeline and the gradual slowing down of a refinery.

The flow of crude oil thru pipelines from Houston to Corpus Christi and over southeast Texas halted at dawn as members of the CIO Oil Workers' union closed pipeline valves.

The huge Humble plant at Ingleside, near Corpus Christi, began to close. Workers agreed to remain on the job until early Friday. Approximately 26,000 oil workers are idle in Houston, Texas City, Baytown, Port Arthur, Fort Worth, Beaumont, and Corpus Christi.

PHYSICIANS FIND ALCOHOLISM ON INCREASE IN U. S.

Alcoholism is a growing health problem in the United States and the American way of life is partly to blame, an article in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association says.

The authors, Dr. Robert V. Seliger, assistant visiting psychiatrist at the Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, Md., and Victoria Cranford, psychotherapist at the Haarlem Lodge sanatorium, Cartonsville, Md., estimate that there are about 600,000 chronic alcoholics, 2,000,000 heavy drinkers, and 38,000,000 "social" drinkers in the country.

"Within the last quarter century the trend toward the more moderate use of alcohol has been definitely reversed," they state, "and there is a decided increase of alcoholism in all groups and ages."

LIMITED PHONE SERVICE SET FOR 4 HOUR WALKOUT

2 Unions Defy Order; 6 Will Support Tieup

Telephone company officials in Chicago completed plans yesterday for limited emergency service during a four hour telephone blackout tomorrow when unionized phone system employes thruout the country plan to leave their jobs to vote on a strike.

Two local unions meanwhile have pledged to stay on the job and not vote, but six others—larger and more vital—elected to quit work to cast ballots.

200,000 Workers Involved

The referendum, to decide whether to petition the national labor relations board for a strike vote, will be held here and thruout the nation from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m., Chicago time. Approximately 200,000 workers will be involved, including 7,200 local and 2,800 long distance operators in Chicago. About 10,000 other telephone workers in Illinois also will be affected.

The four hour stoppage was called Tuesday by J. J. Moran of New York, vice president of the independent National Federation of Telephone Workers, in protest against an NLRB examiner's ruling recommending the dissolution of a union affiliate at Kearney, N. J., on the ground it was company dominated.

Automatic Service to Continue

Dial telephones [automatic] in Chicago will not be affected. Calls may be made on a dial instrument to another dial phone. Telephones thru which numbers are handled by operators, on the other hand, will be nonserviceable. These are the dial exchanges:

AMBassador, ANDover, ATLantic, BAYport, BITtersweet, BOUlevard, BRIargate, BUCkingham, CALumet, CANal, CENtral, CHEsapeake, DEArborn, DELaware, DIVersey, DRExel, FRAnklin, HARrison, HAYmarket, HOLlycourt, KENwood, LAFayette, LAKeview, LINcoln, LIVingston, LONgbeach, MICHigan, MOHawk, MONroe, OAKland, RANdolph, REGent, ROGers Park, SAGinaw, SHEller, SHEldrake, SOUth Chicago, SOUth Shore, STAte, SUPerior, VICtory, VIRginia, WABash, WEBster, WHItehall, and YARds.

Suburban offices with dial service include: Tinley Park, Gary, Evanston, Wauconda, Lake Zurich, Zion, Winthrop Harbor, Grayslake, Round Lake, Lake Villa, Fox Lake, Aurora, and Joliet.

Service on Essential Calls

While long distance calls will be impaired, service on high priority calls and those of an emergency nature has been assured. This same condition will prevail on local exchanges. Supervisors will fill in for operators and complete essential calls from nondial instruments. Every effort will be made to carry thru radio programs, including the world series broadcasts, piped to outlet stations by means of telephones.

The two locals ignoring the walkout order are the Commercial Telephone Workers and the Federation of Telephone Clerks in Illinois. The six supporting the vote are the Chicago and the Illinois Telephone Traffic unions, the Federation of Long Lines, the Commercial Equipment Workers, Inc., the Telephone Equipment Workers' union, and the Chicago Communications Equipment Workers' union.

George McDonald, 328 S. Whipple st., was wounded twice last night in a gun battle with two Negroes in his filling station at Lake st. and Sacramento blvd. The Negroes, both wearing masks, sought to hold him up, McDonald told police. He seized a revolver, he said, and the men fired three shots, wounding him in the left side and the right side of his chest.

PULLMAN STRIKE HALTS WORK ON TROOP SLEEPERS

CIO Seeks Vote Speed at Michigan City

A new strike broke out yesterday in Michigan City, Ind., and kept 1,361 employees from working at the Haskell and Barker plant of Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company. At the same time 17 Chicago area strikes and one at Kankakee kept 20,210 others idle.

A picket line formed by 100 members of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO], which does not have the bargaining right at the Pullman-Standard plant, kept the entire work force off the job, paralyzing production of troop sleepers.

NLRB Vote Delay Charged

The CIO said the picket line was set up because of delay by the national labor relations board in holding an election to determine the collective bargaining agent for the plant's employes. The CIO union petitioned for the election. Brotherhood of Railway Car Men [AFL], which now represents the employes, claims 900 members.

Willard S. Townsend, president of the United Transport Service Employes union [CIO], announced that he has notified 60 major railroad companies of the union's demand for a 50 per cent wage increase for redcaps, dining car employes, and Pullman laundry workers.

Townsend said the union also asked for a 15 cents hourly wage increase above the adjustment rate to offset a rise in the cost of living. The companies were asked to set a date not later than Oct. 30 for opening initial conferences on the demands.

Mass Picket Line Tightened

A strike of 8,000 members of local 719, UAW-CIO, which has halted production at the General Motors' Electro-Motive diesel division at McCook since last Friday, brought charges from the company that it has not yet received demands from the union and does not know the reason for the stoppage. Union officials countered they were not yet ready to make an explanation.

A mass picket line at the plant increased its activity and prevented nearly 700 office employes and company officials from entering the property, the company said.

Officials of the Chicago Window Washers' union [AFL] announced that the union would apply for a strike vote today if its negotiations with the Chicago Window Washers Contracting association break down. The union is seeking a 20 per cent wage increase for its 600 members.

Bound in Leather

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday received a large bound volume of newspaper clippings and letters pertaining to the decision he handed down last Jan. 27 that the government did not act within its power in ordering the army to seize the Montgomery Ward & Co. properties in Chicago. The book, bound in Morocco leather, was presented to Judge Sullivan in his chambers by John H. Stewart, vice president of the Cuneo Press, Inc.

TRUMAN TO STOP IN VIRGINIA FOR CLARK WEDDING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—President Truman will begin a week-end trip with a visit Saturday to Berryville, Va., to be best man at the wedding of Judge Bennett Champ Clark, former Democratic senator from Missouri, and Violet Heming, actress.

After a wedding reception Mr. Truman will drive to Martinsburg, W. Va., to board his plane for Blytheville, Ark. Press Secretary Ross said the President will pause briefly in Blytheville, then motor 25 miles to Caruthersville, Mo., where he will attend a county fair which has been on his schedule every year for more than a decade.

Ross did not say where the President will be between his visit to Caruthersville and Gilbertsville, Ky., where he will make a speech dedicating the TVA Gilbertsville dam at 11 a. m. Wednesday.

Strike Holds 89 Ships on Mersey River, Liverpool

LIVERPOOL, England, Oct. 3 (AP) Eighty-nine ships, including two American transports, were tied up along the Mersey river today by a strike of 15,000 dock workers. R. J. Hodges, regional port directors, said 49 deep sea vessels and 40 coastal ships were affected. Eleven of the large ships, some loaded with desperately needed food supplies, are in Liverpool harbor.

pay the increased wages from income as long as prices are held at present levels.

Discussing inflation, the General Motors president listed three sources from which runaway inflation is being threatened. These, he said, are the war time and current deficit spending of the government, the pent-up demand for goods and services which encourages black markets, and "the desires of selfish unions to take advantage of the situation and force unreasonable wage increases."

Warns of Inflation Effects

"Inflation is the worst of all economic diseases," he said. "It reduces the value of money in terms of what money will buy. It reduces the value of the savings of the people. It undermines security. It underwrites depression. It destroys confidence. It creates unemployment."

Tracing the course of the inflationary spiral, Wilson said granting of a 30 per cent wage boost by General Motors would spread the increase to all suppliers and affect all elements of cost.

"Automobiles would shortly cost 30 per cent more to produce," he said. "Prices to customers would have to be raised 30 per cent. If wages in automobile plants forced such increases in car price, the market for automobiles would be restricted. Fewer cars would be sold; fewer people would be able to afford and enjoy them, and fewer workers would be employed in making them."

"National Problem"

Voicing a hope that there will be no strikes in General Motors plants, Wilson cautioned that closed plants will dissipate the capital the corporation had planned to use to create better working conditions, increase capacity, and provide more good jobs.

"This dispute over the wage demands of your union is more than an ordinary collective bargaining quarrel," he said. "It is a national problem. The interests of all Americans must be considered, and if strikes are called and our plants closed, the strikes will be against the interests of all of the people of our country as much as they will be against General Motors."

2 POTATO FIRMS, 2 CAFES PAY OPA PRICE PENALTIES

Consent judgments in office of price administration suits against two wholesale potato companies charged with violating price regulations were entered in federal District court yesterday for $829.52 against the Bacon Brothers firm, at 1425 S. Racine av., and for $786.75 against the W. J. Engel company, at 216 S. Water Market.

Two restaurant operators paid consent judgments and were enjoined against further price violations by Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court. Beatrice Crigler, Ideal Lunch Room, 613 E. 47th st., paid $400 and Seyamatsu Mitzutani, New York Cafe, 114 E. 51st st., paid $1,250.

LITHOGRAPHERS QUIT RANKS OF AFL AFTER DISPUTE OF 30 YEARS

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—Benjamin M. Robinson, general counsel for the Amalgamated Lithographers of America, said today the organization, with 20,000 members in the United States and Canada, had withdrawn from the American Federation of Labor after a 30 year dispute.

Robinson said the union members voted almost unanimously for the withdrawal and directed the union council to affiliate with the CIO or to remain independent, as the council decided.

Announcement of the withdrawal was contained in a letter to William Green, AFL president, signed by William J. Riehl, New York, international lithographers' president, and Robert Bruck, Chicago, international secretary-treasurer.

Robinson said the withdrawal ended a dispute that began in 1915 when the AFL placed the lithographers under jurisdiction of the printing pressmen's union and the photo engravers' union. The lithographers became affiliated with the AFL in 1906.

Robinson said companies employing union men included: Rand, McNally, map makers; Regensteiner Corp., and R. R. Donnelly and company, all of Chicago, and Western Printing and Lithographing company, Racine, Wis.

CAPTAIN FOOLED BY HIS OWN COP IN HOBO'S GUISE

A hobo who walked into the Central police station yesterday nearly got locked up before Capt. James J. Duffy penetrated the disguise and recognized Detective James Cunningham.

Cunningham, assigned to investigate vice conditions south of the loop, brought in a prisoner, Lula Martin, 57, of 2451 State st., a Negro maid in Elk hotel No. 2 at 435 S. State st. The detective said she had $3,170 in a money bag around her waist when arrested.

Capt. Duffy congratulated Cunningham on the disguise, which the detective adopted to register at the hotel under an assumed name while he checked on vice complaints.

ADOPT CHARTER LINKING WORLD TRADE UNIONS

PARIS, Oct. 3 (AP)—Labor representatives of 65 nations today approved a constitution creating a world trade union federation. Their first goal is the winning of a voice for more than 60,000,000 union members in any forthcoming social and economic councils of the united nations.

The constitution fulfilled the demand of American and soviet delegates that a permanent organization be made operative at once.

It contained no constitutional restriction against political activity by the federation, but gave the executive committee broad powers to make sure that only bona fide trade union organizations be admitted.

It formed an executive committee of 26, with the United States and Canada sharing three members—the only other group besides Russia to be allowed that many. Great Britain has two.

OPA TO OPPOSE 12c 'L' FARE IN COURT HEARING

The office of price administration will join the city and the state attorney general tomorrow before Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg of the Circuit court, in opposing efforts of the Chicago Rapid Transit Lines to obtain authorization for a 12 cent fare.

The Illinois Supreme court recently ruled that the company was entitled to an increase from its present 10 cent fare to meet operating expenses.

Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator, said that the OPA will intercede in the case in line with its policy "to increase any effort to increase the cost of essential services."

STRIKE OF 60,000 DOCK HANDS TIES UP N.Y. SHIPPING

Dispute Hinges on Sling Load Limitation

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—Shipping in New York harbor was crippled today as a strike of 60,000 workers, including 46,000 longshoremen, went into effect.

The strike affected points in New Jersey, including Newark, Bayonne, Jersey City, Weehawken, and Hoboken, Jack Gerst, secretary of local 791, AFL International Longshoremen's association, said.

The walkout followed a vote by longshoremen to remain away from their jobs, altho the New York district council of their union last night had agreed to accept terms of a new contract.

Load Issue Ignored

The new contract offered by the New York Shipping association provided a 40 hour work week and a pay raise but did not mention limitation of lift loads, which caused the dispute Monday. The strikers sought to reduce sling loads from 6,000 pounds to 2,240 pounds.

Capt. Hewlett R. Bishop, Atlantic coast director of the war shipping administration, said more than 100 ships were delayed by the walkout.

Eugene Sampson, business agent for the local, said the strike would not affect troop movements, the shipment of relief supplies abroad, or service men's mail.

HALT TROOP CAR JOB

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 3 (AP)—The Pullman-Standard Manufacturing company, reported that a strike at its subsidiary plant, the Haskell & Barker company, tied up production of troop sleepers today and made 1,000 employes idle. Officials of the CIO-UAW, terming the strike unauthorized, said the cause lay in impatience "over delay" of the national labor relations board in calling an election sought May 29.

CALL CIO LUMBER TALK

Portland, Ore., Oct. 3 (AP)—The operating half of the northwest's strike ridden lumber industry will convene here tomorrow to decide whether a complete shutdown can be averted.

Officials of the CIO International Woodworkers of America, whose 40,000 members have approved a strike if necessary to obtain a 5 cent hourly increase, will meet with operators and the United States conciliation service here.

A CIO strike, added to the five state AFL shutdown in its ninth day, would black-out northwest logging camps and sawmills.

RESTORE TEXAS POWER

Austin, Tex., Oct. 3 (AP)—Electric service was restored today to all of the central Texas communities affected by a strike at four hydro-electric plants of the Lower Colorado river authority. The Lampasas area, last to be connected, was without power 60 hours.

General Manager Max Starcke, who fired 90 of the striking AFL workers, said no veterans had been added to the pay roll, but that 14 applications from veterans were under consideration.

CLOSE AIRCRAFT PLANT

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 3 (AP)—Consolidated-Vultee's aircraft production plant was shut down today as an estimated 700 members of the AFL machinists' union went on strike and established a picket line.

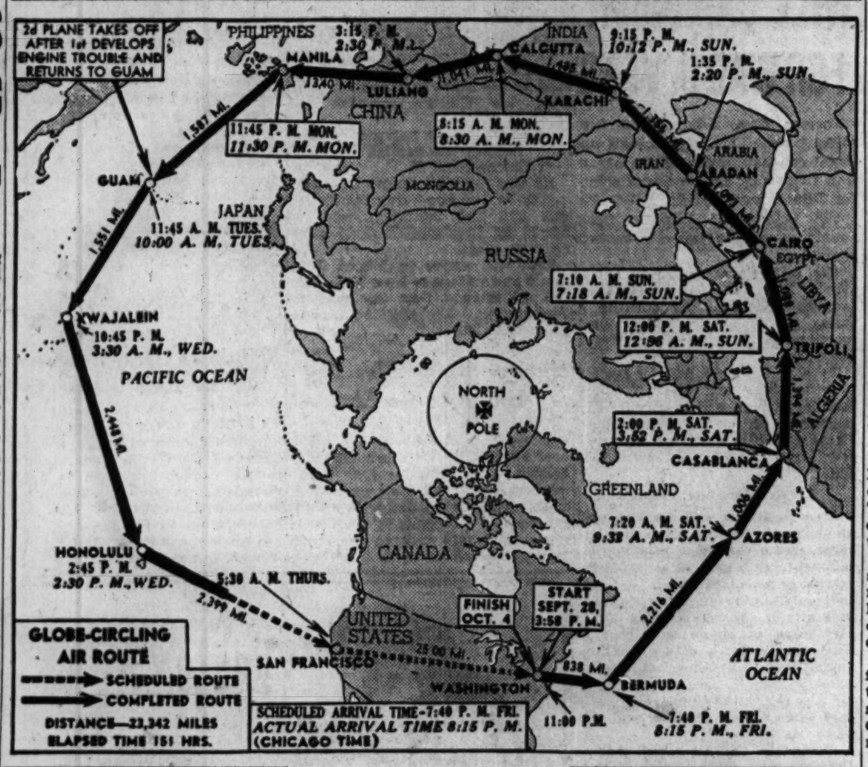
Globester Heading for San Francisco from Hawaii



HOLD HEART ATTACK, NOT FUMES, CAUSE OF TOOLMAKER'S DEATH

An inquest into the death of Harold Wood, 56, of 923 Ferdinand st., Oak Park, who collapsed at work yesterday in the Nelco Manufacturing company plant, 244 Chicago av., Oak Park, and died after being taken to the West Suburban hospital, will be opened at 11 a. m. today in the hospital.

A coroner's physician reported last night that Wood had died from a heart attack. Ten other employes of the firm, makers of tools and dies, were taken to the hospital for observation after Wood collapsed, because police believed fumes might have escaped into the plant from an oven used to case harden metals. All except one had been released last night.

Dr. William D. McNally, coroner's chemist and toxicologist, who examined Wood's body and questioned the other employes, said he found no evidence they had been affected by poisonous fumes.

MIAMI-BURBANK SPEED RECORD: 7 HRS., 53 MINS.

Burbank, Cal., Oct. 3 (AP)—An army C-59 four motor Constellation transport plane set a new record today for a flight here from Miami, Fla., covering the 2,355 miles in 7 hours, 53 minutes.

The nonstop hop slashed 2 hours and 17 minutes from the previous record of 10 hours, 10 minutes set, a Lockheed Aircraft company spokesman said, by an air transport command plane last spring.

The pilot, Maj. Joseph McKeown of Minneapolis, Minn., said the plane flew at an average speed of 299 miles per hour and at 14,000 feet altitude. Others aboard were Maj. James G. Haizlip of Miami, Master Sgt. Thomas F. Dowd, Elizabeth, N. J., crew chief, and Phil Jensen, Lockheed representative.

GLOBESTER HOPS FOR FRISCO; BIG HAWAII WELCOME

Makes Up Lost Time Over Pacific

HICKAM FIELD, Hawaii, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Globester winged its way across the wide Pacific today with excellent indications it would beat the announced time of 151 scheduled hours on the army transport command's first world girdling flight.

Hawaii gave a typical welcome when the big plane arrived at Hickam field at 9 a. m. Honolulu time [2:30 p. m. Chicago time] after a fast flight from tiny Kwajalein Island. Twenty-two released prisoners of war, among them, Col. Frank Nelson of Chicago, arrived on the Globester from Japanese camps.

Lt. Joe Peckarovich, 30, of Cleveland, O., the pilot, gunned the Globester over the 2,448 miles from Kwajalein in 11 hours and 55 minutes.

Too Early for Field

Peckarovich could have set the ship down an hour and a half earlier, but Hickam field wasn't ready for it and the C-54 had to stay upstairs until the scheduled arrival time.

Music, girls, and leis greeted the passengers when they hurried down the plane's steps for a two hour layover.

Service crews immediately began putting the Globester in shape for its 2,399 mile hop to San Francisco, and the big plane took off again at 11 a. m. [4:30 p. m. Chicago time]. It was scheduled to arrive at 2:30 a. m. Pacific standard time Thursday [5:30 a. m. Chicago time].

There will be a three hour stop at San Francisco.

148 Hours for Flight

The tentative schedule called for the flight to end at Washington, D. C., at 9 p. m., or in 148 hours instead of the originally planned 151.

Total distance flown by the Globester since it left Washington at 5 p. m. last Friday will be 23,147 miles.

GAS RATIONING PLAN IN TOLEDO ENDS AS OIL MEMBERS QUIT

Toledo, O., Oct. 3 [Special]—This city's gasoline rationing program, in force for the last 10 days, came to an abrupt end today with the dissolution of the rationing committee following withdrawal of its three oil industry members.

The committee had been composed of three representatives of the oil industry, three of the CIO Oil Workers' union, and three city officials. It had sought to limit gasoline sales to 14 approved filling stations and had issued 6,000 rationing cards to essential users.

After City Manager George N. Schoonmaker proclaimed all rationing cards void, a rush to buy gasoline tied up traffic in the vicinity of the 14 approved stations. A few other stations with gasoline on hand reopened for business, but most of the hundreds of other stations in the city had no gasoline.

A hearing in Common Pleas court tomorrow to test the constitutionality of the rationing system will proceed as scheduled, attorneys said, on the theory that city funds may have been illegally used to support the program.

GUNMEN ROBS 2 TEACHERS WHILE PUPILS LOOK ON

Pupils in two rooms at the Douglas elementary school, 32d st. and Calumet av., were terrified yesterday when a Negro carrying a revolver entered the kindergarten and the second grade and robbed the teachers.

Miss Grace Crumpton, Negro, of 11256 S. Carpenter st., gave up $1. The intruder took 35 cents from the purse of Miss Ethel Grosse, 7050 S. Union st., later abandoning the purse in the hall.

Miss Crumpton reported the robberies to Stanton av. police.

COAL CONTROLS EXTENDED TO 2 MORE DISTRICTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—Bituminous coal production in two more mining districts was placed under emergency controls by the solid fuels administration today as the result of spreading mine strikes.

The new districts are Ohio and the southern West Virginia-Virginia "smokeless" field.

Producers in these districts are prohibited from shipping coal to any consumer except hospitals, public utility plants, railroads and city transit systems, the Great Lakes, river and tidewater docks, and for use as fuel for ships and mine power plants.

Four Other Areas Listed

Mines in four districts—Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, eastern Kentucky, and northeastern Tennessee—were brought under the emergency distribution program yesterday.

Fortas said reports this morning showed 350 mines closed, 115,000 men idle, and an estimated daily loss of coal output of 675,000 tons, or 30 per cent of the nation's production.

Today's action followed an order for the diversion of more soft coal to the Great Lakes docks. Fortas said only nine weeks remain to fill Great Lakes quotas before the lake navigation season closes.

19 Million Tons Short

"Producers are 19,311,838 tons short of the 57,868,460 tons of coal that must be placed on the lake docks before navigation is suspended this fall if we are to meet the requirements of consumers in the northwest states who depend upon the lake docks for their fuel," Fortas explained.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, remained silent over the refusal of soft coal operators to talk over recognition of the foremen's union, a branch of UMW, district 50. There was a possibility the government may try to get the operators and Lewis together in a conference.

Close Steel Corp. Mines

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 3 (AP)—Two Uniontown area mines of the H. C. Frick Coke company, United States Steel corporation subsidiary, were closed today by pickets from the United Mine Workers and its affiliate, the United Clerical, Technical, and Supervisory Workers' union. Closing of the two pits left only two of 16 United States Steel mines still working—and the pickets asserted they would close these tonight.

Vichy Militia Chief Doomed; 'Made Nazi by a Handshake'

BY ROBERT SAGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Oct. 3—Joseph Darnand, 48, who was chief of Vichy's militia, was sentenced to death tonight by the high court of justice after a jury of 22 men and two women had found him guilty of collaborating with Germany after the defeat of France. The trial lasted less than six hours.

Joseph Darnand

Darnand admitted that perhaps he'd been wrong but insisted he believed he was acting for the good of a France that had been ruined by incompetent regimes.

"Believed I Was Serving"

"I loved my country and I believed I was serving it," he said. He insisted he had not played a double game but had worked openly with an overwhelmingly strong Germany because he thought that was the way France could gain a place in the future of Europe.

Blaming former Marshal Petain for his plight, Darnand said, "Petain represented for me a great man. He represented legality."

Pierre Mongibeaux, the presiding judge who had sentenced Petain a month ago, commented:

"What I can't understand is how a soldier like you who had fought valiantly against the Germans could go over to their side."

Won by a Handshake

Father Bruckberger, a Jesuit and Darnand's sole character witness, testified:

"Darnand has little culture. He is a man of action. The influence that was decisive for him was that of Petain. A handshake at Montoire was what put Darnand in a German uniform."

The court will begin trying Pierre Laval, chief of government in the Petain regime, tomorrow.

SENTENCE THREE YANKS TO PRISON FOR KILLING JAPS

TOKYO, Oct. 3 (AP)—Three American cavalry sergeants were convicted by a court martial today of manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting Sept. 15 of a Japanese sake shop owner and his son. Each was sentenced to ten years in prison at hard labor.

Sgt. Ray L. O'Roark

The three are Staff Sgt. Sherman C. Huffman, 19, Pittsfield, Ill.; Sgt. Ray L. O'Roark, 25, Los Angeles, Cal., and Sgt. John Nimits, 24, Wilmore, Pa. It was alleged that they shot Katsuzi Tanaka and his son, Osamu, 16, with rifles in the climax to a drinking bout in Tanaka's shop.

Division Judge Advocate Lt. Philip Matthews said that Huffman and O'Roark later commandeered a train at gun point, cleared its passengers out, and forced the motorman to take them back to their command post in Yokohama. Matthews said Hoffman and O'Roark at first contended they had been attacked by the Japanese.

Ex-GI of One Day Is Shot by Gas Station Robbers

Brown Ellis, 38, of Memphis, Tenn., who was discharged from the army Tuesday, was shot and wounded slightly in the groin yesterday during a holdup by two Negro robbers at a gasoline station at 1101 S. Wabash av. Ellis had attempted to run when he stepped from the washroom and saw the bandits. He was taken to Gardiner General hospital.

CONGRESS HELP ON SENIORITY ISSUE IS URGED

Hershey and Green Agree at Vets' Convention

BY GEORGE TAGGE

Agreeing that America's strength requires unity, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and Maj. Gen. Hershey of the selective service system yesterday said that congress must make its intent clear as to super-seniority in employment for World War II. veterans.

The AFL and draft leaders spoke before the Veterans of Foreign Wars on an issue that finds the V. F. W. apparently disposed to take the conservative view at its closing session today. Recently James W. Cannon, general counsel for the V. F. W., warned that super-seniority would tend to displace World War I. veterans in some jobs.

Must Obey Law, Hershey Says

Gen. Hershey said that thru his ruling that World War II. veterans have an absolute and unqualified right to their former jobs—super-seniority—he is merely administering the law as he understands it. If the law is bad, recourse is to change it and not to disobey it, he said.

America must remain the dominant force in the world, he said, because nature has just shown again that weakness is not tolerated.

"We must stay strong," he asserted. "That means we must be united. We must use all our own people. We must get 130 million Americans going in the same direction and not fighting each other. If we are wise, we will build a pattern that takes in both the veterans and those who were left at home by selective service."

Veteran Has Proved Worth

He agreed with those who say that the veteran wants nothing, but condemned those of this number who believe in their hearts that the veteran should not be given anything. The veteran must have equality of opportunity, which means what some call preference because it involves making up the time the soldier lost from civilian opportunities, he said.

"The veteran doesn't need real preference," Hershey said. "He was the best, and he comes back the best. He is the best we've got to build on for tomorrow. He has shown what he has in the hottest competition in the world."

Green Tells Union View

Green said that the solution of the problem is to provide sufficient employment for all Americans. Organized labor is determined that veterans get "at least an even break" when they return, he said. Hence AFL unions are waiving initiation fees to veterans, and have not charged dues to those who were members when they left for military service.

"The AFL agrees wholeheartedly with veterans' organizations that the seniority of men who left jobs to join the armed forces accumulated during their service," he said.

"With respect to veterans who never held a job before, the issue is in doubt, because of the complexities of industry and the seniority system itself. Labor will welcome a decision by congress clarifying the varied interpretations of the selective service act on this subject."

Green Condemns Bickering

"We think it is completely shameful that some of the nations which made such idealistic pledges during the war are now behaving like greedy spoilsmen," he added. "This is no time for petty bickering, for appeasement, or for seeking temporary advantage."

Approximately 400 resolutions sent in by 48 state conventions are now being studied by 16 committees. Many will reach the convention floor today.

Col. Alfred C. Oliver Jr., the "chaplain of Bataan," told delegates about his nine months in a Japanese prison camp. Rescued by American rangers from Cabanatuan prison Jan. 30, 1943, he said that 1,700 of our men died in six weeks because the Japs refused American doctors, medicines, and other help.

V. F. W. SHRAPNEL

The first crop of nominations for the two top Veterans of Foreign Wars offices was unopposed yesterday, but the field remains open until the election today. Nominees are Joseph M. Stack of Pittsburgh, Pa., senior vice commander, for commander-in-chief, and Louis E. Starr of Portland, Ore., junior vice commander, for Stack's present office. Stack is Allegheny county [Pa.] chief of detectives and Starr is an attorney.

Oscar E. Carlstrom of Aledo, Ill., attorney general for two terms during Republican administrations in Illinois, was nominated for judge advocate general. Others named were Lyall T. Beggs of Madison, Wis., a state legislator, and Basil Stockbridge of Atlanta, Ga.

As usual, Robert B. Handy Jr. of Washington, D. C., and Kansas City, Mo., is unopposed for reelection as adjutant general and quartermaster general. He has had these chores since 1923.

Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, resident commissioner of the Philippines, told delegates that peace in the Pacific will not last unless "every vestige of Japanese militarism is wiped out."

ILLINOIS LEGION WILL CAMPAIGN FOR WAR II. VETS

Former Gov. John Stelle last night boosted his bid for the national commandership of the American Legion by announcing a colorful Illinois membership drive. He spoke before the Legion's Cook county council in the city council chambers.

The Legion's campaign to enroll World War II. veterans will be launched Saturday by starting a series of downstate Legion post meetings to be followed by 12 area meetings.

To post meetings will be invited new veterans and their families, families of men still in service, and members of civic organizations. These gatherings will be described as "Homecoming for GI Joe and GI Jane."

Lively Meetings Planned

Area meetings will feature well known dance bands, drum and bugle corps, and a variety of other entertainment. Speakers of national renown are promised and it was said that outstanding heroes of this war will attend. Illinois Comdr. Omar McMackin of Salem said that at least two winners of the congressional medal of honor will be on hand.

"The sky is the limit," McMackin said when asked the numerical goal of the drive.

McMackin said that 1946 will be the greatest year in Legion history. He said that 700,000 World War II. veterans have been enrolled in the Legion.

Downstate campaign caravans will move into Cook county. Each of nine districts here will have the equivalent of a downstate area rally.

Reports Many New Members

"World War II. veterans are joining us by the hundreds of thousands," Stelle said.

"They are coming in with us to serve their country with the same high ideals and purposes which brought us together 26 years ago.

"Your state officers are perfecting an organization for your district. They will place in your hands everything necessary to call attention of the new veterans to the Legion. The national organization is coöperating. Downstate will make a terrific showing. I'm expecting Cook county to equal or excell it."

Stelle conceded that Cook county Legionnaires face more difficulty in mobilizing returned veterans. Downstaters know when youths of a town get out of uniform, but in the metropolitan area it will take block-by-block surveys to compile the information, he said.

MIDWEST YOUTH WINS $1,000 V.F.W. AUXILIARY PRIZE

REDS ASK STATE RULE OF MINES IN BRITISH ZONE

BERLIN, Oct. 3 (AP)—The soviet controled headquarters of the German Communist party today urged that the state take over operation of mines and heavy industries in the British ruled Rhineland and Ruhr.

The suggestion was contained in a manifesto which appeared on the front page of Deutsche Volkszeitung, edited under Red army supervision.

The manifesto said that the Communist party of the Ruhr also proposed that the provincial administration take over "all real property of active Nazis, war mongers, and great estate owners such as has already been done in the east [soviet] zone."

TRUMAN URGES QUICK PASSAGE OF SEAWAY BILL

Cites Its Advantages in Special Message

BY PHILIP DODD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3—Speedy passage of legislation authorizing construction of the 421 million dollar St. Lawrence river seaway and power project was urged by President Truman today in a special message to congress.

Identical resolutions were introduced in the senate and house yesterday providing for American approval of the 1941 agreement between the United States and Canada which provided for the St. Lawrence project.

Mr. Truman based his support of the project on:

1. Cheap water transportation.
2. Employment opportunities.
3. Cheap electric power for northeastern states.
4. Joint defense and added prosperity for the United States and Canada.

Sees Many Benefits

"The St. Lawrence seaway," the President said in his message, "will make it possible to utilize our war expanded factories and shipping facilities in the development of international coöperation and enlarging world commerce. New and increasing opportunities for production and employment by private enterprise can be expected from this cheap water transportation. . . .

"The completion of the seaway will bring many benefits to our great neighbor and ally on the north. The experience of two wars and of many years of peace has shown beyond question that the prosperity and defense of Canada and of the United States are closely linked together.

"By development of our natural water power resources, we can look forward with certainty to greater use of electricity in the home, in the factory, and on the farm. . . ."

Believes Opposition Wanes

The senate seaway resolution, introduced by Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] and nine other senators, is before the senate foreign relations committee. The identical house resolution, offered by Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.], will be considered by the house rivers and harbors committee.

Members of the committees which will consider the resolutions today refused to predict the action of either body, altho one senator said opposition to the St. Lawrence project has subsided because the pending resolutions would leave the question of perpetual navigation rights on the Great Lakes to future treaties.

Sen. Aiken [R., Vt.], a sponsor of the senate resolution, said in an interview today completion of the seaway will make it possible to ship Labrador iron ore to the Great Lakes after the exhaustion of Minnesota ore deposits. Consequently, he said, the project will "save the lives" of steel mills on the Great Lakes.

FIRST STORY OF RUSSIAN RULE IN BALTIC AREA

Tribune Writer Bares Red Repression of Liberty

has become as dreaded in Finland as was the czar's Cheka or the bolsheviks' OGPU in Russia. Finns unsympathetic to communism charge that their native constabulary has actually become a branch Red enforcement agency, taking orders from Moscow and following the heavy fisted tactics of the Russian police before and after dethronement of the czar.

Reliable sources reported in Helsinki that membership in the Communist party now is a requisite to membership in the reorganized police. The force was said to number about 300 with 2,000 unofficial agents as collaborators in making Finland safe for the Red flag. They also are aided by the OGPU operating under cover.

High posts in the constabulary have been awarded to those Finns who acted in war time against their own government in favor of Stalin's internationalism, much as Quisling worked for Hitler internationalism against the foreign policy of the Norwegian government. The main difference is that Finland lost its war against Russia whereas Norway, as an allied nation, won its war against Germany.

Real Head Is Communist

The nominal head of the national police is Otto Brusiin, a young lawyer heretofore inactive in politics. The actual commander is said to be Aimo Alltonen, a former carpenter, who returned to Finland in 1938 as a graduate of the Red army school in Moscow. His course included training in organizing Red guards [militant Communists or communist 5th columnists in countries outside Russia]. His graduation and return to his native country took place a year before Russia attacked Finland.

The assistant chief of the police bureau is a Finn who was parachuted by the Russians behind the lines in 1943 as a spy. Near Tampere, in central Finland, he shot a policeman who asked to see his identification papers. During the rest of the war he was in hiding, with the Finnish newspapers offering 50,000 marks [approximately $10,000 at the pre-war rate of exchange] for his arrest.

All Schooled in Russia

Head of another police bureau is a graduate of the Lenin political academy and espionage in Russia. He was arrested in Finland before the outbreak of the war and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment.

A reliable informant said that all the important police posts are held by Finns who have been schooled in Russia. Some were sentenced by the Finns to life imprisonment for treason before the outcome of the war changed the conception of what constituted a crime.

The police department is under the minister of the interior, Y. K. Leino, who served a prison sentence in the '30s when communist activities in Finland were a violation of the law. In an interview he boasted that he had not fought Russia but had deserted from Finnish reinforcements being moved to the front.

This is the character of police deporting to Russia nationalist groups that Stalin does not want on his frontiers. It is arresting Finns suspected of loyalty to Finland's independence as promised in the terms of its armistice with Russia and Great Britain a year ago.

British on Control Board

Three paragraphs here about the British.

They are the junior and important members of a so-called control commission encamped in three Helsinki hotels to enforce the armistice terms. The commission is headed by Col. Gen. A. Shdanov who initiated the Red labor enslavement deportations and confiscations in Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania.

A request for interviews with the Russian and British heads of the control commission was made thru formal channels, thru the Finnish foreign office. The British said they would be glad to see me socially but that for an interview arrangements must be approved by the Russians. The Russians said they would see me if it were requested by the Finn foreign office. The Finn foreign office, under Russian domination, said it would not make the request of the Russians. One more paragraph about the British.

The British have a courier plane once a week between Stockholm and Helsinki. It must obtain a permit from the Russians in advance of each trip.

Thus it will be seen that the name allied control commission is a misnomer. It is really a soviet control commission.

Reds Given Arms

Returning to the subject of the police. During a casual chat Finnish army officers said that the constabulary was issuing rifles and ammunition to civilian members of the Finnish Communist party. One officer said he had seen weapons being handed out from a police truck by policemen. Leino had said there were about 20,000 members of his party in this country of 3,800,000 population.

The leaders of the Communist party, according to the army officers, are graduates of the Red army school in Moscow. These 20,000 are the pointing fingers guiding police to Finns suspected of nationalism.

Some of the prisoners have been in jail almost a year without charges being filed against them. Arrests and searches are being made without warrants.

This reporter's hotel room telephone was tapped by police, according to a reliable informant. Code messages were used on the phone to arrange street corner appointments with acquaintances who would not mention their name when calling. Some feared being seen with an American newspaper man.

Communists Are Outwitted

In a quarter of a century of reporting in America, this reporter had no similar experience except once. That was on an assignment investigating Illinois Democratic corruption during the illness, and following the death of the late Gov. Henry Horner, when G-men traced the numbers called from a Springfield hotel room and tried to peruse the writer's telegraphic file on orders from Washington New Dealers.

In Helsinki, as in Springfield, the informants used ingenuity and found means of communication with a minimum risk of detection. In Finland it was even easier, notwithstanding the reputation of the Communists for all-seeing eyes, because the patriots, as they call themselves, have counter-espionage.

Some of the stories about the harried groups in Finland will be carried in future dispatches with some accounts of the Russification in other Baltic states.

[Another dispatch in this series will appear soon.]

Make Clean Sweep of Robbers

Mrs. Mary Burke showing her technique with a broom as her son, David, demonstrates his pickle jar wielding prowess in routing two would-be holdup men. [TRIBUNE Photo]

"'Twas Nothing"

Mrs. Mary McHugh Burke, 75, who learned to use a broom in County Mayo, Ireland, had no time from her housework yesterday for the admiring policemen, reporters, and neighbors who wanted to hear more about how she swept the two robbers out of her son's delicatessen at 1143 W. 95th st. Tuesday night.

"It was nothing," she said, "and I'd do it again."

Mrs. Burke was in a back room when one of the bandits pressed a revolver against the back of her son, David, 48, as he was reaching for a jar of pickles.

"This is a stickup," he said.

"That's what you think," said Burke, and raised his voice, "O, Ma."

Burke hit the bandit with the pickle jar and his mother belabored both robbers with her broomstick. They fled to an automobile at 96th st. and Racine av. as Mrs. Burke shouted, "Git!"

REDS EXPECTED TO AID AUSTRIAN CLAIM FOR TYROL

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 3 [Reuters]—Russian support for Austria's claim to the return of the southern Tyrol—lost to Italy after the last war—was expected here tonight. A demand for the return of the lost province was made today by Austrian Chancellor Dr. Karl Renner.

Renner addressed a rally together with spokesmen from three Austrian parties—the Catholic People's party, the Socialists, and the Communists.

"The annexation [of the southern Tyrol by Italy] can never be justified, even if in the meantime the Italian resettlement policy and the treasonable pact between Hitler and Mussolini of 1939 [providing for population transfers] have brought some changes in the national composition of the country," Renner said.

Chief Communist spokesman was Franz Honner, minister for the interior in Renner's cabinet. Honner asserted the Tyrolese became the first people in Europe to bear the full brunt of Fascist persecution. The Communists were expected to use this claim in their campaign for next month's elections.

30,805 CAPTIVES OF JAPS ARE ON THE WAY HOME

TOKYO, Oct. 3 (AP)—All of the 30,805 known American and allied war prisoners and civilian internees from camps in Japan and Korea have been evacuated.

The recovered-personnel section of the adjutant general's office, army forces of the Pacific, reported today that all are en route to their homes via the Manila clearing station. Listed as dead were 1,390 others, and 212 as yet unaccounted for were listed as "stragglers."

DIES OF HEART ATTACK IN HOME

Andrew Swedean, 69, of 2950 Fillmore st., suffered a fatal heart attack yesterday at his home. Firemen of rescue squad 7, under the direction of Capt. George McLennan, worked over Swedean for an hour.

POLICE DISPERSE 1,700 STUDENTS; REBUKE LEADERS

About 1,700 Calumet High school pupils were dispersed by police at their school and at the Chicago Vocational school, 8023 Normal av., yesterday in what the police said was an anti-Negro demonstration. There are about 30 Negro pupils in the school.

The police, under Acting Capt. Barth J. Moran of Gresham station, asked the students to return to classes. Most of them attended the afternoon session, school authorities said. Ten or 12 leaders, taken to the Gresham station, were rebuked by Moran and Thomas Wright of the mayor's committee on race relations.

"A better brand of Americanism is called for," Moran told the students.

About 75 per cent of Englewood High school pupils who struck last Thursday were back in classes.

AIM TO QUESTION MacARTHUR ON PEARL HARBOR

Prober Reports General Has Big Story

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3—Questioning of Gen. MacArthur by the congressional committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster became a virtual certainty today as reports reached the capital indicating that the general has highly important evidence bearing upon the responsibility for American unpreparedness in December, 1941.

The committee, which is expected to fly to the Pacific late this month, may extend its plane trip to Tokyo in order to question MacArthur, it was said. While there, it may also examine former Jap premiers Konoye and Tojo and perhaps the two envoys, Kurusu and Nomura, who were in Washington at the time of the attack.

A prominent committee member said it was his understanding MacArthur "has a hell of a story to tell" and is willing to give it at an open hearing. MacArthur was in command at Manila when the war broke and remained with the defending forces until ordered to Australia by President Roosevelt.

Block Marshall Medal

Meanwhile, Rep. Miller [R., Neb.], put a stop to a move in the house which he termed "an attempt to prejudge" the Pearl Harbor case. He objected to an unanimous consent request by Chairman May [D., Ky.], for immediate consideration of a resolution providing for a special gold medal for Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, and lauding his "initiative, wisdom, and foresight."

"The army report on Pearl Harbor cast reflections upon Gen. Marshall's part in the events leading up to the attack," Miller noted. "I think this resolution is premature and designed to exonerate one of the parties who stands accused by his own war department of neglect to forward adequate warnings to the commanding general at Pearl Harbor. Until the congressional investigation makes Gen. Marshall's responsibility clear, I shall oppose this action."

May withdrew the resolution.

Fights Bushing of Quiz

Scenting similar administration moves to rush the investigation, Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.], a member of the Pearl Harbor committee, served notice that he would fight any program designed to hurry the committee into hearings before "the case is complete."

"This is the greatest trial in modern history," he said in an interview. "The evidence is mountainous and the ultimate results will depend upon the degree of preparation for it. I shall insist that sufficient time be taken to insure the fullest and complete exploration of the attack. If it takes six or eight months, that will not take too long."

The investigation resolution sponsored by Chairman Barkley [D., Ky.], calls for completion of the hearings and a report to congress by next Jan. 3. Barkley has insisted the job can be finished in this period but Keefe said he thought it would be utterly impossible to meet this deadline and was sure that congress would extend it.

Scoffs at Deadline

"I will resist any attempt to force things thru to meet a deadline which would necessitate the passing over of material evidence," he declared. "It would be better in such a case not to start an investigation.

"I want to stress that members of the committee are not precluded from conducting their own investigations and calling their own witnesses. It will be the duty of the counsel [former Atty. Gen. William D. Mitchell] to make his own investigation and assume the burden of presenting the evidence but it is very important that the majority not be permitted to exclude any witness summoned by any member. I understand that an agreement to this effect has been reached and it must be kept.

"This will all take time and the American people will want it to take time. The reputations of a President of the United States, members of his cabinet, and military leaders are at stake. Not a fragment of evidence can be omitted."

Charges Exiled Yugoslav Rule Squandered Funds

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 3 [Reuters]—Gen. Sreten Zujevic, finance minister in Marshal Tito's provisional government, today charged that former Yugoslav emigre governments have squandered the greater part of the nation's funds on supplies for Gen. Mihailovitch's Chetnik army. The Chetniks fought Tito's forces.

GIVE ONE 'GOOD DOSE,' SLAYER CRIES IN CHAIR

Columbus, O., Oct. 3 (AP)—Henry William Hagert, 20 year old slayer of twin brothers, died in Ohio penitentiary's electric chair tonight after asking for a "good dose—it's good for what ails me."

Hagert, former inmate of a boys' industrial school, was executed for slaying Charles and James Collins, 13, on Aug. 13, 1943, near Cleveland shortly after his release from City hospital's psychopathic ward there. The twins hitch-hiked a ride with Hagert on the way to a golf course and the youth said he shot them "for the heck of it."

The youth, who had been playing "It's Roundup Time in Texas" on a phonograph in his cell, entered the death chamber quietly, sat down without assistance and smiled faintly in apparent resignation.

"Give me a good dose—it's good for what ails me. Good-bye," he called just before 1,850 volts hit his body.

VET, HELD PRISONER 2½ YEARS BY NAZIS, FOUND HANGED IN TREE

Richard Hansen, 41, an army veteran who was a prisoner of the Germans for two and one-half years, was found hanged in a tree yesterday on the Big Oaks golf course, 6600 Gunnison av., Norwood Park township.

He disappeared three weeks ago from his home, then at 4040 Keystone av. Police said he had been dead several days. Hansen, police said, tied the rope to a limb 50 feet above ground, then dropped a dozen feet. His body, high above ground, was discovered by Dale Bode, 9, of 5101 Normandy av., and Paul Davis, 8, of 5107 Normandy.

Hansen's widow, Eleanor, told police he had served nearly four years in the army, and that he was captured in north Africa. He was freed this year, she said, and discharged several months ago.

RED DEMAND FOR 4 NATION RULE OF JAPAN BARED

Presented to Byrnes at London Parley

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—A Russian demand that Gen. MacArthur's rule in Japan be replaced by a four nation control government was presented to the United States during the last hours of the conference of foreign ministers, the Moscow radio said today.

The demand, Moscow said, was made in a letter handed to United States Secretary of State Byrnes yesterday as the foreign ministers of the United States, Russia, Britain, France, and China deadlocked over procedure, ended unsuccessfully their first attempt to write a European peace.

See Ultimate Agreements

The disclosure came in the midst of these developments:

1. Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov, French Foreign Minister Bidault, and Byrnes separately expressed confidence that ultimate agreement would be reached on peace treaties for Europe.

2. Byrnes and Molotov brought into the open a disagreement over whether President Truman, Premier Stalin, and Prime Minister Attlee had agreed at Potsdam that five nations could participate in discussions of European peace treaties. That was the issue which deadlocked the conference.

Molotov at his press conference was asked about the reported agreement of Sept. 11 in the council conference which would have permitted all the foreign ministers to take part in the peace discussion.

"You show it to me," he retorted. "Could there be such an agreement without signatures?"

3. Byrnes announced the deputies of the council would continue work in London on some aspects of the European peace which were not involved in the procedural dispute.

Political Problem in Japan

The Russian views on the governing of Japan, said the Moscow radio, were that the allies who defeated Japan—the United States, Britain, China and Russia—should "shoulder the common responsibility" for control of the conquered Pacific nation.

Formation of a far-Pacific consultative commission to direct long range policy for Japan already has been agreed upon by the United States, Britain, China, and Russia.

But the broadcast asserted "the soviet government considers that the creation of such an allied advisory committee must be preceded by the formation by the governments of the four allied powers of a control government for Japan."

While the military phase of the war and the disarmament of Japan continued, the broadcast said, there was reason for concentrating control in the allied commander in chief, Gen. MacArthur. Now the allies are faced with problems of a political, economic and financial character which call for joint control, it added.

"Not Discussed in Council"

In his press conference Molotov did not refer to any letter to Byrnes, but remarked that "unfortunately, we did not discuss the question of an allied control commission for Japan" at the foreign ministers' conference.

This question, like the dispute over procedure, will be turned over to the heads of governments to be resolved by diplomatic negotiations or at a future meeting of the three heads of state.

Molotov flew to Moscow tonight, bearing possible recommendations which may break the deadlock on European peace settlements. He was optimistic that a zone of compromise would be found. Byrnes left for Washington, D. C., equally confident that some solution could be found, perhaps after Molotov has conferred with Stalin.

Molotov asserted that Truman, Stalin, and Attlee had agreed at Potsdam to confine immediate discussions of peace treaties to countries which had signed armistices.

It was on this argument that he based his opposition to permitting France and China to participate in discussions of the treaties with the defeated axis satellites, Hungary, Romania, and Bulgaria.

MacArthur Silent on Red Aim

TOKYO, Oct. 4 [Thursday] (AP)—Gen. MacArthur's aides said today the Moscow radio report of a Russian demand for a four-power control government in Japan posed a diplomatic rather than a military topic. The aides, therefore, added headquarters felt unqualified to comment on the report.

PATTON INSISTS HE DID A GOOD JOB IN BAVARIA

BAD TOELZ, Germany, Oct. 3 (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton Jr., ousted from command of the 3d army and from his post as administrator of Bavaria by Gen. Eisenhower after charges had been made that he was slow about denazifying the area, issued a new statement today defending his course.

He reiterated that he would have been un-American if he had not done his utmost to prevent needless peace time deaths of Germans in his area, the eastern half of the American occupied one.

His written statement follows:

"I have received no official notification of my transfer to a new command, but I expect to receive such notification shortly.

Tells of Goal in Bavaria

"My only comment is to reiterate the statements which I made to the press at this headquarters Sept. 25."

[The Sept. 25 conference was called after Eisenhower directed him to clarify criticized statements at a conference on Sept. 22, when Patton said some former Nazi party members might have to be continued in administrative posts for efficiency.]

"At that time, I said it was my considered opinion that I was carrying out the directives of Gen. Eisenhower with the same vigor and loyalty as I had carried out those which resulted in victories at Casablanca, El Guettar, Sicily and here, and that I believed I had been responsible for the deaths in battle of as many Germans as almost any one.

"I pointed out at the time that I should be un-American if I did not do my utmost to prevent unnecessary deaths after the war was over and insure ourselves that the women, children and old men of Bavaria would not perish from hunger and cold this winter."

He's Smiling and Pleasant

Several hours before the statement was issued, Patton met correspondents. He was pleasant and smiling as he said he welcomed command of the 15th army, to which Gen. Eisenhower transferred him, altho the 15th is a military skeleton with a few special troops and Patton's job will be to supervise the writing of the history of the American campaigns in Germany. He has long been interested in military history and study of tactics. He also writes poetry.

Often in trouble thru outspokenness, Patton weighed every word. He said he would turn over command of the 3d army to his successor, Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott Jr., at a farewell ceremony on Sunday.

Aide Defends Record

In another statement for the record, Patton's chief of staff, Col. Paul D. Harkins, Boston, Mass., said he felt conditions in Bavaria compared favorably "with any other district in Germany in respect to denazification, care of the stateless and displaced persons, and in the restoration of sufficient agricultural facilities to prevent starvation or mulcting of American taxpayers to feed people who otherwise would starve."

MEXICO RATIFIES WORLD PACT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 3 [AP]—Mexico ratified the united nations charter today.

U. S. TO CONSULT WITH MAJOR ALLIED POWERS ON POLICY FOR JAPAN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson said today the United States was moving to regularize and make effective a system of consultations with the major allies on the governing of Japan.

Acheson was asked at his news conference whether a statement by Secretary of State Byrnes on Japanese policy revised the original directive sent to Gen. MacArthur. Byrnes had said in London that the United States would agree to establishment of a far eastern commission to formulate allied Japanese policy. The original policy directive sent to MacArthur said that altho every effort would be made to satisfy the principal allies, the policies of the United States would govern.

Acheson said the United States had been moving in the direction of setting up efficient machinery for consulting with the other allies. He previously had indicated that such machinery was not set up immediately because the war ended sooner than expected.

Lt. [j. g.] E. J. Renner

Lt. Renner wrote to her and to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Renner, 764 George av., Aurora, from a hospital where he was taken after being picked up by a navy plane.

He said that he and eight others from the minesweeper managed to get on the raft and drifted without food or water. In that time five of the eight died, the letter said. Lt. Renner said he expected to be home on leave soon. The Renners have a daughter, Patty Ann, 15 months old.

U.S. TAKES LOOK AT JEWISH CAMP; FINDS ALL WELL

Inhabitants Healthy and Not Confined

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 3 (AP)—A group of American army officials, headed by Maj. Gen. H. R. Bull, deputy chief of staff to Gen. Eisenhower, inspected Zeilsheim Jewish displaced persons camp today and were told that even the best camp was only a temporary solution for the homeless Jews.

A large banner with the words, "Palestine—the Only Solution to the Jewish Problem," greeted the American party.

The visit to the camp, operated by the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, was made four days after President Truman made public a report in which Earl G. Harrison, American representative on the inter-governmental refugee committee, charged Jews in displaced persons camps were being "treated as the Nazis treated them, except that we do not exterminate them."

What They Found

The generals found at Zeilsheim that:

The average daily food ration is 2,300 calories, compared to 1,280 that German civilians get in Frankfurt. It is supplemented by two Red Cross prisoner of war parcels a month.

In their living quarters each Jew has an average of 50 square feet of floor space and additional buildings that have just been vacated by the Germans provide even more commodious facilities.

Altho the majority of the inmates are survivors of nazi torture camps their health level is excellent.

Plenty of Clothing

A German tailoring shop in the village has been requisitioned and 40 Jewish girls are at work making additional winter clothing.

The bedding is more than adequate for the winter. Overcoats and other spare clothing are available.

There are enough stoves available to heat all the buildings.

Every Jew qualified for such work by experience or training has been given a job in UNRRA offices in Frankfurt and efforts are being made to find employment to keep the others fully occupied.

There are no guards at the camp and no fences or barbed wire. Jews circulate freely within a three mile radius.

The camp has a growing library, well stocked with American and Jewish newspapers.

A camp theatrical group writes and produces its own plays and other recreational facilities are being expanded.

British Air Borne Troops Land at Palestine Port

JERUSALEM, Oct. 3 (AP)—Several thousand troops of the British 6th air borne division disembarked at Haifa today from the 15,000 ton mail liner Dunnotar Castle as tension persisted between Arabs and Jews in Palestine. Stone throwing incidents were reported in Jaffa and the Tel Aviv area.

SOUTH'S FLAGS RAISED BY GIs LAID TO PRANKS

Mississippi's Emblem Hoisted Off Tokyo

BY DONALD STARR
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Oct. 4—Nelson Levings is returning to Mississippi with the reputation of having publicized his state far beyond the ken of most of its voters, who did not reward his sideshow campaign for lieutenant governor by giving him the Democratic nomination when he was a civilian.

Having failed in that campaign, in which he stumped the state on a white truck equipped with an amplifying system, Lt. Comdr. Levings turned to a new stunt: He hoisted the state flag of Mississippi on the mast of the battleship Mississippi just before the surrender ceremony in Tokyo bay. Mississippi's flag of three blue, white, and red horizontal stripes bears in one corner a reproduction of the battle flag of the confederacy—crossed blue bars bearing a total of 13 stars, all on a field of red.

Stunt Shows Signs of Wear

Altho this was frowned on by many naval officers, they conceded it had been done before and even went so far as to suggest to Levings that the timeworn stunt was getting tiresome.

He was not the first to pursue the practice, which seems to be popular with a limited number of men from southern states.

Back on New Britain in 1943 an unforgotten Texan raised the Lone Star flag as an indication that Texas, too, was in the war.

South's Emblem Often Hoisted

The confederate flag has also been a favorite with the undiscouraged funsters. It was raised over almost every captured island in the Pacific at one time or another, including Okinawa.

The southerners were still seeking publicity when they arrived at Atsugi air field for the first landings in Japan, but they were somewhat taken aback when they found the Stars and Stripes already flying from a hangar.

Women Cry as Moslems Board Train for Mecca

JERUSALEM, Oct. 3 [Reuters]—Weeping Moslem women in black veils lined the railway line for several hundred yards here today to bid farewell to their menfolk, bound by train for the long pilgrimage to the holy city of Mecca, Saudi Arabia.

TRUMAN GETS ATTLEE REPLY ON PALESTINE

Invasion Threat Seen

LONDON, Oct. 4 [Reuters]—Tens of thousands of Jews in Europe will try to fight their way into Palestine unless the British government acts soon to give them refuge in a national home, says an article in the News Chronicle this morning, quoting a member of the Jewish Agency for Palestine here.

"There is no doubt," the article continues, "that if the Jews receive no acceptable alternative a mass invasion of Palestine will take place with thousands of Jews armed and desperate, determined to land and lose their lives rather than be deported. Zaslani [the agency member] said that the real problem which faces Britain in Palestine now is one which can lead to war.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—The White House said today that the Palestine problem still was in "the diplomatic stage."

Press Secretary Ross told his news conference that President Truman has received a communication from Prime Minister Attlee but could not say whether or when it will be made public.

Attlee's communication, a telegram, presumably replied to President Truman's letter of Aug. 31 relating to admission of Jewish refugees to Palestine. Sen. McMahon [D., Conn.] told the senate yesterday Mr. Truman asked that 100,000 of these European refugees be permittted to immigrate, but that the British had rejected the proposal.

"Still Under Discussion."

Ross said the Attlee communication came to the President's desk some time yesterday after Ross' morning news conference in which he said no communication had been received.

The contents, Ross said, are not being disclosed now and the whole matter is "still under discussion."

In the senate, sharp words were voiced against British policy and demands made that Palestine be opened wide to Jewish immigration.

"War problems are no longer a factor," Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.] told a reporter.

Wagner was co-sponsor with Sen. Taft [R., O.] of a resolution last year declaring for the opening of Palestine and establishment of a Jewish commonwealth. It called on the government to demand of the British that they repudiate a white paper which limited Jewish immigration.

Arabs Threaten Trouble

The resolution was shelved, however, due to fears of upsetting the Arabs in and near Palestine during the war.

The Arab league served notice today on the United States that no change can occur in Palestine immigration regulations without the knowledge and participation of the Moslem nations. Four representatives of the league presented this statement to Acting State Secretary Acheson.

Senator after senator took the floor late yesterday to applaud what Sen. McMahon [D., Conn.] related was President Truman's word to Prime Minister Attlee "of his desire to remove 100,00 Jewish refugees from concentration camps in occupied Germany so that they may begin life anew in Palestine."

McMahon called this "a magnificent gesture" but said the British had turned it down cold.

ARGENTINA ENDS POLICE GUARD AT UNIVERSITY

Allows Strikers to Quit Barricaded Buildings

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 3 (AP)—Police began withdrawing tonight from positions around the University of Buenos Aires, where hundreds of students and professors had barricaded themselves in a protest against reimposition of a national state of siege by Argentina's military regime.

Unofficial sources said the withdrawal order, allowing the students and professors to leave the buildings without incident, was issued to avoid possible outbreaks of violence during the night.

30,000 in Strike

Some 30,000 students in the nation's six major universities joined the protest. Those barricaded here had remained firm despite suspension of water and light services to the buildings at noon today.

The state of siege was reimposed by President Edelmiro Farrell's government after an abortive uprising at Cordoba, and the subsequent arrest of hundreds of leading Argentines.

Farrell had warned the students to stay out of politics or have their schools closed. Their occupation of the Buenos Aires university buildings and the nation-wide student strike followed.

Strict censorship was slapped on Argentine newspapers and agencies, which received written orders—issued under the state of siege—to publish no word of the student strike.

An authoritative source said the United States embassy had formally protested to the Argentine foreign office against restrictions imposed on press communications abroad.

Ernesto Carreras, business manager of the Buenos Aires afternoon newspaper Critica, told the authorities his newspaper would take no notice of the orders to the Argentine papers.

Morning Papers Obey

But morning papers, cautioned by telephone yesterday, appeared without word of the newest passive resistance movement against the government.

[A Montevideo dispatch quoted Santiago Nudelman, Radical leader who fled Argentina, as saying the military government's secret police had a list of 500 opposition leaders who were not to be permitted to leave the country.]

AMERICAS SLAP AT ARGENTINA; DELAY RIO TALK

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—The United States led the western hemisphere today in delivering a new diplomatic slap at the military clique which is governing Argentina.

In tough language, this government told its good neighbors to the south that the present Argentine regime was a bad neighbor, and recommended that:

1. The inter-American conference scheduled to open Oct. 20 at Rio De Janeiro—with Argentina participating—be postponed.

"Earliest Possible Moment"

2. The other American republics proceed without Argentina to draft a hemisphere defense treaty—the object of the Rio conference—and to sign it at the Brazilian capital "at the earliest possible moment."

3. The other American republics carry on consultations "in respect to the Argentine situation."

Reaction from south of the border was immediate. A dispatch from Brazil said the conference had been postponed. It was also learned there that President Getulio Vargas had abruptly postponed a scheduled visit Oct. 12 with Gen. Edelmiro Farrell, president of the Argentine regime.

Expected to Concur

There was little doubt that the other American republics would quickly agree to the postponement of the Rio conference and to the other United States proposals. Three Latin American ambassadors in Washington had suggested delaying the conference yesterday.

Acting Secretary of State Acheson disclosed the United States view on the Argentine situation. Twice during his 30 minute news conference he said the United States believed Argentina not only had failed to fulfill its hemisphere commitments, but had repudiated them.

President of Brazil Says He Won't be Candidate

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 3 (AP)—President Getulio Vargas tonight reaffirmed to 40,000 supporters that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself. Addressing a torchlight parade, Vargas said: "I will preside at the elections and will leave the government to whoever is elected." The crowd had marched to the palace to ask Vargas to abandon plans for the Dec. 2 elections and continue in office.

JAPAN WANTS TO SWAP SILK, RAYON FOR FOOD

Will Ask for Barter to Avert Hunger

TOKYO, Oct. 4 [Thursday]—(AP)—Japan planned today to ask world-wide aid thru the barter system to dispel the threat of winter hunger in the war-wrecked nation and Japanese Communists said their party wants to "rid the country of mikadoism."

Nipponese newsmen, taking full advantage of Gen. MacArthur's order freeing the Japanese press, turned light on conditions in the country's prisons where leaders of liberal and communist political thought were tortured.

American forces today extended their occupation of the conquered country with first landings on Hokkaido, the northernmost home island. A regimental combat team of the 77th infantry division took over at Hakodate. The remainder of the division is scheduled to enter Otaru and Sapporo tomorrow.

Swap Silk for Food

The Domei news agency reported Japan soon would ask the allies for permission to trade silk and rayon for the foodstuffs of other nations, acting at the request of sectional chiefs of the offices of regional superintendents-general.

The Japanese already have asked allied occupation headquarters for permission to receive salt and rice from Korea in exchange for about 75,000 tons of coal to be delivered monthly from Kyushu Island mines.

Gen. MacArthur reminded the Japanese government again that allied occupation forces were the supreme authority in Korea. His reminder came in a sharp notice that the government's promotions of certain Nipponese officials being held over temporarily in southern Korea "are ineffective."

The first sign of revival of the jingoistic Black Dragon society and 100 other former secret Japanese patriotic societies will bring quick American counteraction, occupation authorities said.

Favor Red Revolution

Regarding Japanese political prisoners, Domei Reporter Kay Tateishi told of visiting the Fuchu prison, 13 miles west of Tokyo, and interviewing Kyushi Tokuda, Shiro Mitamura, and Yoshio Shiga, Japanese Communists, who said they were eager for the allies to order their release.

The Japanese prisoners and two Koreans, Lee Kung Hun and Kim Chun Hai, related how 10,000 Communists, arrested in April, 1929, were beaten with baseball bats and tortured with burning incense sticks forced under their fingernails. Finally all but 1,200 were freed.

"All three Japanese Communists expressed a desire to take an active role in communist activity now," Tateishi said, adding that the leaders listed the objective of the party in Japan as the distribution of all state imperial land to the people and riddance of the country of "mikadoism and the emperor system of government."

"They said it could only be brought about thru revolution and that blood must flow," Tateishi said.

"I don't think he's really sick, but that young doctor did have some wonderful war experiences."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Oct. 4—Battle of Germantown

A DENSE fog and a drunken officer affected the course of history on Oct. 4, 1777.

The British had just taken Philadelphia, but to hold the city thru the winter, Gen. William Howe realized he had to control the Delaware river. He detached part of his army to reduce the forts which blocked the river below the city. Gen. Washington took note of this and decided to try to capture the weakened British army stationed across the Germantown road north of the city.

Washington's attack was skilfully planned, altho perhaps too intricate for half-trained troops led by inexperienced officers. In addition, a heavy fog came up at sunrise as the attack began. The British advance bodies were overwhelmed and soon both their wings were beginning to give way.

A small enemy force held out in a massive stonehouse, which resisted assaults by infantry and attempts to burn it. The Americans left a brigade to besiege the house and pushed on. In the fog and confusion of firing at the stonehouse, a brigade led by Gen. Adam Stephen moved too far west, thinking the fight was there, while Gen. Nathanael Greene's brigade turned east in front of Stephen, who mistook him for the enemy and attacked.

A panic followed, disrupting the whole plan, and the British took the offensive, forcing the Americans to retire. After the battle, Gen. Stephen was court martialed and dismissed from the army on a charge of being intoxicated and of "unofficer-like conduct" during the action and the retreat. He had been a meritorious officer in the colonial wars. Gen. La Fayette succeeded him in command of his division.

No blame was attached to Gen. Washington for the defeat, which might easily have been a victory. On the contrary, congress passed a vote of thanks to him for his "wise and well concerted attack upon the enemy's army" and to "the officers and soldiers of the army for their brave exertions on that occasion."

TRICK HAIRDOS FAIL AS DISGUISE FOR WAR GUILTY

Rescued Woman Gives Death Chamber Log

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LUENEBURG, Germany, Oct. 3—Accused schutzstaffel [elite guard] women and camp leaders have tried in vain to escape identification by their former victims in court at Lueneburg by tying turbans around their heads and adopting new hairdos. Up to this afternoon 38 of the 45 on trial as war criminals have been identified.

Affidavits of former internees at the Oswiecim [Auschwitz] and Belsen camps were read today. Regina Bialik, 23, a Polish political prisoner, described her escape from the gas chamber at Oswiecim. She said that, suffering from typhus on Christmas, 1943, she was among 350 women picked for death.

Dumped Into Chamber

"I was made to undress and taken to the gas chamber in a truck," she said. "The chamber was underground and the truck down a slope straight into it. We were tipped on the floor from the truck. The room was about 12 yards square, lighted with small lamps.

"When the room was full of women a hissing sound came from the center point of the floor and gas spread thru the room. After what seemed 10 minutes, some of the victims started to bite their hands and foam at the mouth, and blood issued from their ears, eyes, and mouths. Faces went blue. I suffered all these symptoms with a tight feeling at the throat. I was half conscious when I was led out."

Miss Bialek explained that a friend had interceded with one of the doctors in her behalf because "as a political prisoner I was more valuable alive than dead."

Affidavits of half a dozen women who were sterilized in the experimental stations at Oswiecim also were read. Renee Erman, 31, of Paris, said she was compelled to work as a nurse while "300 of the healthiest and most beautiful prisoners were subjected to medical experiments."

Woman Bled to Death

In one section an SS doctor took blood from women for German soldiers until they were so weak they died. Another doctor experimented with sterility on young Greek girls and then submitted them to X-ray treatments which were generally fatal.

A Berlin specialist, Prof. Goldberg, tortured women with injections in the womb, coupled with electrical treatments which were most painful to judge by the shrieks of the women, Miss Erman testified.

A German being forced to assist in the reburial of 247 murdered victims of the nazis was threatened with lynching today when Polish onlookers identified him as commandant of the Lodz, Poland, extermination camp. Shots were fired into the air by military police and the accused man, Kurt Kausch, was arrested. He produced a passport showing he had worked as a naval engineer. The British believe he was mistakenly identified.

Capt. Robert Jeffery, 42 E. Cedar st., reported to police yesterday that $4,000 in war bonds, uniforms valued at $110, and a typewriter were stolen from his automobile.

PEDDLER IS HELD IN HOUSEWIFE'S STABBING DEATH

Tony Simons, 66, a homeless push-cart peddler, was held by police yesterday in the investigation of the death of Mrs. Helen Wittman, 57, of 1528 Mohawk st., whose body was found in the kitchen of her home Tuesday night with three stab wounds in the left side. Capt. Patrick O'Connell of the Hudson av. police said Simons had been drinking at Mrs. Wittman's home the night of the slaying while her husband, Steve, a theater janitor, was at work. Mrs. Wittman reported to police a few weeks ago that Simons threatened to kill her in a dispute over $140 which he said he left with her for safekeeping. The inquest was continued to Oct. 23.

STATE AND U.S. SUPER-HIGHWAY AID OUTLINED

BY ROBERT HOWARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 3—A policy under which state and federal aid funds will be used for the construction of several super-highways in the Chicago area, was outlined today at a meeting in the office of Wesley W. Polk, chief state highway engineer.

Under a revised paving program, based on 1941 cost estimates, federal aid funds will be used on a matching basis only on the state's sections of the Congress st. expressway, which will cost more than 45 million dollars from Grant park to the city limits at Austin av.

Chicago and Cook county will put up 15 million dollars each as their contributions to the project. The state will pay for its third of the total cost with 8 millions of its own funds and 7 millions of federal aid.

23 Millions a Year

Attending the meeting were state, city, county, and federal engineers. Under a federal program, Illinois will get 23 million dollars during each of the first three post-war years. A sizable portion must be used for the construction of urban expressways, all on a matching basis.

Polk said his office expected to give an early approval to the county's plans for paving the first section of the Illinois and Michigan canal highway, southwestward across Chicago.

An early agreement on city-county-state construction of the Northwest super-highway across Chicago was seen when Polk said that the federal and state funds should be spread around, and not used exclusively on Congress st.

Hopes for Early Start

Virgil Gunlock, Chicago commissioner of subways and super-highways, said he hoped for an early start on the extension of Wacker dr., as well as the Northwest superhighway.

William J. Mortimer, representing the Cook county highway department, said he was ready to extend Congress st. into the suburbs. He added that the Northwest superhighway will be essential in serving a large number of Chicagoland motorists.

The state will use federal aid matching funds for its part of Congress st., outside the city limits, Polk said.

Called Biggest Problem

"Highway building is going to be Chicago's biggest problem," Gunlock said.

Work and cost divisions on Congress st. were revised, so that Gunlock's Chicago engineers will be responsible for construction between Field dr. and Canal st.

Elsewhere the highway will be depressed or elevated, to provide for uninterrupted and fast movement of traffic. The engineers said work could be started next spring, probably between Ashland av. and Canal st.

Under the agreement, all right of way will be condemned by city and state agencies, who will be paid by the state for its share.

Others at the conference included Dick Van Gorp, Gunlock's assistant, and Fred Johnson, public roads administration.

HEAR WPB DEATH WARRANT READY FOR PRESIDENT

New Bureau Is Slated to Take Over Peace Work

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 [Special]—An executive order demobilizing the war production board and transferring its reconversion responsibilities to the office of war mobilization and reconversion is on President Truman's desk awaiting his signature, it was learned today.

The functions of the WPB which survive the reorganization will relate solely to the transition from war to peace of the nation's industrial economy.

These operations will be handled by a new industrial reconversion bureau which, it is expected, will be "under but independent of" the OWMR, of which John W. Snyder is director. John D. Small, now chief of staff of the WPB and Chairman John Krug's principal assistant, will be director of the new bureau. Its personnel is estimated roughly to be about 200 persons.

WPB Out Next Month

The WPB will go out of existence and the industrial reconversion bureau will swing into action about the first of next month, it was said, largely at the insistence of Krug. The WPB chairman is understood to be anxious to resign from the government for a rest as well as for an opportunity to take a position in private industry.

The industrial reconversion bureau will be subdivided into several groups designed to handle the individual problems which remain obstacles to unrestricted civilian production and a free post-war economy.

A separate priorities division will be retained for the purpose of giving preference to remaining military programs and certain civilian production, such as the textile and clothing programs now under way. It will be the function of this group to break bottlenecks in materials which may be retarding the reconversion of a certain industry or product.

One Man Utilities Bureau

A labor division, probably directed by Joseph D. Keenan, WPB vice chairman for labor production, and Maj. Ralph Hetzel, deputy vice chairman for operations in the office of vice chairman for man power requirements, will also be retained to continue certain of the functions now performed by the labor production and man power requirements offices, it was stated.

To retain a small degree of control over the utilities industry, which is still restricted in minor respects, a one man utilities division will be established in the new reconversion bureau.

The office of civilian requirements, which has been the chief representative of the domestic economy and claimant for civilian needs in the allocation of scarce materials, facilities, and man power, will be abandoned in the new bureau.

RELEASE FATHER, DAUGHTER, 24, IN STEGER KILLING

John Renzi, 64, of Crete, a tavern owner, and his daughter, Louise, 24, who were charged with the murder of Benny Leonardo, 31, of 1502 Portland av., Chicago Heights, were released from the Will county jail in Joliet yesterday when the grand jury refused to indict them. Leonardo was shot by an occupant of another car Aug. 28 as he was driving on Steger rd., in Steger. A milkman told police he saw Renzi and his daughter in the other car.

Held in Robbery

Miss Dolores Trimbel in tears at Des Plaines street police station after arrest on $3,000 robbery charge.

Miss Dolores Trimbel, 23, of 1428 Congress st., and Harvey Kelly, 23, of Norris, Mont., a truck driver, were arrested yesterday on the complaint of Vernon R. Travers, 40, of 2676 Julian ter., River Grove, that they beat and robbed him Tuesday night after he accompanied them to Miss Trimbel's apartment. Travers, manager of the Standard Paving company at 30 N. La Salle st., said he was robbed of $3,000 in pay roll checks and his automobile. He was forced out of the car at Roosevelt rd. and Austin av. after the couple took him for a ride after the robbery. The car and the checks were recovered.

REPORT 50 DIE WHEN JAVANESE AND JAPS CLASH

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Fifty persons have been killed and 150 wounded in a clash at Batavia between Japanese troops and Indonesian nationalists, an exchange telegraph dispatch from the Java city said today.

[A delayed Reuters dispatch from Batavia said Japanese troops there had been moving into luxury internment camps outside the city which they had chosen for themselves. The Dutch radio reported yesterday that Dr. Hubertus van Mook, lieutenant governor general of the Netherlands East Indies, has arrived in Batavia for discussions with Lt. Gen. Christison, the allied commander in Java.]

Dutch Snub 'Republic'

THE HAGUE, Holland, Oct. 3 [Reuters]—The Dutch government "persists in its absolute refusal to treat with persons appointed by the Japanese and appeals to all Indonesians of whatever opinion to continue in the common council for the new status of the empire," said a statement issued here today by the Netherlands information service. The statement asserted that no consultations were possible with Dr. R. I. Soekarno, head of the so-called Indonesian republic in Java.

U. S. PROPOSES CITY BUILDING TO COST 29 MILLION

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3—Government construction projects costing $29,830,000 have been proposed for Chicago in legislation submitted to congress by the public buildings administration of the federal works agency and the post office department.

Public buildings administration officials said today, however, that whether these projects eventually will be authorized is not definite. The officials explained that they have submitted a list of 4,020 eligible projects for the nation outside the District of Columbia but that only certain ones will be selected. The choices will be made on the basis of urgency of need and equitable distribution thruout the states and territories.

Cost of the 4,020 projects is estimated at $774,795,000. The pending legislation asks congress to appropriate 193 million dollars which would represent the total cost of those projects to be selected. The program was recommended by the administration as a means of providing necessary public buildings and additions, as well as post war jobs.

Court Houses on List

The Chicago projects listed include a 22 million dollar federal court house, to be built either on the site of the present court house, which might be torn down, or possibly on a new site. Also listed are additional facilities for the marine hospital costing $2,830,000 and additional land, an annex and remodeling for the Chicago postoffice costing 3 million dollars.

Other Chicago projects include two garages for federal vehicles costing $360,000 each. These structures, if built, would be on Wabash av. and on Wolfram st.

Four neighborhood postoffices are proposed. Their suggested general locations and costs are: Jackson Park, $400,000; Wicker Park, $350,000; Garfield Park, $320,000, and Elston Av., $210,000.

Date of Selection Not Known

The federal building officials said it is not known when the selection of the projects will be made or construction started.

W. Englebert Reynolds, commissioner of public buildings, said the inclusion of a building in the eligible list is no indication that a recommendation for its construction is to be expected in the near future. He said that many of the projects may not be constructed for years.

The purpose of the pending legislation is to grant authority to the public building administration to purchase sites, prepare plans and construct those projects "most essential to efficient operation of the federal establishment."

REVEAL JAPAN USED NAVY MEN AS TORPEDOES

TOKYO, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Japanese newspaper Asahi today disclosed details of an underwater kamikaze corps—human torpedoes fired from the deck of submarines—which joined with ship crashing planes in a futile effort to turn the tide of war.

The newspaper said large submarines carried six human torpedoes each, and medium sized craft five. The torpedoes were packed with two tons of explosives and, guided by a volunteer from the navy, could travel for 50 minutes at 25 knots, compared with 40 knots for the ordinary torpedo.

The operator could control the speed and direction of the underwater missile, and look about the ocean's surface thru a periscope if he wished. The suicide operations culminated in a demand for young naval officers as volunteers in April, 1944.

ANNAMITES SAY FRENCH KILLED COL. A. P. DEWEY

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Oct. 3 [Reuters]—The Annamite radio charged yesterday that United States Col. A. Peter Dewey of Chicago, killed here last week, had been murdered by the French.

In an official statement a few hours later, French authorities failed to deny the allegation outright, simply stating the account of Dewey's death had been based on the evidence of an American officer and allied war correspondent who were with him when he was shot.

French representatives met Annamite nationalist leaders at a secret meeting place here today. No decisions or announcements were made.

DECLARES UNRRA NEEDS FUNDS TO CARRY ON WORK

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Rolf Nugent of the UNRRA bureau of supplies today said the international relief agency had spent the initial United States and Canadian contributions and needed more funds urgently.

He said $550,000,000 more from the United States, under its original contribution of 1 per cent of the national income, likely would be available this week. This, he said, would allow UNRRA to continue its purchases.

"Altho there remain unexhausted funds in many countries under the first 1 per cent contribution, we are faced with shortages in the areas where procurement is most immediately feasible," he said.

BORNEO RUBBER YIELD MAY SET RECORD IN YEAR

growers have had a chance to restore their plantations.

Army equipment, especially bulldozers, which has been brought into Borneo, is being bought by the planters.

Malayan laborers are being hired at the pre-war rate of 40 cents a day. Col. Oakford said the labor supply has exceeded the demand. What the natives want most is money to buy rice.

It was the lack of rice that caused the Japs to let the rubber plantations remain idle. When the Japs were unable to ship rice here the natives had to quit the plantations and develop rice fields. Areas that had been planted to rubber seedlings were dug up and converted to rice paddies. Many of these seedlings would have been of sufficient size now to start producing rubber.

Three Areas Produce

Borneo has three rubber producing areas, all in the British section of the island. Sarawak, on the west coast, was the biggest producer, with about 60,000 tons a year before the war. British North Borneo produced about 30,000 tons, and Brunei, between Sarawak and North Borneo, less than 10,000 tons. This island of Labuan, off the coast from Brunei, has only scattered trees.

Until the early 1930s the plantations produced as much as possible. But in 1931 and 1932 the rubber market crashed. Planters got only about 3 or 4 cents a pound. Production costs were about 8 cents a pound. Thru a world-wide association, growers agreed to control their yields in order to maintain a price of about 20 cents a pound. Under this system, the plantations were at times producing only 45 per cent of their potential. The yield was easy to control—just tap fewer trees or tap them less frequently.

Present plans are to drain as much rubber as possible from as many trees as possible. Every time an acre is cleared laborers will begin tapping the trees. Every week should see more trees yielding latex.

Some pre-war stocks of processed rubber have been found here. Sixty tons discovered in warehouses in North Borneo have been shipped to Australia by the Australian army.

British Control Big Area

In Brunei and North Borneo about 90 per cent of the plantations are owned or operated under lease by British companies. The rest are native owned or operated. One plantation of about 5,000 acres was owned by Japs and probably will be seized and operated by the British government.

Some Borneo planters urge that the Jap plantation be seized and sold and the profits used to pay war damages to the rest of the Borneo property holders, most of whom have submitted claims to the British government.

In Sarawak only three British companies are operating plantations and their holdings are relatively small. Natives own or operate the remainder. This results from an order laid down by the white rajah, a Britisher, Charles Brooke, who did not desire to let other Britishers come into his domain.

POLISH CHILDREN BEGIN DRIVE TO REBUILD CITY

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 30 [Delayed]—I can write no more of devastated cities and shattered capitals, but I can tell you of the parade of a thousand Polish Boy Scouts and girls today, all carrying little tin pails like kids take to the lake front to make sand forts. With these tiny pails the children expect to rebuild Warsaw—not by carrying away debris and fetching new material but by soliciting funds in every street and house.

Only children could possess such magnificent optimism that a city, formerly with a population of a million and a quarter souls, can be rebuilt from the rubble by the depreciated zloty which any street hawker will offer 250 for one dollar. Financiers, engineers, architects, and contractors stare at the ruins and shake their heads because the task is considered too formidable without foreign aid and modern equipment, steel, stone, concrete, and timber.

But these Warsaw kids seemed certain that their collection of funds will solve the problem as they paraded thru the debris clogged streets singing Polish folk songs.

Teacher's Plunge Death Suicide, Inquest Decides

A verdict of suicide while temporarily despondent was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Mrs. Lucille M. Wipert, 32, of 6518 Meadow lane, Hammond, Ind., a school teacher, who plunged from a 13th floor fire escape at 14 E. Jackson blvd. Tuesday.

2,000 EMPLOYES GIVE $10.37 EACH IN FUND DRIVE

A record for employe contributions to the Community and War fund has been made by the Container Corporation of America, Walter P. Paepcke, president of the company and general chairman of the fund drive, announced yesterday. More than 2,000 employes have donated $10.37 per capita, he reported. The gift supplements $25,000 donated by the corporation.

During last year's campaign, employes thruout Chicago contributed only $2.51 per capita, statistics show. This year, the fund once more is requesting individual donations of one day's pay, but suggests that the contribution be made one hour's pay each week for eight weeks.

Solicitation began Monday in more than 6,000 firms thruout the city. It is the last combined drive for allied relief, soldier aid, and community help. The goal is $13,040,700.

Gasoline Barrel Explodes, Killing Railroad Worker

Martin Tavaro, 30, a laborer employed by the Burlington railroad in its reclamation plant at Eola, east of Aurora, was killed yesterday when a metal gasoline barrel on which he was working with a blow torch exploded. He lived in a bunk car near Eola.

HIKER ARRIVES; DOES 500 MI. IN 238 HRS. 8 MINS.

A. F. Bergman, 58 year old steel worker and barber, registered at the Congress hotel at 1:38 p. m. yesterday, thereby completing in 238 hours and 8 minutes his 500 mile walk from his home in Pittsburgh, Pa., to Chicago to see the world series. He said he would fly home.

He left Whiting, Ind., where he made the last overnight stop on his 10 day vacation jaunt, early yesterday and finished his walk on what he described as the "only day it hasn't rained."

Bergman said he averaged 50 miles per day, walking approximately 5 miles per hour for 10 hours. The time of his trip would have been less, the hiker reported, except for frequent strong winds, which caused him to lose as much as 1½ minutes per mile, and heavy rains that occasionally forced him to seek shelter.

Anderson Will Head U. S. Group at Food Conference

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—President Truman today designated Agriculture Secretary Anderson to head a seven man delegation to the first session of the allied nations conference on food and agriculture at Quebec Oct. 16. William L. Clayton, assistant state secretary, was named deputy United States member and Howard R. Tolley, representative on the allied interim commission on food and agriculture, was named alternate member. Congressional advisers named included Sen. Willis (R., Ind.).

REFUSED A JOB, HE WRECKS TWO TRAINS IN ANGER

16 Year Old Six Footer Says He Was 'Mad'

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 3 [Special]—A job as a railroad section hand was more to the liking of William Warren States, 16, than a schoolroom desk—so much so that when the Santa Fe railroad would not hire him he went out and wrecked two trains.

William W. States

William, who is a 6 footer and looks older than his years, told about his train wrecking today as he was arraigned before United States Commissioner P. W. Crocker on a charge of "wilfully derailing and wrecking trains."

"I was mad when they wouldn't hire me," he said. "I really don't know why I did it. That's the only reason I've got—just that I was mad."

Damage Is $35,000

Traffic on the Santa Fe west of Kansas City was tied up so badly by William's wrecks that rerouting was necessary for two days before the wreckage was cleared. Two locomotives overturned. One person—a locomotive fireman—was badly scalded. Several scores of passengers got a shaking up. Damage was estimated by the railroad at $35,000.

The wrecks took place Friday night. A frate train piled up when its locomotive struck a rail from which William had removed spikes. A few minutes later a passenger train plowed into the frate.

"I wanted a job as a section hand," William explained. "They told me I had a weak heart and they couldn't hire me."

Goes to Work on Rails

Disappointed, William went for a walk along the railroad tracks between Kansas City and suburban Turner. He passed a place where a section crew had been working and had abandoned a stack of tools after quitting for the day. Sight of the tools, he said, inflamed his fury against the railroad. He seized a crowbar and went to work on the spikes holding a main line rail.

"I took out all the spikes along one rail, and then I got a wrench and loosed its bolts," he said. "I put back the tools and went on walking."

William was taken into custody at his home today by agents of the federal bureau of investigation. William is the oldest of four children.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

by BEN MARKLAND

October 3, 1945

NORTHERN Illinois landscapes provide two major evidences of the rainy summer, the most obvious being the creeks and ponds that are overflowing into farm fields.

In seasons of normal rainfall, creeks on the Wheaton farm are nearly dry and the three farm ponds are below their summer level at this time of the year. This week, however, the little stream which winds thru the east woodlot overflowed its banks and spilled over into the roadside ditches; the pond waters cover the trunks of the willow trees that line their shores.

Rain Brings Out Colors

The second evidence of excess rain is in the coloring of the sumac and white ash trees in the farm woodlots. The brightest autumn tree colors come after summers of abundant rainfall—as is proved by the brilliance of the sumac and ash leaves this fall. The shrubby sumacs are showing leaves in varying shades of orange, red, and maroon, while the white ash leaflets give touches of a distinctive purple-pink hue to the woodlot scene.

The rainfall that produced the bright colors on the ash and sumac promises additional brilliance when the maples and oaks put on their autumn shows.

Hickories Dull Things

The shagbark hickory and catalpa trees have started to turn, but neither of these add to autumn's reputation as a colorful season. The hickories in all farm woodlots can be detected from a distance of half a mile, their dull tan leaves contrasting with the glossy green leaves of the surrounding oaks. The catalpas, following their normal autumn pattern, are turning to dingy yellow.

The late September and early October change in leaf colors upsets the general belief that frost is the artist responsible for gaudy autumn foliage. The ash, sumac, and hickory leaves turned color long before there was any hint of frost. The lowest temperature noted on the Wheaton farm was 34 degrees in the early morning hours of today. Corn growing in two fields of low ground were slightly touched by frost on Sept. 30 as well as today, outer edges of the leaves turning brown. It isn't unusual for plant growth in low areas to be harmed by frost when plants on higher ground escape damage; the heavier cold air settles into low ground pockets.

Discoloration of the corn leaves resulted in insignificant damage to the plants. The frost was not heavy enough to penerate the husks to damage the kernels.

★The GARDEN★

THE varieties of beets and carrots that have been favored by Wheaton farm gardeners for several years were replanted this season with excellent results. These include Crosby's Egyptian and Detroit Dark Red beets, and Nantes Half-Long and Touchon carrots.

Crosby's Egyptian has been grown for many years because of its excellent flavor for table use. Detroit Dark Red is planted in July and used mainly for winter storage in a root cellar. When the farm gardener cleaned out the root cellar three weeks ago, some of these beets still were in excellent condition after storage since last October.

Nantes Half-Long carrots, sometimes called Coreless, are favored by the farm garden for table use. Touchon carrots keep well in storage, therefore are planted in midsummer for this purpose.

TERMS DOUGLAS SITE AMPLE FOR CITY'S AIR NEEDS

An airport of the size afforded by the Douglas plant site near Park Ridge should provide an ample landing site for Chicago's future air passenger and cargo traffic, M. W. Cochran of Detroit, chief engineer of Giffels and Vallet, Detroit engineers and architects, said in Chicago yesterday.

He made the statement after being told of the Douglas project in a round table discussion which followed an address before the postwar reconstruction committee of the Union League club. In his address he emphasized the necessity for speed in providing adequate airport facilities for post-war air traffic.

He suggested that property within a reasonable distance of a new airport might be bought and then rented to employes at the port and others who desire to live close by. He predicted that modern airports will be cities in themselves, with upward of 6,000 employes.

CUT DISCHARGE POINT SCORE OF MARINES TO 60

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—The marine corps announced today the discharge score for enlisted men and officers will be lowered from 70 to 60 points next Monday. The discharge score of 25 for women marines was left unchanged.

Point credits toward discharge are given for service, overseas duty, decorations, and dependency.

KILLING FROST HITS ROCKFORD; LIGHT ONE HERE

Most of the northern third of the state escaped a killing frost which struck the Rockford area in the early morning hours yesterday, dropping the mercury to 28 degrees. Light frosts were experienced in the Chicago area and tender crops were killed in many war gardens.

Farmers were worried over the frost danger. Only 49 per cent of the corn crop and 64 per cent of the soybean crop in the Chicago area is safe from freezing. In the western section of the state 60 per cent of the corn and 65 per cent of the soybeans are considered beyond frost damage.

At Chicago airport the temperature dropped to 35 degrees with a trace of frost, while the western and northern suburbs reported fairly heavy deposits of frost, according to Forecaster L. W. Brunk.

Vine crops, green corn, and tomatoes in many gardens were blighted.

THE LONDON FLOP

The joke, it seems, is on the world. The so-called peace loving nations, having a meeting of ministers in London, have decided that, much as they love peace, they love other things, including booty, more. By what standards could they ever be called peace loving nations? The inquiry might include even the United States, which does love peace to the extent of never being at all prepared to get into the other fellow's war and then does get in as soon as it possibly can, particularly if the other fellow be a Britisher.

The ministers' conference in London came to a failure because, first, it was composed of incompatible elements, and, second, because the incompatible elements had conflicting aims of gain and self-interest. In this ruckus our Mr. Byrnes, who knew what it was to be an also ran for Vice President in a Democratic convention, learned what it was to be a spare tire in an international conference. The remark attributed to Mr. Molotov that all Byrnes did was to play toss and catch with the atom bomb may be questioned. Mr. Byrnes isn't that tough. He was born to come home in a barrel.

The peace is falling apart because it has no good faith to keep it together. The delusions which have been cherished over the span of war time are ripping at the seams. The garments of holiness are coming off, as we knew they would. The European does not change his spots. The Russians, quite properly, have been held responsible for nearly all of the post-war troubles. Stalin is a dictator who has been accepted as an altruistic and freedom loving head of state. When reason can so abase itself anything can happen.

Russia is not the only predatory nation, but it is the most aggressive one. It thinks it is, and may be, the most powerful aggressor. The Russians never have known freedom and they now know less of it than they ever did. An understanding relationship born of mutual respect between Russia and the United States is unbelievable. Attempts to create one are deceitful. We would not tolerate Russian methods here if we retained any intelligence and the Russians could not adopt ours unless they overthrew their government, which they can't do and show no inclination to try.

The incongruities in any assemblage of the peace loving nations are so great that only the highest regard for the pledged word and unqualified consideration for the general good could bring fair decisions. The contestants know that advantages gained now will be underwritten by the council of the united nations. Any alterations must receive the unanimous support of the permanent members. When Russia, Great Britain, France, or any other nation has consolidated its gains, before the council takes over, the arrangements are woven into the world scheme. Any undertaking to change them would be "aggressive war."

Molotov broke up the London conference because he did not want France and China sitting in when treaties were made with the Balkan nations. Russia is proceeding as it pleases in these countries and profits from delay. But on his own theory Russia should have nothing to say in the treaty with Italy. His feeling regarding China could be generally shared, but not by "peace lovers" who all along have insisted that China is a great world power, just as they have pretended that Russia has a free, representative government. If China is to have an enduring voice in the government of this one world it reasonably could be granted the right to consent to arrangements it must help guard according to the pretenses which have brought the united nations to one flop after another. Delusion and dishonesty are not paying out. A suggestion might be to try acting on the square.

GETTING SOMEWHERE AT THE M. T. S.

Verification by Mayor Kelly's committee of restaurant owners of charges that literally rotten food is being served patients at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanatorium has brought action which should clear up the deplorable conditions in that institution.

Frank O. Washam, director of public school lunchrooms, has been assigned to correcting the food situation. Mr. Washam's record in the school system appears to be excellent. While he may not be an expert in hospital dietetics, he at least should be able to eliminate unsanitary practices in the M. T. S. kitchens and see that the patients are given plenty of wholesome, palatable food.

Even more important is the request of Mayor Kelly to Dr. John W. Towey, president of the Mississippi Valley Tuberculosis conference, to appoint "a competent, neutral, and disinterested committee." It would investigate the sanatorium and report personally to Mayor Kelly, who appoints the M. T. S. trustees.

The conference which Dr. Towey heads is composed of authorities on the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis. Its membership is drawn from numerous states, which would suggest that any committee it appointed would be free of local prejudice. It is to be hoped that the conference will do Chicago the service of accepting the mayor's commission, and that when its committee reports, official backing is given to whatever changes are recommended, no matter how sweeping.

Meanwhile there remains the necessity for immediate action against those responsible for the intolerable conditions uncovered by the Isbell committee. No further investigation is needed to demonstrate that the persons who allowed those conditions to arise and persist are unfit to hold their jobs another day.

MAROONS WIN PENNANT

The army and navy have resolved to bestow the "E" award upon the University of Chicago for the excellence of its contribution to the invention of the atomic bomb. This is the first pennant won on the Midway in a good many autumns. No doubt, then, the flag raising will be celebrated with some show of ardor. There should be a bonfire and a snake dance led by the physics faculty in full academic regalia.

The professors of the department of athletics should not be relegated to the end of the line. Not much has been heard from this faculty of late, but it had its important role to play in the triumph now to be celebrated. For one thing, physical culture graciously yielded the squash courts at Stagg field for the crucial atomic experiments. Physical culture on the Midway has grown accustomed of late years to gracious yielding, but this time the spirit was willing. The Nobel prize winners weren't sure that their little guys could blow up the league, but physical culture knew better, having explored the problem a generation ago.

Mr. Stagg specialized in atoms. He seldom had a tackle who was shoulder-high to Minnesota's water boy. Mr. Stagg demonstrated atomic energy when the physicists didn't know it existed. Eckie and Walter Steffen had to have their graduation clothes tailor made because you couldn't buy long pants suits in those days for boys so small. There was a guard named John Canning—a guard, mind you—who weighed hardly more than 150 and had never seen a football until he reached the Midway. This midget had no difficulty in derailing the all-American boxcars and gondolas shunted down from Madison and Champaign. It was inevitable that Mr. Canning, himself the embodiment of marginal utility, should become a professor of political economy.

Yes, physical culture on the Midway was fully a generation ahead of physics in the field of atomic theory, not to mention applied atomics. The trouble with Mr. Shaughnessy was that at Minnesota where he spent his formative years they hadn't got beyond Newtonian theory, with its concentration on mere mass rather than the speed of light. He never did understand that E equals mc squared. As we read the papers, he doesn't understand it yet.

In this season of mists and mellow fruitfulness, it is pleasant to find the Maroons not only once again winning the pennant but winning it in the traditional way.

GIVING THE BOMB AWAY

Sen. Connally, chairman of the foreign relations committee, came out to Chicago the other day to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars in convention here. He heard Mr. Clark Eichelberger, the one-worlder, tell the delegates that the United States should give the atomic bomb to the San Francisco league. Mr. Connally didn't think that was a very good idea and said so.

Mr. Connally noted that America found the bomb first and is under no legal or moral duty to share it. He said the world can rest assured that the United States will use the bomb only in its own defense or in defense of the world's peace. He said he wouldn't trust all other nations to restrict the use of the bomb to those two purposes.

Mr. Connally was referring, of course, to Russia. He might have added that Russia has no claim on our military secrets because she kept her own, for whatever they may have been worth, thruout the war. Stalin never permitted the American army to send observers to the Russian fronts. Even today, when the fighting has ceased, Russia continues to impose her savage censorship.

The senator is right all along the line. It is encouraging to find much the same attitude prevailing among members of the house appropriations committee who recently returned from a round the world inspection of American military installations. These men, too, say there need be no great haste about imparting the secret.

It is true, of course, that, by the expenditure of several hundred million dollars and probably much more, the scientists of other nations may succeed in solving the problem. That is what we must expect and in some measure fear, for a nation possessed of the bomb can use it against us. It is not easy to see why we should have less reason for fear if the potential enemy got the bomb as a free gift. In either case he would have it and in either case any promise he might make not to use it would be worth little, as the history of international promises proves.

Incidentally, if the goal is an international agreement not to use the atomic bomb, the chances of getting everybody to sign the treaty will not be harmed by keeping the secret in the United States. It is easier, as a rule, to forswear the use of something you haven't got than of something you have, and easier, also, to keep the promise once it is made.

For much the most part the senators and representatives have talked sensibly about the bomb and also about the bases needed for America's defense. The members of the house committee who visited the various overseas installations have come home persuaded that the United States must keep the islands wrested from Japan. Likewise, the United States should continue in possession of air fields developed during the war and encourage their use by American transport companies. The one-worlders who are urging congress to give away the means of our own security are apparently going to meet with strong and well informed opposition from the patriotic majority in both parties. Great efforts will be made to persuade congress to continue giving away our strength. The members should resist in the certainty that the country is overwhelmingly on their side.

THE ATOMIC GHOST

This column's neighbor, friend, and consultant on many learned matters, Delos Avery, knows the names of all the fuzzy electronic bugs that lurk inside the atom. If in the press of other duties [see "Front Views and Profiles"], he happens to forget one of them, he grabs the government report on the atomic bomb, which he keeps hidden under a false jacket, and refreshes his memory. But now we're going to ask him the $64 question: What is the name of the ghost in the atom's haunted house? For there is such a phantom.

While Dr. Avery vainly fans the leaves of "Atomic Energy," by Henry D. Smyth, we will reveal the secret. This ghost is called the neutrino, and it is the most complete baffler in the atomic universe. It is not only invisible, like the other no-see-'ems, but it is also unprovable.

The existence of the neutrino is assumed from the fact that in certain radioactive processes pertaining to the manufacture of atomic bombs, three of the laws of conservation, upon which the science of physics is founded, are not fulfilled. They are the laws of the conservation of energy [well known], momentum, and spin [deep stuff of the laboratories, the latter two].

"Rather than give up the cherished conservation theorems," says Dr. I. I. Rabi of Columbia university in the current Atlantic Monthly, "we assume that another particle, happily named the neutrino, emerges at the same time as the electron and shares the energy, momentum, and spin with it in such a way as to balance the books. . . . Only further research will reveal whether the neutrino must remain a ghost or take on the flesh and blood of direct experimental confirmation."

* * *

When found, we feel that the neutrino will be as cute as a bug's ear.

ELEGY IN OCTOBER

If you have loved a garden of your tending,
You'll stand beside it now as first leaves fall,
Mute in your grief for Beauty bravely dying,
Yearning to stay the ending of it all.

The zinnias' cheeks are flushed with fatal fever,
Too frail, white cosmos dance, their thin arms spread;
On graying stalk, but brightly scarved, each aster
Ignores the torn dishevelment of its head.

The rosebush leaves are bronzed and thinly drooping,
But one last rose clings on, impassioned red;
Along the garden wall a lone nasturtium
Lifts a gold bugle for its comrade-dead.

Last night with silver sword Frost reconnoitered,
The pansies heard him, yet they bloom uncowed;
Tonight he'll come to kill—the spiders know it!
In steady haste they spin the garden's shroud.

[O friend, may we when our last hours draw nigh,
Remember well how bravely gardens die!]

"There Ain't No Justice"

I stepped upon the platform of the drug store scale, waited for the arrow to stop jiggling, and hopefully dropped my penny in the slot. There was a whir, a click, and out dropped a wistaria-tinted card. Never mind my weight. On the reverse side it said, "You are on the threshold of the most successful period of your life. Put more personal feeling and interest into your daily routine and you will realize your greatest ambition."

All very well and good, but my greatest ambition at the moment is to receive for my weight-penny a sickly green ticket inscribed to the effect that I am a boor, a sneak, a cheat, a crook, and if I don't mend my ways I'll end up in a dank, dark, drear, insect-infested penal institution. [No side remarks, please!] Hig

FEVER AND FROSTBITE

"Dearie" and "honey" are terms I deplore
From shopgirls who never have seen me before;
And these are the changelings—too often I've had 'em—
Who failing to sell me indict me with "Madam."

"What can I do for you, dearie?
Such wonderful weather," they say.
[The accents are treble and cheery!]
"This number just came in today . . .
My dear, you're adorable in it . . .
It's dreadfully smart for the money . . .
Your change'll be down in a minute . . .
Thanks lots, and come in again, honey."

But just let me say it is not what I seek,
The atmosphere plunges from tropic to bleak,
While the look and the tone turn as cold as macadam:
"I'm sorry we can't seem to interest you, Madam."

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0800, gives personal interviews.]

T. N. asks: "If a man has been discharged from the service for four months and desires to reinstate part of his lapsed $10,000 national service life insurance policy does he have to pay back premiums on the full $10,000 or on the reduced amount?"

Only on the reduced amount which may be in any multiple of $500, but not less than $1,000.

P. S. writes: "At 24 I have completed five years of army service. If I reënlist now to gain advantage of keeping my rating how long will I have to serve before I will be entitled to retirement pay and how much will I receive?"

Enlisted men may be retired after 30 years of service at 75 per cent of their pay at time of retirement, or after 20 years of service if permanently incapacitated for active service. The pay of a sergeant after 30 years is $117 and his retirement pay would be $87.75 a month. A master sergeant would get $207 after 30 years and $155.25 retirement pay.

H. G. asks: "If a flight officer accepts discharge at this time can he be reënlisted in the regular army at his same rank?"

No. However, if he gave up a regular army grade, such as staff or technical sergeant, to accept temporary [army of the United States] rank as a flight officer, he may be reënlisted at his permanent regular army grade.

LEPROSY TAKES VARIOUS FORMS

LEPROSY has always been looked upon with apprehension and alarm. Yet it is not as contagious as many of the virus infections; nor as painful as cancer; and the lesions, in the majority of cases, are not as loathsome as those in certain other disorders. Perhaps because its victims are isolated, we are more fearful than we should be. We forget that quarantine is imposed on other maladies also.

Rice, in a recent article on the famed Dr. Hurty of Indiana, discusses a case in that state in 1916. This was before the government took over Carville. The patient, his wife, and daughter were segregated on their own premises for years. The victim died at the age of 70. His wife lived to be 95, and the daughter is still alive. Neither showed evidence of the affliction.

Ormsby estimates the number of victims in this country at 1,500. At the government leprosarium at Carville, La., the census in 1933 was 365. In 1941 there were 375—no startling increase. But in days gone by the picture was different. A more virulent type devastated Europe between the second and seventh centuries and again between the 11th and 12th. In the middle of the last century it appeared in the Hawaiian Islands in epidemic proportions. At present, the incidence varies in Asia, Africa, Australia, and Central and South America.

There is considerable controversy in the classification of the disease. Altho mixed types are seen, it may be divided roughly into two main forms, one involving the skin and the mucous membranes and the other, the peripheral nerves chiefly and the skin secondarily. Years ago the former was termed "tubercular" or "tegumentary" and the latter, "anesthetic" or "trophoneurotic." Hansen, who discovered the cause in 1871, preferred "Lepra tuberosa" and "Lepra maculo-anesthetica." Arnold and Tilden suggest "lepromatous" and "tuberculoid." Others feel that the name "Hansen's disease" should be adopted for public use to take the sting from the older name.

At any rate, the variety presenting nodules is more widespread in colder climates. The favorite site is the face; later, other surfaces may be attacked. The mucous membranes of the nose and pharynx may present the first manifestation. The responsible agents can be demonstrated in the lesions on the skin and membranes.

In the second, more common in tropical areas, the bacteria can usually be detected in the nerve tissue but not the skin. The affected areas become numb and fiction writers have frequently utilized the dramatic incident of an individual who first discovered that he had leprosy by observing a loss of sensation on a small patch of the body. Deformities may occur because nerves leading to muscles are involved.

General treatment at leprosaria includes building up the patient's resistance with good food and hygiene combined with the age old chaulmoogra oil, as well as physiotherapy and surgical removal of some of the nodules.

Wayson states that no one drug has given evidence of its curative powers. Research continues all over the world and some day the answer will be found. Recently promin has been tried experimentally in leprosy, as in tuberculosis. It is interesting to note that both these diseases are caused by the mycobacterium, an organism which so far has proved resistant to medication.

NERVE SYMPTOMS

J. J. M. writes: When I walk I practically have to drag my feet. In addition, I am troubled with a sensation of pins and needles in four of the fingers of my right hand. What can I do?

REPLY

Your symptoms call for a skilled neurological examination.

J. R. writes: How does a cavity of the lung show up—white or black?

Or else he loves me not—
And how am I to know if he

I know he loves me not.

ELAINE OF EVANSTON

For Remembrance

Following is the text of the message sent from Corregidor by Sgt. Irving Strobing, of Brooklyn, N. Y., on May 5, 1942, the morning of the American surrender:

7:30, 5 May '42—they are not near yet—waiting for God knows what—how about a chocolate soda—not many not near yet—

7:40—lot of heavy bombing going on—later—we got no time to waste—can you take it or not—we only got about one hour and twenty minutes before. . . . Later . . . we may have to give up by noon . . . we don't know yet. . . . They are throwing men and shells at us and we may not be able to stand it. . . .

I can't see much from here . . . shells were dropping all night faster than . . . damage terrific . . . it's too much for guys to take . . . much around and enemy crosscross shelling and bombing . . . they had us all around and from the skies.

Later . . . My name is Irving Strobing . . . get it to my mother, Minnie Strobing, six zero five Barbey street, Brooklyn, N. Y. . . . tell her not to worry . . . I come back some day . . . they to get along O. K. . . . get in touch with them soon as possible. . . . my love to Paul, Joe, Sue, Mac, Carrie, Joy, and also to all family and friends. . . . God bless them all and hope they will all be there when I come home. . . . Tell Joe wherever he is to give them hell for us . . . my love to you all. . . . God bless you all and keep you. . . . love. . . . sign my name and tell my mother how you heard from me. . . .

Later . . . They just made broadcast to Manila to arrange meeting for surrender. . . . I can't say much . . . can't think at all. . . I have 60 pesos you can have this week-end. The white flag is up . . . everybody is bawling like a baby. . . .

Later . . . Firing has ceased both sides . . . the men here are all bad because of the tremendous nervous strain of the siege. . . . Corregidor used to be a very nice place but it is haunted now . . . it has stood terrific pounding. . . .

LAST . . . I know how mouse feels caught in trap waiting for guys to come along and finish it up . . . got treat . . . can of pineapple . . . want some. . . .

Not Good if Detached

Have you ever been tempted to purloin the trimming from a woman's hat? Last Saturday, just ahead of me on the Rock Island train sat a demure little woman with soft gray hair prettily waved. Under a bobby pin at the back of her hat were three sugar coupons. A. F. R.

Love on the Midway

[From our campus scout]

The University of Chicago, thought of only too often as an austere place where students don't have time for anything but books, is the scene of a romance between the hero and heroine of "Three Day Pass," a book by Pvt. Leslie Waller, coming off the press this week. Waller, who was 20 years old when he left the College of the University of Chicago two years ago, plans to come back to get his degree as soon as he accumulates enough points for an army discharge.

Enough

A vine-clad house, a book or two,
A garden, and some work to do,
A little music, grave or gay;
And, when I've finished with the day,
A starlit night to meditate

THE BOAT RIDES ARE JOLLY

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 12—We are a boat company which had to come direct from the ETO without benefit of a furlough thru the states. As long as the end of the war wasn't in sight we did not mind it much even tho we had served a year in the ETO. Since arriving here we have accomplished absolutely nothing. Our biggest job so far has been that of hauling brass on fishing trips and parties with feminine accessories. We fail to see how this is helping in any way.

Many of the men in our outfit are fathers and would like very much to see their children. This pertains to other outfits as well as ours. Many others are limited service and would be tossed out of a recruiting station in peace time. We have about 40 officers in this company and now that the war is over they have nothing to do except think up something which will work a hardship on the enlisted man.

STUCK IN GERMANY

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 9—The following are excerpts from a letter we received this week from our son "10 miles SE Nowhere, Germany":

"I hope you remembered my words of warning, advising you that even if the — infantry division came home, a great number of us would be transferred out. We were, at the eleventh hour! To ordnance! It is impossible to visualize the state of confusion prevailing at this station . . . none of us, including the CO, has had any experience in ordnance . . . but if the army doesn't care, why should we?

". . . If you really want to give me a birthday present, vote for any one who will promise to draft discharged war workers [married, unmarried, of all ages and regardless of number of children] and let them take our place . . ."

This, from a boy who enlisted before he was 21, who will soon be 24, who passed the air corps tests but chose the infantry. There are many boys in all branches of the service who have never left the country and who must know as much about ordnance evacuation as these boys who wear battle stars for the Rhineland and central Germany. And shipping is no excuse. The boats bringing the troops home must not all be loaded on the return trip.

G. I. INCOME TAXES

Chicago, Sept. 19—My husband has been overseas two years and is due for a discharge before many weeks go by. We have his 1942 income taxes staring us in the face and it will absorb all of the mustering out pay.

We are forgiving billions to nations who have never lifted a hand to help us in any way. These boys are more than entitled to have a clean slate when once again they start their civilian life. MRS. G. W. E.

GLOBAL EXPENSE ACCOUNT

Chicago, Sept. 24—The idea of giving any one [even the Myth] a blank check for 600 million dollars to cover extraordinary expenses of his globe trotting satellites. Who knows whether Paving Blocks is on this pay roll and if checks are continuing to be written. This is not funny. It is ludicrous.

NONCONFORMIST

PREJUDICE AGAINST WAITRESSES

Chicago, Sept. 27—I have been a waitress for the last six years, mainly because it is the only work I know where a girl can make enough money to support dependents, of whom I have two.

While I know there are many waitresses who are not angels [the same is true in any other profession], there are many waitresses who are in the same boat as I. I believe there are more deserted mothers in this line of work than any other.

Yesterday I applied for a job in a bank as trainee. Had I been told they thought me unsuited for the position I could have accepted with understanding, but I was rejected because I had been a waitress. When asked how I could manage at the low starting salary I honestly said, by working Saturday nights as a waitress. I might as well have confessed to a prison term and said I intended committing crimes once a week. MRS. FRANCES HALLAM

PERHAPS HE'LL VOLUNTEER

Chicago, Oct. 1—I read your editorial this day about guys in a hurry to get out of the army.

Just think what a different world this would be if 25 years ago we had kept a standing army in Europe.

A lot of these soldiers and sailors don't know when they are well off. To be a soldier for Uncle Sam is an honor and a dignity.

If we disarm, another Hitler will come to power. Vigilance is the price of peace. We have to fight for peace and to maintain world peace and be ready to quell uprisings. I may be wrong, but I wish Uncle Sam had kept a standing army in Europe 25 years ago and never allowed militarism to get started again in Germany.

GIVE, GIVE, GIVE

Chicago, Sept. 25—I read: "De Gaulle Gets Big Plane as a Gift from President Truman." As a minor taxpayer I cannot help wondering how much a C-54 costs and who De Gaulle is that he should be presented with one at the expense of the American taxpayers.

When Mr. Roosevelt was President he had the habit of giving away destroyers, airplanes, etc., right down to our last shirt, but I was under the impression that the end of the Roosevelt dynasty marked a change in our free handed policy of everything for Europe and Europeans.

Is there ever going to be an end to the give, give, giving until it strips us bare? I thought that lend-lease was ended. Under what act of congress and by authority of what statute was this gift extended? HENRY WILLIAMS

FORFEITED EARNEST MONEY

Chicago, Oct. 3—A real estate agent has a 60 day exclusive contract to sell a house. A buyer deposits $400 earnest money with the agent and an agreement is signed by both seller and buyer. If the buyer refuses to go thru with the deal, how should the $400 be disposed of? C. O.

It seems probable that the contract contains the usual wording that the broker may retain his commission out of the earnest money and the balance shall go to the seller. Your rights depend largely on the wording of the agreement. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT

U. S. WILL SPEND $750,000 TO PROBE INSIDE OF CLOUD

In an effort to make flying safe under all weather conditions the government will spend $750,000 in the next year to find out what goes on inside thunderclouds, Dr. Horace R. Byers, professor of meteorology at the University of Chicago, told a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Palmer House yesterday.

Prof. Byers, in charge of the coordinated project of the weather bureau, army, and navy, said that a detailed study will be made of thunderclouds and storms from their inception to their finish. Radar will be used to measure the thunderheads as they build up, and balloons and planes will analyze wind currents.

Warning the audience to take proper precautions against lightning, Prof. Byers said an average of 500 persons a year are killed by bolts and enormous losses are caused thru fires. There are an average of 44,000 thunderstorms a day scattered over the face of the earth discharging an enormous electrical voltage, he said.

HOUSING BOARD DOUBLES FEE IN LIEU OF TAXES

Shamberg Requests Its Acceptance

Jacob Shamberg, assistant state's attorney, said yesterday that he had recommended acceptance by local taxing bodies of an offer by the Chicago housing authority to pay a service charge in lieu of taxes on its property.

His action was taken after he had conferred with Walter F. Dodd, attorney for the authority, which has offered $255,000 to cover the charge for several years. Shamberg said this offer virtually doubled that made previously, that it was voluntary, and that it represented about 10 per cent of rentals.

Tax Payers Penalized, Clark Says

John S. Clark, county assessor, has refused to assess authority housing, built with federal money, at less than full valuation, asserting that the former service charge offer—5 per cent of rentals—was so small it penalized other taxpayers.

Shamberg said he would ask Clark to certify to the correctness of the authority's rent rolls before the money is accepted. Clark said he would act when the request reaches him. Both officials agreed that a decision of the Illinois Supreme court last spring made it impossible to assess the authority on the same basis as other tax payers.

Court Decision Cited

"I have refused to make partial assessments," Clark said. "Either the authority is exempt, or it pays what the ordinary tax payer pays. The court seems to have ruled for no assessment."

Meanwhile, Paul C. Rosenquist, state director of revenue, announced the appointment of four committees to assist in bringing general assessments thruout the state to full value. Only Cook county is now on this basis, and new laws have been enacted for the entire state to follow Cook county's lead. The committees are made up of county clerks, state's attorneys, assessors, and county treasurers.

EMPLOYES FLEE $10,000 BLAZE IN NOVELTY PLANT

A lunch hour fire which was watched by nearly 1,000 school children and factory workers caused damage estimated at $10,000 yesterday at the Barwood Products company, 1745 N. Bosworth av. Chief Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney said the fire originated in an overheated lacquer oven. Smoke rose several hundred feet into the air. Thirty employes fled from the plant, which manufactures lacquer and plastic novelties. Spectators were doused twice, when a hose broke loose from a fireman's hands and when the top of a fire hydrant blew off and spouted water.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MOTHER BARRED FROM CHILDREN FOR ADULTERY

Mrs. Ritzenthaler

Mrs. Lorraine M. Ritzenthaler, 23, pleaded in vain to see her children, Gerald, 3, and Susan, 2, when her suit for separate maintenance came up in Superior court before Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday. When her suit was filed the wife admitted she had committed adultery "because of her husband's coldness."

"Under the circumstances, the children will remain with the father," Judge Padden said. He continued until Oct. 19 Mrs. Ritzenthaler's motion for temporary alimony and permission to move back into her home. U. S. TO TRY JAP 'TIGER' IN MANILA FOR ATROCITIES

Public Permitted to Attend Trial

TOKYO, Oct. 3 (AP)—Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, the surrendered "Tiger of Malaya," will be tried in Manila by a United States military commission as a war criminal, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today. The announcement said that the trial will proceed immediately.

Yamashita is charged with "responsibility for brutal atrocities and other high crimes against the people of the United States and its allies and dependencies," the announcement explained.

On orders of supreme allied headquarters, Lt. Gen. Wilhelm D. Styer, commanding general of air forces in the western Pacific, appointed a military commission for the trial, composed of Maj. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, president; Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Sturdevant, law member; Maj. Gen. James A. Lester; Brig. Gen. William G. Walker, and Brig. Gen. Egbert F. Bullene.

Trial Open to Public

Yamashita, now in custody in Manila, will be prosecuted by a staff composed of the following officers from the war crimes branch: Maj. Robert M. Kerr, infantry, as prosecutor, and Capt. M. D. Webster, Capt. William N. Calyer, Capt. D. G. Hill, and Capt. Jack M. Peace, assistant prosecutors. Assistance of the judge advocate general's staff of the Philippine army also will be available.

The trial will be open to the public, with action to be reviewed by Styer and final authority in the hands of MacArthur.

Yamashita will be permitted to choose his own counsel if he wishes, headquarters said. Appointed defense counsel include Col. Harry E. Clarke, Lt. Col. James G. Feldhaus, Maj. G. F. Guy, and Capt. Adolf F. Real, who will be available to Yamashita if he desires.

Charges were served on Yamashita at New Bilibid prison Oct. 2.

Failed in His Duty

Specifically, the charge is that between Oct. 9, 1944, when he assumed command in the Philippines, and Sept. 2, 1945, at Manila and other places in the Philippjines, he failed in his duty as commander "to control the operations of members of his command, permitting them to commit brutal atrocities and other high crimes against the people of the United States and of its allies and dependencies, particularly the Philippines; and he, Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, thereby violated the laws of war."

Information from Manila indicates that the general will be arraigned at the high commissioner's residence there on Oct. 8.

"SECOND ONLY TO THE ATOMIC BOMB IN WINNING THE WAR"

The VT Fuze
The "proximity fuze", no larger than a pint milk bottle, contains a tiny radio sender and receiver that transmits continuous radar-like waves. When they strike a target they are reflected back, causing the bomb to explode while still in flight above the target where it is most effective.
The fuze was used in anti-aircraft shells against buzz bombs over London, in mortar shells in the Battle of the Bulge, in fire bombs over Tokyo, and in rockets and fragmentation bombs in beachhead landings at Iwo Jima, Leyte, Luzon, Guam and Okinawa.
HOW VT FUZE WORKS
WIND DRIVEN PROPELLER rotates generator to supply power for transmitter and receiver, thus eliminating all batteries.
TRANSMITTER sends out continuous waves at speed of 186,000 miles per second.
RECEIVER amplifies waves echoed by target and applies them to a thyraton tube which serves as an electronic switch to detonate booster charge.
GENERATOR provides voltage for the miniature tubes in transmitter and receiver. It is wind driven at a speed of 100,000 revolutions per minute.
RECTIFIER changes a-c voltage provided by generator to d-c required by tubes.
BOOSTER CHARGES, set off by electronic switch, are small quantities of special explosives which detonate high explosive charge in bomb.

BEST FOOD SOLD TO SANITARIUM, DEALERS INSIST

Fault If Any in Handling, Cooking, They Believe

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Dealers who supply the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium with meat, milk, eggs, and other foods yesterday indicated they believe that if the meals served at the institution aren't fit to eat the fault lies in the handling and cooking and not in the quality of their products.

The suppliers agreed that the sanitarium authorities specify the best foods that can be obtained and insisted that they deliver exactly what is ordered.

"I never have bought or sold anything but the best," said William A. Kelly, brother of Mayor Kelly and proprietor of Kelly Kornbeef, 219 W. 75th st. "We deal in only one grade of corned beef and sell to some of the best restaurants in Chicago. The same corned beef goes to all purchasers.

Supplies Behind Demands

"It could hardly be any other way. There has been no old meat; it has been corned and eaten soon after it was killed—too soon, if anything. It never has had time to get old lately; the packers' refrigerators have been empty.

"During and since the war we have been limited to a quota which we have been able to outsell persistently. Our product has moved so fast that sometimes I didn't have all the sanatarium wanted to buy."

Various concerns supply the institution with boneless beef rounds, boneless beef chucks, beef ribs, lamb shoulder and breast, steer and calves' liver, boneless veal and lamb legs, veal shoulder and breast, slab bacon, smoked hams, chickens, oxtails, smoked tongue, pork sausage, frankfurters, cold cuts, smoked liver sausage, minced ham, and veal sausage.

Suppliers said the sanitarium orders and receives "AA," "A," and "choice" grades, or the best it is possible to buy. "They get only the best from us," said Fred J. Mangler, manager of the Davidson Meat company, 211 N. Green st., a subsidiary of Wilson & Co., packers. Similar statements were made by John T. Baran, partner in the Cornell Provision Co., 1411 W. Chicago av.; Armand Bastien, manager of the John P. Harding markets., and other suppliers.

Milk long has been purchased on contract from the Beloit Dairy company; Alex Gordon furnishes some of the eggs; canned goods are purchased when available from all Chicago wholesale grocers; 92 score government graded butter in one pound containers is purchased wherever obtainable; vegetables are sold to the sanitarium by R. R. Anderson, Iria I. Fisher and Seifert & Mann. All these dealers insist they supply only the highest quality products.

Superintendent Disputes Isbell

Dr. Leo M. Czaja, general superintendent of the sanitarium, disputed the report of Marion W. Isbell, head of a mayor's committee of restaurant men, that he found a truckload of spoiled lamb on its way to the kitchen for stew. Dr. Czaja agreed some of the committee smelled the raw lamb, and termed it "slick," but contended all, including Isbell, said it was good.

Frank O. Washam, director of the public school lunch rooms, who has been loaned to the sanitarium authorities for 60 days with the consent of President James B. McCahey of the school board, said he will report at the institution at 10 a. m. today to begin installing a system that will insure the patients of "three wholesome and well cooked meals a day."

J. T. HATFIELD, N.U. PROFESSOR 44 YEARS, DIES

Stricken in Auto on Way Home

Dr. James Taft Hatfield, distinguished scholar of Germanic literature, and for 44 years a member of the faculty at Northwestern university before his retirement in 1934 with the title professor emeritus, died of a heart attack last night. He was 83.

Dr. J. T. Hatfield

Death occurred near the Glencoe police station, 675 Vernon av., Glencoe, while he was being driven to the University club, 1704 Hinman av., Evanston, where he lived, from a dinner party in a north shore suburb.

Friend Summons Aid

Miss Regina Le Chien, 902 Reba pl., Evanston, a dinner guest and family friend, was at the wheel. Dr. Hatfield complained suddenly that he was not feeling well, then collapsed. He was dead before Dr. Ben Z. Rappaport, Glencoe, who was summoned, arrived.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., Dr. Hatfield was graduated from Northwestern in 1883. He studied in Japan, China, and India, received a doctor of philosophy degree at Johns Hopkins in 1890, and in that year accepted the German professorship at Northwestern.

Head of German Department

He remained on the faculty continuously until 1934, heading the German department, and establishing the longest unbroken service record of any faculty member. He took leaves for intermediate studies abroad and service in the Spanish-American war as a gun captain on the United States cruiser Yale.

Dr. Hatfield wrote voluminously on Germanic literature, especially on the works of Goethe. He was a member of many societies and former president of the Modern Language association. His wife, Mrs. Estelle Caraway Hatfield, died in 1940. He leaves four daughters and a son.

COURTS FREE 7 AND POLICE CHIEF IN SCHOOL ROW

Charges of trespassing against seven persons arrested Sept. 12 when they assembled at the Fairview Heights elementary school to protest its closing were nolle prossed yesterday in Morton Grove county highway police court by Assistant State's Atty. Casimir Cwiklinski.

Cwiklinski said the law provides that trespassers on school property shall be indicted and fined three times the amount of damage they may have caused. Because no damage was involved, he said, there could be no fines, and therefore no point in seeking indictments.

Chief of Police Harry Gary of Schiller Park, arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct made by Miss Caroline Castle, a volunteer teacher, after he sought to lock the school door, was freed by Justice of the Peace Harry A. Sullivan.

T. H. NEWBERRY, EX-SECRETARY OF NAVY, DIES

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3 (AP)—Truman H. Newberry, 80, a former United States senator and navy secretary, died at his home here this afternoon.

T. H. Newberry

He was appointed to the cabinet post by Theodore Roosevelt in 1908.

In the 1918 senatorial race Newberry defeated Henry Ford by a close margin. Ford immediately protested the election which was followed by a grand jury investigation of fraud and corruption alleged to have marked Newberry's campaign.

Newberry was found guilty and sentenced to two years in prison and fined $10,000. On an appeal to the Supreme court he was spared the prison sentence.

Survivors include twin sons, Lt. Comdr. Barnes Newberry, Col. Phelps Newberry, and a daughter, Mrs. Robert O. Lord.

G. O. P. TO CHART 1946 CAMPAIGN IN CONCLAVE HERE

The Republican national committee will meet here Dec. 7 and 8 to review prevailing concepts of party policies and to plan the 1946 attempt to win a majority in the house of representatives. In the 1944 election the G. O. P. lost ground in its fight to gain control of congress.

Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr. believes that the traditional method of resolving party thought only once every four years at national conventions is inadequate. Swiftly moving events in the modern world demand improvement of this system, he said. Next convention is in 1948.

Republicans in congress express their views pretty much as individuals, Brownell said, and therefore their views do not command the public attention that would focus upon an official party policy. In recent months Brownell has attended regional meetings of state committeemen in the east and midwest. He also traveled thru 11 western states to survey party organization.

STRITCH CALLS MORALS VITAL FOR DEMOCRACY

High moral principles must be the basis for a sound democracy, Archbishop Stritch said last night at the annual dinner of 300 district deputies, chaplains, and financial secretaries of 65 Knights of Columbus councils in the Chicago archdiocese.

"We all must work together for democracy on high, Christian principles," the archbishop said. "Unless we base our actions on moral principles, we shall forsake our democracy."

LEADER TELLS UNION SIDE IN PRINTER STRIKE

Canty Says Many Plants Have Signed Up

Thomas Canty, president of local 16, Chicago Typographical union, last night issued the following statement explaining the stand of the union in its present strike against employers in the commercial printing industry:

"As the Franklin association says in it ads, we have been negotiating for many years. The association well knows that the only procedure by which our union can accept a contract is by secret vote of the membership. The membership of No. 16 has refused, by overwhelming vote, to accept the proposal made us by the Franklin association after months of negotiation.

New Contract Indorsed

"Last Sunday our members voted, 1,341 to 44, by secret ballot, to adopt a new contract to replace the one which had expired Sept. 4. Last Tuesday, the members voted, again by secret ballot, and this time by 1,988 to 54, to strike against all employers who refused to accept the new scale. Our standard job shop contract forbids discrimination against any employer.

"The new scale for our job offices only places in effect the same hours we have enjoyed for years in the daily newspaper plants; the vacation provision is the same as on the newspapers, and the job scale is slightly less.

"The eight hour day has been in effect in Chicago commercial shops for almost 40 years. The Franklin association has rejected all proposals to reduce the eight hour day, in good, bad, and indifferent times.

Protection for Veterans

"The membership demands a reduction in hours at this time to assure employment for the 500 journeymen and apprentices now in the armed forces when they return. The reduced work day and new wage scale have already been accepted by nearly a hundred of our employers, including a number who belong to the Franklin association."

Canty said that 2,500 of the 3,600 members employed in the commercial shops are on strike.

9TH ARMY WILL BE DEACTIVATED ON WEDNESDAY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—The 9th army, veteran of the battle for Germany, will be deactivated next Wednesday, the war department reported today.

Headquarters of the 9th, which was led into the reich by Lt. Gen. Simpson, are now at Fort Bragg, N. C. Simpson has been assigned to command the 2d army at Memphis, Tenn.

The 9th originally was the 8th army but the name was changed in April, 1944, to avoid confusion with the British 8th army. The 9th captured Brest, went across France, Belgium, and Holland, and smashed into northern Germany on the left flank of the allied drive.

FIND 'MASTER JESUS' CARVED ON BURIAL URN

Hebrew Scientists See Link to Christ

JERUSALEM, Oct. 3 (AP)—Hebrew university archeologists said today they had found an inscription "Master Jesus" carved on a newly discovered burial urn. They expressed belief this referred to Christ and may have been made by a group of his personal followers soon after his crucifixion.

The urn, discovered in a burial cave by workers digging a house foundation on the Jerusalem-Bethlehem road, still is being studied by scientists of several institutions. It was one of 11 urns found there.

Today the Hebrew university issued a statement saying that "some members of the family to which the cave belonged probably were followers of Jesus of Nazareth."

Word "Woe" Used

Jerusalem was the home of a small Jewish sect of the earliest Christians who mourned the Nazarene's death for more than a century. The urn's inscriptions, said to have been made perhaps about 70 A. D., contain a long lamentation in which the word "woe" is used frequently, it was learned.

One expert said he believed the Greek, Hebrew and Aramaic inscriptions may have been carved only a few days after Calvary. One of the urns is reported to show an example of the earliest known use of the Christian cross.

The scientists, headed by Archeologist E. L. Sukenik, hope the urns may give a first-hand testimony to the trial and death of Christ.

Oldest Record of Christ?

Altho no actual description of the crucifixion thus far has been discovered, the Hebrew university archeologists consider the ossuaries as perhaps "the oldest archeological record of Christianity." They said that the urns apparently were inscribed by men and women who knew Christ and followed him to the cross, later making a cult of their faith. They read the inscription, "Master Jesus," as a personal address to one who was well known—not as an abstract invocation.

Sukenik began his investigation as soon as the cave was discovered. The urns, together with pottery, lamps, and bottles also discovered, have been transferred to the museum of Jewish antiquities for further study. Sukenik promised a full statement when the inscriptions have been translated.

BUILDS STRONG BODIES 8 WAYS!

To the Buyers of Printing and the General Public

A strike by the members of Chicago Typographical Union No. 16 now exists against Union Typesetting Companies and typesetting departments of Union Printing Plants

We are addressing this advertisement to buyers of printing so they will understand our inability to produce their work.

We are also addressing it to the General Public, so that they will have full knowledge of conditions in our Industry in case they are held up in any of our work which they need for their reconversion work program.

This strike was occasioned by the refusal of members of Chicago Typographical Union to abide by a signed agreement which we reached with their duly elected officers and committee on August 31, 1945, after five months of negotiating.

After that agreement was signed the Union submitted 11 new demands to which we feel it is impossible to accede.

They now refuse to negotiate unless we agree to a 36¼ hour week, with additional compensation, to replace our present 40 hour week.

We are not opposed to a shorter work week when conditions permit, but at the present time we cannot produce the work at hand with a 40 hour week plus a tremendous amount of overtime.

There are approximately 3,600 commercial men in the Union, and we estimate there is a shortage now of 350 men. There are 350 men in the armed services and we can employ these plus another 200 and probably more than that when reconversion gets under way.

We believe we have a duty to other branches of our industry and to the public at large to keep up our end in the reconversion program. We cannot do it with a shorter work week.

Any stoppage of work by composing room employees will create a cessation of work for 18,000 wage earners employed in all departments of our firms and will definitely contribute to unemployment.

A 36¼ hour work week will not mean any increased time off for the men. It will merely get them into the "overtime brackets" three and three-quarter hours quicker. Our industry is not to be confused with a war industry. We have had no "cut-backs" in hours or wages. There has been no decrease in "take home pay."

The total wages being paid to the Union are the greatest they have ever received either before or during the war. Their increase in "take home" pay far exceeds any increased cost of living or increase in taxes.

In the latest U. S. Bureau of Census figures the Printing Industry wage earners were the largest in the state and the Industry was 47th from a point of earnings.

So that you may know the full facts we are listing herewith:

1. Their present working arrangement.
2. The agreement which was worked out after 5 months of negotiations and which was signed by their duly elected officers and wage committee.
3. Their present demands.

OUR MEN ARE NOW GETTING:

Day Workers .....$61.80 per week ($1.54½ per hour)
Night Workers .....$65.80 per week ($1.64½ per hour)
Third Shift Workers .....$65.80 per week ($1.85⅔ per hour)
40 Hour Week (35 hours for third shift workers)
One Week's vacation with pay
Double time for 6th and 7th days worked
Double time for holidays
Triple time for Sundays and Holidays after 8 hours

THEIR OFFICERS and COMMITTEE AGREED to the FOLLOWING:

Day Workers .....$65.80 per week ($1.64½ per hour)
Night Workers .....$69.80 per week ($1.74½ per hour)
Third Shift Workers.....$69.80 per week (1.99¼ per hour)
40 Hour Week (35 hours for third shift workers)
Two Weeks' vacation with pay
Double time for 6th and 7th days worked
Double time for holidays
Triple time for Sundays and holidays after 8 hours
Right to hold meetings on employers' time when length of meeting is mutually agreed upon
This is the highest commercial Typographical wage scale in United States

THEY DEMAND:

Day workers.....$65.80 per week ($1.81½ per hour)
Night Workers.....$69.80 per week ($1.92¼ per hour)
Third shift workers.....$69.80 per week ($2.32-6/10 per hour)
36¼ Hour Week (30 hours for third shift workers)
Two Weeks' vacation with pay
Pay for holidays not worked
Double time for 5th day after 7¼ hours
Double time for 6th day
Triple time for holidays worked
Triple time for Sundays
Right to hold meetings of any length of time on employers' time
These demands would increase our wage cost from 28% to 48%, depending on the plant and the amount of overtime necessary to produce the work.

The undersigned association has represented the Printing Industry in Chicago for nearly 40 years and has always successfully negotiated contracts with Chicago Typographical Union No. 16. We have always had orderly procedure and we hope that Mr. Woodruff Randolph, President of the International Typographical Union who is now handling the case, will restore law and orderly procedure to the local Union and see to it that the agreement signed August 31st by their duly elected local officers and committee is adopted.

Invitation May Help to Regain Boy's Interest

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

"I went around with a fellow for about six months, but then we had a small fight and stopped dating each other. It was my fault that we disagreed, altho I didn't realize it at the time. I still like him so much, and some of his friends have told me that I'm still number one on his hit parade. I see him quite often and while he always says hello, that's all there is to that. I'd like to talk to him first to break the ice and patch up the misunderstanding, because I'm sure it's only his pride that keeps him from dating me again. What to do?"

Often a fellow pulls a sulky, hurt attitude when he's had a misunderstanding with a girl, and crawls off in a corner to lick his wounded pride. But usually he comes out of it when he realizes how much he misses those Friday nights they used to spend together, and soon he's on the phone again, making with the date bids. But some times the attitude persists, just because he's still sulking or because he just isn't interested anymore. So if you really think it was your fault that you fought, ask him to the next girl-asks-boy social affair. If he's still interested he'll be glad of the chance to see you again, but if the old glow is definitely gone — well, you'll find that out soon enough.

"For two years I've been crazy about a fellow in my class at school. But he doesn't know it! He always talks to me and dances with me at parties, but he's never asked me for a date. I thought he was just shy until he started dating one of my best friends quite regularly. And now another fellow I've been dating has asked me to go steady. But I wonder if I should, considering how much I like the other fellow."

The going steady routine should mean that a fellow and girl are strictly in the moonlight-and-roses, isn't-love-wonderful department, ready to go thru high school as a steady twosome with no outside interference. So it isn't fair to go steady with one fellow while you're seriously date-dreaming about another, just for Saturday night date insurance. But make sure that you really do like this hard-to-get young character and that it's not just a case of long distance hero worship. It would be silly to limit your date life for that. No gal in her right mind would sit home nights and turn down bids for the senior prom just because she'd rather go out with Van Johnson!

Parents Told: Help the Child to Be Himself

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Jerry's mother looked at her tall, broad shouldered son, the father of three children, and felt proud and a little guilty. She felt proud because that day he had been honored for his achievements in the architectural world, and guilty because she recalled how hard she had worked to rouse him when he was a little fellow from his constant abstraction, his indifference to all schooling that did not have to do with figures or drawing.

His older brother and sister had shone in all their studies; they were versatile—could put their minds on many things and do them well, and they were socially minded. But not Jerry; he seemed to have a one track mind that never would set the world afire, and socially he was a great disappointment. She certainly had striven to make him over: to make him just like the other children in the family. She realized now that he had turned out to be the most successful, the most satisfactory one of the lot.

Unless a mother is blinded by her love for her children she will have times when she'll compare them with other children to their disadvantage, even contrast one child with another in her own family. She wants each child, even tho she knows it to be unreasonable, to be perfect. At times she even wishes Judy was like her sister's Helen, or more like the popular girl down the street.

Be honest. Don't you find yourself thinking things like this once in a while?

And then, just as surely as you do, have you ever noticed how that feeling is swept aside by some act or quality of your own child that suddenly makes you glad he is just as he is?

This in a way is a realization of the integrity of their personality, a recognition of their identity. Your child is himself.

For the very reason that he is so much himself, don't wish to make him like any one else. Don't try to make him over, to remodel, or change him. Just love him and help him to make the most of himself as he is, appreciating that he has the defects that complement his virtues. If he's well and so vital that he's noisy, dirty, and headlong, instead of trying constantly to throttle him down, give him every outlet possible for his energy.

At the same time direct and channel his everyday living so that he gets the necessary rest and the proper food. If, on the other hand, your child is quiet, reserved, and terrifically interested in some hobby or talent that intrigues him don't force him to be impetuous, nor free and easy in friendships, nor try to interest him in something unrelated to his natural bent.

A Quickie Dinner for Busy Fall Days

The Fall rush season is on. Volunteer Red Cross work, P.T.A. committee meetings, church, women's club and other interests all compete for the busy homemaker's time. If you are to serve your family adequate meals as well as delicious ones, it will take wise planning and a good collection of quickie recipes, such as the one illustrated below, to use on your busy days.

Baked Corned Beef Hash and Eggs...for a hurry-up meal

2 cans Certified Corned Beef Hash
6 Clear Brook Eggs
6 tbsp. cream
salt and pepper

Spread the Certified Corned Beef Hash evenly in a margarined baking dish. With the back of a tablespoon, make six depressions and break an egg into each. Pour 1 tbsp. cream on top of each egg, sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake at 350° F. for 25 or 30 min. or until whites are set sufficiently. Serves 6.

Clip Recipe Here

Dinner in a Jiffy

Dinner will be on the table 35 min. after you step inside the door. Start the oven heating first thing. Don apron and get the corned beef hash and eggs into the oven first. While it bakes you have 25 minutes to cook a quick vegetable (creamed cabbage is a natural for this meal), set the table, prepare a delicious salad and wash fresh fruit for dessert.

If it's a cool day, by all means start the meal off with an invigorating cup of hot B-V Bouillon to chase those chills away. It's delicious, besides!

Festive Salad Quickly Made

Mix equal parts of diced celery, cucumber and green pepper with a bit of minced onion and just enough Wilson's Mayonnaise to moisten. Serve in tomato roses made by cutting medium-sized tomatoes in six or eight wedges to within a half inch of the bottom. Separate wedges at top so center will hold approximately one-fourth cup of this tasty filling.

Dinner will be so delicious . . . and pretty . . . your family would never guess you'd been away all afternoon if they hadn't seen you come home. It's to your credit to help in civic work . . . keeps you alert . . . if you can do so and still keep the home fires burning brightly.

Collect Quickie Recipes

It's good planning that makes this possible. Why not start collecting a group of nutritious quickie recipes and combine them into adequate menus?

You'll find several such recipes in my new revised recipe booklet, B-V Meat Magic, which is just off the press. It's free if you will send a self-addressed envelope to me at Wilson & Co., Chicago 9, Illinois.

Cordially,

Wedding News

Mrs. Ralph Martin Shaw and her daughter, Mrs. William Steinwedell, were in Washington, D. C., for the marriage yesterday of Mrs. Carneallia Perin Burling and Mrs. Shaw's son, Lt. Col. Thomas S. Tyler of the army air transport command. The ceremony took place at 4 p. m. in the army chapel in Washington, after which Col. Tyler and his bride left on a brief wedding trip to the Homestead at the Virginia Hot Springs.

The bride, whose first husband was Edward B. Burling Jr. of Washington, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Edmond Perin of Washington and Watch Hill, R. I. Mrs. Perin frequently has visited here as the guest of Mrs. Frank Hibbard. Lt. Tyler, who attended Andover, Yale university, and the law school of Northwestern university, has been in the service for more than three years, with China, India, Egypt, Honolulu, and Okinawa among his former posts. His first marriage to the former Frances McPherson, now Mrs. Willard N. Brown, ended in divorce.

In a ceremony Tuesday in Abbey Memorial chapel at Mount Holyoke college, South Hadley, Mass., Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson Holt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shaw Wilson of Astor st., became the bride of Roswell Gray Ham Jr., son of the college's president, Mr. Ham. The bridegroom, a former lieutenant in the army air forces, received his discharge last month following service in England and Italy He previously had served in the royal air force.

The former Mrs. Holt, whose first marriage to Jack Vernon Holt ended in divorce, attended Mills college. Mr. Ham was educated at Hotchkiss and at Yale university. He and his bride will live in New Haven while he attends the Yale school of drama.

Mr. and Mrs. James Scott Kemper have issued invitations to the marriage of his daughter, Dr. Mildred Kemper, and the Rev. Menter Bradley Terrill II., of Fort Worth, Tex., at 11 a. m., Oct. 20 in St. Luke's church, Evanston. The Right Rev. Fred L. Barry, Bishop of Albany, N. Y., formerly pastor of St. Luke's, will officiate. Because of the recent death of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Hathaway Kemper of Barrington, entertaining for the bride has been curtailed, and instead of a reception following the ceremony there will be a small breakfast for the immediate families only.

On the Calendar

The first meeting of the directors of the recently organized Chicago chapter of American Relief for France at 3:30 p. m. Saturday in Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard's Winnetka home will have a distinguished speaker, Abbé Ernest Dimnet, French author, philosopher, and educator. Abbé Dimnet, who was a frequent pre-war visitor to Chicago, arrived in this country in August. He had lost 47 pounds as a result of war time privation in France. He is staying with the Max Epsteins in Winnetka as Mrs. Welch Dickinson, his usual Chicago hostess, is having her home redecorated. Next week Abbé Dimnet will return to Washington, D. C., and some time in November he will go back to France.

After a business meeting Saturday, Mrs. Ballard will entertain at tea. She is one of the vice presi-

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 3—From Washington, D. C., comes a story about Francis Carpenter, a GI who became very sympathetic toward French orphans while stationed in France. Wanting to do something for them, he borrowed money thru his GI bill of rights provisions. With the money he backed Maggie Teyte's first Washington concert, the one President Truman's family attended. They sat in box No. 13, proving they have no superstition about numbers. Maggie's records are among Margaret Truman's favorites. The President's daughter attended a reception given for Maggie by French Ambassador Bonnet and Mme. Bonnet after the concert. After all expenses were paid, our GI sent $1,500.07 to the French orphans. . . . "Love Lies Bleeding," and so did Van Heflin after the first day of shooting on it. He was beaten up by thugs, but that was all right by him, because then nobody noticed how nervous he was. . . . Good heavens! "The Yearling" is still shooting. Seems to me that's going to be a lifetime job instead of a "yearling." Forrest Tucker has been added to the cast to play Lem. He replaces James Craig, who has a date with "Army Brat." . . . Jose Iturbi turned that delightful nursery rhyme, "Three Blind Mice," into boogie-woogie. Even I've got to admit it's charming—and I hate boogie.

Leo Is Plum Out of Plans

I talked with Leo McCarey, who doesn't know what he'll do next. He wants to find a story for Ingrid Bergman. She would like that, too. Leo may go to Nevada and visit Bing Crosby on his ranch. Merle Oberon and her husband, Lucien Ballard, also might take a trip up there before pushing on to New York City. It will be a friendly separation and divorce for the Billy Wilders. He has moved out of the family home and is bunking with Ernst Lubitsch. I must say he did a magnificent job on "The Lost Week-End." . . . Byron Barr, who has finished "Tokyo Rose," will marry Beverly Thompson from "Blue Skies" in about a month. Funny thing—they both come from Des Moines, Ia., went to the same grade school, but never really knew each other until they started working at Paramount. Beverly's first job here was with Earl Carroll. . . . Even Hal Wallis, who has stopped at the Waldorf-Astoria for years, couldn't get his nose inside the place, it's that packed. What a joke if Louis B. Mayer couldn't get in after puttin' it on the screen. . . . I wonder if John Carradine's fans will recognize him since he's got a haircut and doesn't play a madman? He's doing "Face of Marble." I didn't think his was that firm. . . . Elsa Maxwell is doing a small part with Orson Welles in "The Stranger." Irving Pichel's wife, Violetta Wilson, is about to sign for one of our biggest air shows. . . . Lloyd Douglas, who wrote "The Robe," has settled at Hidden Well ranch, near Las Vegas, to finish his next novel.

Why Not Call a Truce Now?

Why won't Hollywood let the Dick Haymes alone? Now comes another story of their separation with not a shred of truth in it. They've just spent a happy week-end down at Palm Springs, where Mrs. Dick lingered on to boil out their baby's cold. On Dick's first day back he went visiting on a 20th Century-Fox set, and right away the rumor started that he was paying court to one of their actresses. Dick tells me, "I was so unhappy during our last separation, which lasted three days." He no longer objects to Mrs. Haymes' movie career, which she is starting with Howard Hawks. In the meantime, she's taking dramatic lessons three times a week preparing for it. . . . Brian Donlevy is making himself some fish friends. He's sending his pals canned salmon from Oregon. . . . Audrey Long, whose last picture for R. K. O. was "Tall in the Saddle," was borrowed by Harry Cohn for "Perilous Holiday." Now her studio's giving her the big build-up.

Rich Jackets Give Elegance to Black Skirts

BY REA SEEGER

Most subtle and elegant contrast in the fall fashion parade is the combination of soft black wool with handsome brocade. The smartest duets in this style consist of a skirt and jacket, teamed to wear as a unified ensemble. They resemble suitdresses.

The brocades this season are particularly handsome in color, with elegant small patterns. One pattern is in the effective cane square motif. Other brocade patterns are copied from fine French motifs, such as fleur de lis, tiny florals, rococo scrolls, and the arabesques. It is brocade at its best—heavy, lustrous, and in jewel tones that always flatter.

The brocade jackets are made in fitted and suave silhouettes. The sleeves are fitted, long, and conspicuously small, ending in narrow cuffs. Jeweled buttons, or tiny brocade covered buttons, march down the front making the jacket snug and figure smooth.

The necklines are high and severe, because the beauty of the brocades is best dramatized by this spartan simplicity. It also enables the handsome two tone colors to be more exquisitely highlighted. The skirts are the essence of straight simplicity, altho the fabrics are rich and opulent. Broad cloth, fine wool crepe, and soft velvet are the most effective and popular fabrics for this purpose.

If the current showings of brocade jacket and wool skirt costumes do not exactly click with your pre-shopping decisions, a smart and sleek jacket can be made with any of the available brocades now featured in the fabric collections.

You'll find brocades in striped and in dotted patterns, in tiny floral patterns, and in some exciting heavy satin stripes in many unusual color combinations. Tho costly, these brocades are different enough in color and contrast to more than justify the expense.

Elizabeth Travis Makes Her Debut in a Piano Recital

Elizabeth Travis, a young pianist of eastern training and present midwestern residence, made her debut in Kimball hall last night before an audience that was not only small but shy, never being quite certain exactly when to applaud.

This minor detail, however, was no fault of Miss Travis, except as it revealed her lack of projective showmanship. She is a serious musician, and if her playing varies in interest it is largely because the details of her workmanship are not yet fully integrated into a personal style.

She started off brightly with Anis Fulelhan's transcription of two old English tunes, "The Blighted Swain," and "The Bailiff's Daughter." Her example in programming one of the early Beethoven sonatas—in this case Opus 10. No. 3, in D major—is one that might well be followed by other pianists, for these little masterpieces contain much musical meat that concert audiences would relish if properly served. Miss Travis' is not always an ideal Beethoven style, for she has a feminine tendency to soften his abrupt transitions, yet generally her interpretation made interesting listening.

Schumann's "Symphonic Etudes" profited from the best playing of the evening, particularly in the strongly rhythmic finale. Three Chopin etudes were neat without exceptional brilliancy, Fulelhan's "Syrtos" flashed its colors briefly but engagingly, and the pixies of Liszt's "Dance of the Gnomes" sometimes sounded like scampering elephants, because of too much left hand thumping.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

The Pioneers

An interesting query came to the White Collar editor's desk the other day. A reader asked: "When were women first gainfully employed in the United States?"

As nearly as we know, women indentured servants, during colonial days, sold their services for a period of four to six years in return for their passage from Europe. In 1620 60 young women sent over as wives for the colonists were auctioned off for 120 pounds to 160 pounds of tobacco each!

There were women shopkeepers and innkeepers among the early settlers. There was a woman horse shoer in Revolutionary days; Betsy Ross was an upholsterer; Benjamin Franklin's sister owned a business. There is a record of an advertisment of 1773 which said: "A lady of strict Honor and Benevolence who lives in a genteel sphere of life offers her service as advocate." In 1817, when Cornelius Vanderbilt was running a ferry between New York City and New Brunswick, N. J., his wife was managing the "Halfway House" at New Brunswick.

It has been said that John Wanamaker's department store in Philadelphia was the first to replace men clerks with women. But there already were women school teachers, seamstresses, and bookkeepers. With the introduction of the typewriter in the '60s and '70s, high white collars were fitted snugly around the feminine throat.

Perhaps some of our historically minded white collar girls can supplement this story of women in business.

Child Expert Urges That Democracy Be Taught in Nurseries

Mrs. Sidonie Matsner Gruenberg, director of the Child Study Association of America, made a plea for the teaching of democracy in the nursery and for the coöperation of churches, parents, teachers, and social workers to offset prejudice. She spoke at a conference yesterday on "Prejudice, a Threat to Our Children," in the McCormick Y. W. C. A.

The meeting was sponsored by the Chicago Round Table of Christians and Jews in coöperation with the Association for Family Living, the Church Federation of Greater Chicago, and the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"First lessons in democracy must come in the nursery years when a child discovers that each member of his family, whether adult or child, boy or girl, rates consideration equal to any others." Mrs. Gruenberg said that despite America's boast of democracy, it had failed so far to solve the problem of the minority groups.

ON THE RECORD

By Claudia Cassidy

Traubel-Rodzinski Wagner, Koussevitzky's Brahms, Bach's Double Concerto, Other Things

IT'S hard to know where to start, considering the wealth of new records now pouring in for review, but as the Chicago Opera is bereft of both Helen Traubel and "Tristan and Isolde" this season, how about Traubel's singing of excerpts from Wagner's music drama, with Artur Rodzinski and the New York Philharmonic orchestra? A distinguished consolation prize [Columbia M-573; five 12 inch records], it will last for many seasons.

As you probably suspect from hearing her in the opera, Miss Traubel is at her best not in the famed Liebestod, which is heroic in style and academic rather than passionate in import, but in the narrative of the first act, which she sings like a Wagnerian goddess. Mr. Rodzinski plays the preludes to the first and third acts with a molten flow that sometimes hints at Toscanini's incandescent eloquence, and the recording is a credit to expert engineers.

Koussevitzky's Brahms

Serge Koussevitzky and the incomparable Boston orchestra have a new album of Brahms' Symphony No. 3, in F major [Victor M-1007; four 12 inch records], and, tho there is some surface noise to nag at the listening ear, there is something far more important, a sense of tremendous vitality, of the surging ebb and flow of actual concert performance. When Koussevitzky was here last season, his quiet dignity reminded many of us poignantly of Stock. If his way with the Brahms Third reminds you of Stock, too, it isn't the fault of a runaway imagination. Compare the performance with the one Stock and the Chicago Symphony recorded for Columbia several years ago.

Bach for Keeps

Last winter at Orchestra hall one of the peaks of the good concert by the Busch Chamber Players was the performance of Bach's Concerto in D minor for two violins and orchestra, featuring Adolf Busch and Frances Magnes, and this season it has been the major cause of the solid success scored by George Balanchine's ballet, "Concerto Barocco." You can't have the ballet for keeps, but Mr. Busch and Miss Magnes have recorded the music with the Busch Players [Columbia X-253; two 12 inch records], and it's topflight Bach for the special shelf.

Vronsky and Babin

Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin are back with "Russian Music for Two Pianos" [Columbia M-576; three 12 inch records] ,a deft collection of tunes they might use as encores. There are Babin arrangements of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Dance of the Tumblers" from "Snow Maiden" and the quiet "Cradle Song" from "Sadko," a fluid performance of the rippling waltz from Arensky's first suite for two pianos, Babin's "Russian Village," based on a soviet peasant song, and two of his Stravinsky arrangements, the "Tango," originally written for voice and piano, and the celebrated "Circus Polka" that frightened Ringling's elephants, tho not quite into a stampede.

Bantam Caruso

Caruso heard thru a minimizing glass is one way of describing Jan Peerce, for the little lyric tenor persists on reminding people of his fabulous predecessor, tho he can match him in neither volume, quality, nor range. But he has his own fluent way of singing and a melodious showpiece album [Victor SP-8; two 10 inch records in paper covers] features him with the Victor orchestra, Maximilian Pilzer conducting, singing such liquid Italian airs as "O Sole Mio," "Return to Sorrento," "La Danza," and "Mattinata."

Plan for Horse Show Related by Committee

BY ELEANOR PAGE

Described yesterday as "the grand opera of the horse shows" is the Chicago horse show to be held Nov. 2 to 11 in the Coliseum, for the committee, which met at luncheon yesterday in the Palmer House to announce plans, feels that this huge event is creating interest among the owners of top horses of the United States. Entries already include champion horses of 30 states from coast to coast.

A total of $60,250 in prizes will be distributed in 125 classes, topping the all-time high of $60,000 which was awarded last year. The show will open on a Friday night, and matinee performances are scheduled for the two week-ends. The number of boxes available has been increased to 140, and many of these already have been taken.

The American Legion, which will receive the net proceeds, will assist in selling tickets. The money will go to the Legion's fund for returning war veterans, to be used for rehabilitation and information purposes. John F. Cuneo, chairman; Paul Butler, president, and the others who directed last year's show will continue in charge this year, with the addition of Herman Fischer as secretary. Col. Leon Mandel and Robert Rasmussen have been elected directors.

Friendly Aid Society Will Open 53d Season

The Friendly Aid society will mark the opening of its 53d year of benevolences with a meeting and luncheon at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the Fairfax hotel. Mrs. Walter Biddle heads the society this year. Her assisting staff includes Mrs. Paul Hansen and Mrs. Arthur Jackson, vice presidents; Mrs. Albert Held and Mrs. Wallace Shropshire, secretaries, and Mrs. Dorothy B. Tillinghast, treasure. The first of the club's annual series of benefit book reviews is scheduled at 11:30 a. m. Monday in the Arts club.

Thru the Looking Glass

Don't forget that next to a hair brush, a good hair dressing is one of the best aids to shining, well groomed locks. Dull, lusterless hair doesn't make an attractive frame for the face. Given a little attention the tresses become a beauty asset, making the skin look clearer and adding a crispness to the general appearance.

One excellent preparation which we like is a solid brilliantine that does a neat job of giving the hair a gleaming finish and helps replace the lack of natural oils which is responsible for dry, lack-luster tresses. This comes packed solidly in a wide mouthed glass jar and is exceptionally simple to use. Rub a little of it on the fingers and palms of the hands and then pat it lightly on the hair. Brush or comb it thru and in a second the hair is both tractable and glossy. This isn't the gooey kind of preparation that makes the locks stringy or oily looking, instead they look bright and shining and well cared for.

If you do your own shampooing we'd suggest that you try using this after washing the hair. Apply it rather generously while the hair is still damp and then brush vigorously until it's dry. The combination of brushing and dressing will make even the most stubborn hair soft and easy to dress and you'll be pleased with how nicely it falls into place and the brilliant, beautifying sheen.

Men as well as women like this hair dressing. Lightly scented with a clear, clean fragrance, they find it ideal as a daily dressing to give the hair a well groomed appearance without seeming greasy or overly oiled.

DUPLICATION

Erica sat up. Her hazel eyes lost their dreamy look and filled with bright, hot sparks.

"Why didn't grandmother call the police, at once?"

"My dear," said Mr. Izenga, "you know how she loathed scandal. The police were always the last resort to her, after her own resources had been exhausted. First she looked everywhere. Then she called me in. I know some people in Cincinnati who know Lucianna's friends so I called them, long distance Sure enough. We got a letter from them in a week's time saying that Lucianna had been seen wearing a very handsome necklace."

"O!" Erica screamed. "That's common thievery."

"Now wait, my dear. When Lucianna got back, your grandmother faced her and accused her of taking the necklace. She said she would not prosecute if it was returned. Lucianna at once took the offensive. She said she had admired the necklace so much that she had an imitation one made."

"And who believed that?"

"But I saw it. She trotted out this imitation necklace. It wouldn't have fooled any one who knew fine jewelry."

Erica was dismayed. "And so, she got away with it?"

"What could we do? We were both certain she had and has the real one. But since she has the imitation to show we can't prove it."

"Do you mean to say grandmother simply let her get away with that and didn't do a thing?"

"My dear, lying low and giving up are two different things. Your grandmother went straight home and asked Bennet if he had 'lent the necklace to Lucianna. Bennet was very angry and denied it. It wouldn't have been easy for Lucianna to have taken it, herself, but she could have managed. I recommended a period of inactivity."

Erica sprang to her feet. "Well, I'm not going to just lie back and take it. That necklace is mine!"

"Erica, Erica, please don't rush off and do something rash," Mr. Izenga cried. He knew the authorities were in no mood to overlook any further evidence of her impulsiveness. "I—I have a plan."

"There are two or three people who may know about that necklace, my dear. I want to see them first."

"Who are they?"

"I can't tell you, but I will see them at once. Then I shall go with you to talk to Lucianna. Is that what you had in mind?"

"What I have in mind is to get my own property back no matter what I have to do. I'd like to choke that woman."

Mr. Izenga's gasp was almost too high to be heard. Erica stared at him. Her eyes widened and she moved both hands over her mouth.

Then, slowly, she sank on the chaise longue. She began to shudder.

For a moment, Mr. Izanga was too numb to move. Suppose one of those nasty cat-footed police had been prowling around and overheard his darling's idle words.

He moved over to the chaise longue and sat with an arm around her. She began to cry desperately.

"There, there, darling."

"But . . . but how could I say it . . . after . . . O, poor grandmother!" A long tremble went over her: "I saw her again . . . lying there."

"Don't," Mr. Izenga whispered tenderly. "You didn't think, darling. But you must. See what I mean? The police are everywhere. Listening."

Erica nodded, jerkily. "O yes, yes. I'll wait for you. You go with me and we'll see her."

Harrison went off to the movies that evening, after exacting from Mr. Izenga a statement that he did not intend to use the car. And his statement was true. He preferred taking a taxi, this time.

He had planned a very busy evening. First, he telephoned Harry Duke and asked him to drop over.

"Well, what is it?" Mr. Duke demanded as he was admitted to the front hall. Mr. Izenga led the way to the den.

"What's on your mind, Izenga? Let's make it snappy."

"I merely want to ask you one question. Did you give . . . or perhaps we'd better say 'lend' . . . Mrs. Pomeroy's diamond and sapphire necklace to any one?"

That stopped him. "I didn't even know it was missing," Harry gasped. "And why should I be blamed?"

"You're not being blamed. We have reason to believe it is in the hands of a certain party. We want to find out how it got there."

"Well, I can't help you. I have no idea what you're driving at. You always have some scheme, Izenga. Why don't you keep out of this murder case?"

There was a great deal more but Mr. Izenga was fairly well convinced that Harry knew nothing about the necklace.

Undaunted by his lack of success, Mr. Izenga called Ridge Dawson and said he would be right over.

"I'm so sick, Cornelius," Ridge groaned.

"Too bad. Just leave the door open, will you? It'll just take a moment. Want to ask you something."

"Ask me now."

"Not over the phone. I'll be over."

The telephone rang before he could leave. Huntley Price wanted to see him. Mr. Izenga said he was running over to see Ridge Dawson and would call Huntley on his return.

Huntley was not pleased. In fact, he seemed aggressively unlike his normal self.

Mr. Izenga took a taxi to Ridge's flat. It was in another of those wait-on-yourself apartment houses, not far from Miss Frobisher's.

Ridge's appearance as he admitted his visitor certainly bore out his contention of being ill. His face was gray. Bags hung under his eyes. A wet towel was wound around his forehead.

"You'll have to talk to me in the bedroom, Cornelius." He led the way down the little hall and into a stuffy, hot room. A small electric fan churned the air around in a warm, futile circle.

"Sorry you feel bad," Mr. Izenga said. Radios from the open windows of the other apartments filled the air with auditory hash. From above came music so feverish it sounded like ants in the piano. "How can you stand this racket?"

"What racket?" Ridge snarled. "Blast 'n' blazes! My head!"

"Have you had a doctor?"

"No. Got no use for 'em. I have these blasted headaches, you know. I live thru 'em, somehow. Nothing anybody could do for me. I've had enough aspirin to ehoke a horse." He moaned again.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of spades.

Tenaciously holding on to high cards at the wrong time has proved very costly to many a card player. Possesion of a high card may at times be a millstone around one's neck. When a ship is in danger even precious cargo is thrown overboard in the interests of safety. That thought should have occurred to East, the declarer in today's hand.

The opening bid of two no trump cannot be severely criticized, tho it is microscopically short of textbook measurements. The addition of another jack would have made it meet even the most stringent requirements. West has just about enough to raise to three no trump and South made the orthodox lead of his fourth best spade.

North won with the ace and East played the seven. In that brief moment he tossed away his chance to fulfill the contract. The three of spades was returned and taken with the king, dummy was entered with a diamond, and the heart finesse succeeded. Since there was no further entry into dummy, declarer laid down the ace of hearts in the hope that the king was only singly guarded and would fall. When it failed to drop there was no way for declarer to make more than eight tricks.

The winning play at trick one is for declarer to drop the king of spades under the ace and that would have been no act of charity. His side of the boat was too heavy and he should have jettisoned that card. The play would not cost a trick, it would merely postpone the taking of it and transfer the trick to dummy. In this way dummy will have one entry in spades and one in diamonds permitting the taking of two heart finesses and bringing the total of winners to nine.

'Uncle Harry' Is a 'Different' Type of Movie

"UNCLE HARRY"

By Mae Tinée

Harry was a stodgy, inhibited, henpecked guy who wore high collars and studied the stars [the heavenly kind] for amusement. His family was once the wealthy "first" of the town of Corinth, but Harry's generation had dwindled down to the impoverished last of the Quinceys—one bachelor and two doting sisters.

The women were complete opposites, Hester, a plump, sentimental widow, and Letty, a small, sour hypochondriac who completely dominated the household by acidity or sweet individualism.

Comes the day when the ultra-modern Deborah [Ella Raines] prances into town with hanging mane and boyish stance, and Harry begins to realize that there are women in the world other than his two possessive sisters. He's a nice, sweet sort of person in spite of his Victorian apparel, and Deborah is intrigued with him. As soon as they meet Deborah and Letty draw sparks—but ladylike ones—and you can see trouble brewing with only one half of your bad eye. In spite of some very clever maneuvering, Harry announces his engagement, whereupon Letty really goes to work at her mischiefmaking.

It would be unfair to tell more of the plot, because the film is suspenseful and at times surprising, even if it is not entirely convincing.

Geraldine Fitzgerald takes most of the honors. Her work has force and finish, which can not be said for her rival, Miss Raines, who seems to be in need of some voice lessons.

Some hint of devious significance has been attributed to this film but as far as I could see, it is merely melodramatic, but well directed and different, and I think most people will like it. The only hint of anything unnatural I saw was the fact that Letty wandered around in a rig that might or might not have been a night gown, with a sheer woolen shawl over it complaining about the cold. My brother would have said: "Are you nuts? Go put some clothes on if you're cold," or words to that effect, but then I never call him "darling."

Poorly Done Musical

"EASY TO LOOK AT"

Produced by Universal, directed by Ford Beebe, featuring Gloria Jean, Kirby Grant, Eric Blore, J. Edward Bromberg, George Dolenz, and Mildred Law. Also presented at the Palace.

This is a sloppily constructed musical, about a little girl in a big city, who finds fame and love almost overnight, all because she meets an old janitor who used to be a famous dress designer. The young lady has just finished school but before you know it she's improving on costumes designed by an arteest.

Moon faced little Gloria Jean wanders around warbling songs when she's not at her sketches and there are a couple of musical numbers from a show, apparently produced in a theater which has a stage three times as big as its seating capacity.

CUBS WHIP TIGERS, 9-0; WYSE HURLS TODAY

54,637 WATCH BOROWY WIN IN SERIES OPENER

Newhouser Routed in Third Inning

BY IRVING VAUGHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]
(Pictures on back page)

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3—Charley Grimm's Cubs, champions of the National league, turned loose batting thunder today to project themselves into the spotlight as probable world champions, an honor the Chicagoans haven't owned since 'way back in 1908.

With an attack that routed the Tigers, titleholders in the American league, and particularly the usually 24 carat Hal Newhouser, the Cubs put a punch in the world series opener by crushing their opponents, 9 to 0, before a crowd of 54,637.

And, of course, along with all those Cub hits was that whitewash job—an accomplishment of Hank Borowy, the Yankees' midsummer $100,000 gift to Chicago. Borowy wasn't even close to his best but he was good enough.

Cubs' Bats Go Wild

All the tenseness that should be part of a world series battle disappeared soon after the first ball was pitched. Luck gave the Cubs almost free run of the premises in the first inning when four crossed the plate on hits which while effective were not exactly robust. But whatever good fortune had done for them with that first inning outburst was erased by legitimate power in the third. They slammed the competent Newhouser, winner of 25 American league games, in vicious fashion to add a batch of three runs. And later there were some more off Jim Tobin, one a homer by Capt. Phil Cavarretta.

The Cubs' free hitting, as compared to the skimpy six safeties yielded by Borowy, was only one phase of the way in which they exhibited themselves, at least for a day, as far superior to the American leaguers. They ran the bases perfectly, except in one instance, and they did some fielding that even the Tiger partisans had to admire, the choice items in the art of defense being a lunging one-handed stop by Cavarretta and a story book throw by Andy Pafko.

Big Day for Phil and Andy

It so happened that neither Cavarretta nor Pafko permitted these fielding stunts to take their minds off the value of base hits. Along with his homer, which was under the heading of unnecessary punishment, Cavarretta figured in both the first and third inning rallies with singles. He also walked once. Pafko was equally potent except for distance. He got into the first inning jamboree with a walk, doubled to aid in the three run third, and subsequently singled twice, one of these hits getting him around the bases in the seventh with the ninth run.

Borowy was so wabbly that at one point Manager Grimm came charging out of the dugout to learn first hand whether his right hander wanted relief. During the first six innings Hank not only yielded six hits, but walked five and hit a batter. In the first inning alone four Tigers reached base, but there was a double play in between. Twice thereafter the Tigers had two on base with nobody out, the last time in the sixth inning. But thereafter nobody reached base, the Cub pitcher retiring the last 12 batters without a break.

Johnson Starts First Rally

Stan Hack, first batter of the afternoon, furnished a hint that all was not going to be well with Newhouser. A great pickup and throw by Jimmy Outlaw robbed the veteran of a hit. Then the fun started—at least it was fun for the Cubs.

Don Johnson dribbled a hit neither Skeeter Webb nor Eddie Mayo could reach and a moment later Johnson stole second, staying there while Harry Lowrey was flying to Roger Cramer. While Cavarretta was at bat a bad pitch bounced past Paul Richards but Johnson wasn't ready for a sprint and lost a chance to move to third at bargain rates. When Cavarretta beat out a bounder to Mayo, the Johnson lapse became important because it kept a run from scoring. The incident was quickly forgotten in view of the fashion in which Chicago gentlemen soon began to drift across the plate.

Score on Passed Ball

Newhouser's second pitch to Pafko escaped Richards, Johnson scoring and Cavarretta going to second. This development caused the southpaw to get Pafko out of the way by issuing a deliberate pass, making

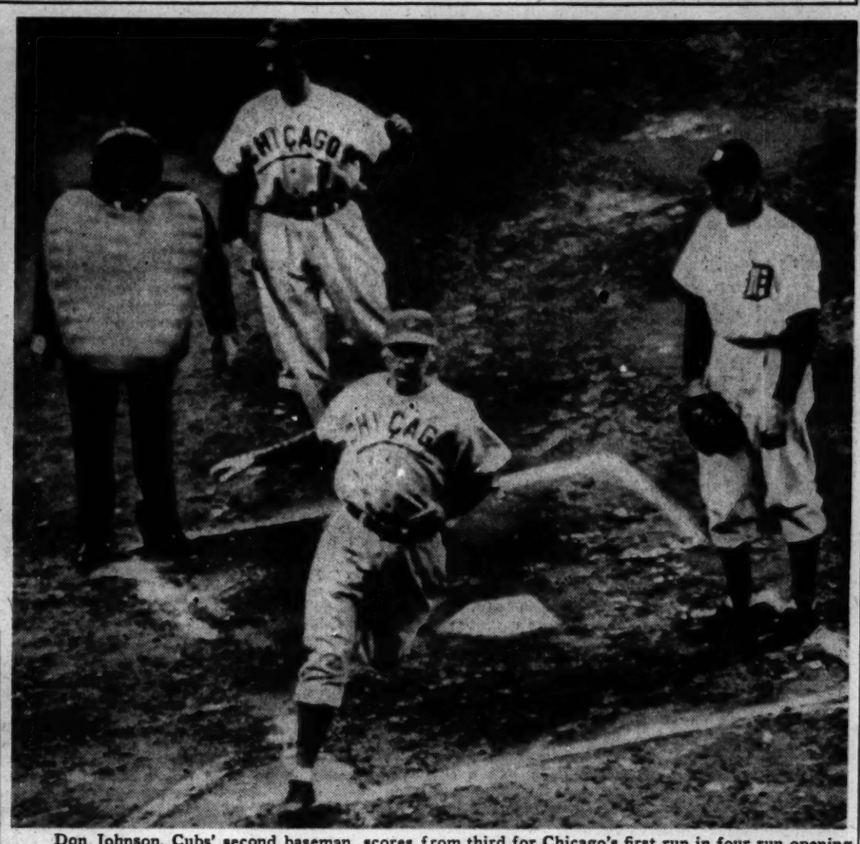
A TIGER'S OUT—A CUB SCORES—AND IT'S A GREAT DAY FOR BOROWY

Eddie Mayo, Tigers' second baseman, is out at third by a comfortable margin in fifth inning of opening world series game with the Cubs in Detroit yesterday. Stan Hack (6), Cubs' third sacker, has the ball waiting. Manager Steve O'Neill of Tigers (32), coaching at third, suggests Mayo is safe, but Umpire Jocko Conlan is set to rule runner out. The Cubs won, 9 to 0. [Associated Press Wirephotos]



Don Johnson, Cubs' second baseman, scores from third for Chicago's first run in four run opening inning. Hal Newhouser, losing Tiger pitcher, is at right. Andy Pafko, next Cub batter, who walked, is holding bat. The umpire is Bill Summers.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 3—The Cubs hit when they had men on bases and the Tigers didn't. . . . That was the story of their 9 to 0 victory in today's world series opener. . . . Hank Borowy never was in trouble after his mates cut down two Tigers with a double play in the first inning. . . . Borowy, competing in world series competition for the third time in his brief span of four years as a major leaguer, was so effective that Cub outfielders made only four put-outs. . . . The Yankee cast-off was accorded perfect support. . . . Detroit by contrast was jittery afield, altho the box score will show no errors. . . . The devastating hitting of Andy Pafko and Phil Cavarretta guaranteed an easy victory for Borowy. . . . Hank expects at any moment to be notified that Mrs. Borowy has presented him with another heir. . . . They have a daughter. . . . The radio hookup for the series is said to be the largest in sports history. . . . It includes 550 stations, 120 of which are overseas. . . . This was not the most one sided shutout in world series records. . . . In 1934 the Cardinals whipped the Tigers, 11 to 0. . . . Borowy, in beating the Tigers, became the first pitcher to win world series games in each major league since Jack Coombs. . . . Borowy won for the Yanks over the Cards in 1943. . . . Coombs won in world series competition with the Athletics in 1910 and 1911 and in 1916 as a member of the Dodgers.

Leslie O'Connor was busy before the game accepting congratulations on his appointment as general manager of the White Sox. . . . One of his first assignments will be a meeting with Manager Jimmy Dykes. . . . Dykes told Steve O'Neill, manager of the Tigers, not long ago that if Harry Grabiner left the White Sox he would resign, too. . . . Borowy's first two pitches were strikes, but Skeeter Webb apparently decided Detroit had suffered enough strikes, so he singled on the next offering. . . . Fans who came to Detroit without Scotch were very unhappy because it can't be bought, even by the drink. . . . The only liquor sold in bottles is rum and wine and it seemed that nobody wanted rum or wine. . . . Many had heard of the shortage, which was a bad break for red caps and hotel bellboys. . . . It increased the weight of satchels 100 per cent. . . . The early estrangement of Commissioner Chandler and the Baseball Writers' association was corrected in a series of pre-game conferences over world series scoring. . . . President Martin Haley of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and Secretary Ken Smith of the New York Mirror represented the authors. . . . The commissioner turned down a suggestion to enlarge the scorers' staff from three to four, a proposal opposed by the writers.

CHARLEY GRIMM held to his prediction of the Cubs in six games during warm-up drills. . . . He made it in the face of counsel from a friend who said he didn't think either the Tigers or the Cubs would win a game. . . . "How come?" inquired Charley. . . . "I've seen both teams play," the crystal gazer explained. . . . Grimm was looking for the gent after the first game was in the books. . . . Commissioner A. B. Chandler, accompanied by Mrs. Chandler, arrived an hour before game time. . . . He officially opened the series by throwing out the first ball despite the fact that it was pretty cold weather for a gentleman from Kentucky to be using his pitching arm. . . . Billy Southworth, whose Cardinals chased the Cubs almost neck and neck to the finish wire, came to the Chicago bench to wish Grimm and his boys a series championship. . . . Coach Roy Johnson and Bob Chipman pitched to the Cubs in batting practice. . . . First in the bleacher line before dawn this morning were four Alabama boys who shivered in 36 degree temperature. . . . They were from Brewton, 50 miles from the home town of Virgil Trucks. . . . The mercury rose to 46 degrees in the open press box at 1 o'clock. . . . This was the seventh world series appearance of Bill Finzel and his 45 piece band. . . . He played in the 1907-'08-'09 events when Hughie Jennings was manager of the Tigers. . . . His tooters have helped inaugurate 43 American league seasons in Detroit. . . . The most enthusiastic Tiger rooters were Mrs. Steve O'Neill, wife of the team manager, and their four daughters, all of whom are married. . . . Mrs. Charley Grimm is waiting in Chicago for her favorites to return to Wrigley field.

The winner of the first game in world series competition has won 26 times, as against 14 losses. . . . The other one ended in a tie. . . . Hank Wyse, who will pitch for the Cubs tomorrow, pronounces his name Wise. . . . If you have been wondering, the accent in Borowy is on the second syllable. . . . Joe Page of Montreal resents the claim of Al Lang, former mayor of St. Petersburg, Fla., that he is the only fan who has attended every world series. . . . Page, for many years a railroad representative until his retirement, was at the 1903 event and never has missed one since. . . . Briggs stadium was freshly painted for the series

MACPHAIL TELLS INSIDE STORY OF BOROWY DEAL

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3 (AP)—Larry MacPhail, fiery boss of the New York Yankees, telling the inside story of his sale of Pitcher Hank Borowy to the Chicago Cubs, tonight said he had no regrets over the deal that won the Chicago Cubs world series opener with the Detroit Tigers.

"Borowy had his chance with us and he failed," declared MacPhail. "The Cubs made a good deal. It would appear now, but don't forget that after Borowy left us, the Yankees climbed from seven and a half to only a game and a half behind in the American league race without him." The Yankees finished the season 6½ games behind the pennant winning Tigers.

He did not say, however, where the fourth place Yanks would have finished with Borowy.

Million Dollar Bank Balance

MacPhail denied the sale was made to replenish dwindling Yank coffers. "At the time we had $600,000 in the bank," he asserted. And now, he added, the Yankees have a million dollar bank balance.

Borowy at first declined to join the Cubs, MacPhail said, insisting he be traded within the American league. "I told him, you're making $19,000 a year now and the way you are going you'll make $10,000 next year," explained the woundup Larry, "so you go and beat the Cincinnati Reds a half dozen times and you'll get another $6,000, making it $25,000 for you next year."

The slim right hander was not the pitcher the Cubs first wanted from the Yankees, MacPhail declared.

"Jimmy Gallagher [general manager of the Cubs] first wanted Walt Dubiel and next Ernie Bonham," Larry said. "Gallagher offered $50,000 for Bonham, but when we cleared Bonham thru the American league on waivers the Cubs also claimed him, queering the deal."

Good Deal for Cubs

At the same time, waivers were being asked on Borowy, Larry continued, and when the American league also passed on him, the Cubs negotiated a deal involving $97,500 in cash or $75,000 and three players at $7,500 each.

"Mind you, Washington and Boston took other players on the same waiver list that included Borowy," MacPhail shouted.

"I'll say now that the Cubs made a good deal, but I'm not apologizing for getting rid of Borowy. We'll be in the American league again next year," MacPhail concluded.

MARKS, FORMER MAROON, NAMED AIR FORCE COACH

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 3 (AP)—Maj. Wally Marks, former Lindblom High school and University of Chicago football star and coach at Indiana State Teachers college at Terre Haute, Ind., has been named head coach for the army air forces personnel distribution command's team here.

Capt. Ted Shipkey, retiring coach, said he and Staff Sgt. Jim Harris, line coach, were to be discharged from service next week at Greensboro, N. C.

Shipkey will return to his former coaching post at the University of New Mexico and Harris to his old job as assistant coach at the University of Iowa.

Four Cubs who played major roles in shutting out the Tigers relax in dressing room after the victory. Left to right: Phil Cavarretta, Hank Borowy, who yielded six hits; Andy Pafko, and Bill Nicholson. Cavarretta contributed a homer, Nicholson a triple, and Pafko a double among other items in the Cubs' 13 hit attack.

A PAVING BRICK HELPS CUBS WIN!

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3 (AP)—The happiest man in Detroit tonight was Charles John Grimm, the inspiring 48-year-old leader of the triumphant Chicago Cubs.

The leather-faced Grimm was grinning from ear-to-ear and whistling with boyish enthusiasm as he led his chilled and shivering players into their steam-heated dressing room.

Grimm dropped onto a stool in front of his locker to think over what had happened.

"It's a nice, cold day to get nine runs, isn't it?" He beamed. Then he launched into a complimentary speech on Hal Newhouser, the Detroit hurler.

"Newhouser had good stuff, but we just waded into him," Grimm explained. "Don't take it away from him, boys, he's a helluva pitcher."

Phil's Hit Turning Point

Grimm said the turning point of the game came in the first inning when Phil Cavarretta beat out a roller to Second Baseman Eddie Mayo with two out.

"If Cavarretta is called out, that makes it rough for us," Charley declared.

The noisiest and gabbiest of all the Cubs was the 65 year old trainer, Andy Lotshaw, serving his 25th year as club conditioner. Lotshaw, with his uppers and lowers in his hip pocket, began yelling for his bricks. "Where are them bricks," he screamed. "Get me them bricks, I'll need them tomorrow."

Lotshaw explained he had soaked two huge paving bricks in hot water while the Cubs were on the field, so that Borowy could keep warm between innings. Andy placed one of the bricks on the pitcher's right arm and shoved the other under his feet while the Cub

CUBS NOW RULE 5-8 FAVORITES TO WIN SERIES

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs tonight were shifted from underdogs to 5 to 8 favorites to win the world series as the result of their 9 to 0 victory in the first game. However, despite the change from the pre-series 10 to 13 price favoring the Tigers for the series, Detroit was the favorite to win the second game tomorrow and established as a 5 to 6 choice. Bookies were giving even money on the Cubs in the second game.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3—Hank Wyse, the personable Cherokee boy from Oklahoma, will pitch for the Cubs in the second game of the world series tomorrow. He will be opposed by Virgil Trucks, fresh from Uncle Sam's navy.

Manager Charley Grimm announced before the opener he would shoot with young Hank in the second game—and nothing happened today to make him change his mind about employing his 22 game winner in the program to take the series in four games.

Twenty-one of the 22 triumphs Wyse contributed to the Cubs' season total of 98 victories were complete games, as were two of his 10 losses—so Chicago partisans are not anticipating any such parade of Cub casters from the center field bull pen as the Tigers put on in the opener.

Hank Is Quite Durable

Wyse, tho not a powerful physical type, pitched more innings in the 1945 National league season than any other Cub—278 in 38 games, as compared with Claude Passeau's 227 in 34 games; Paul Derringer's 214 in 35 games; Ray Prim's 165 in 34 games and Hank Borowy's 122 in 15 contests.

Hank has the fine knack of pacing himself. Tho he pitched one one hitter and several other low hit games, he yielded an average of almost a hit an inning while winning those 22 and losing 10—a commentary on his ability to conserve his strength for emergencies. Hank, by the way, walked only 56 and struck out 72.

Hank had only one streak of misfortune in running up the biggest victory total any Cub pitcher had assembled since 1938. He made five tries for his 19th victory, four of which contributed to his loss total. At the height of his effectiveness Henry spent 10 days away from the team while getting a thoro riffle from his Tulsa draft board.

He's Really an Arkansan

Wyse, tho he spent most of his life in Oklahoma, was born in Lunsford, Ark., March 1, 1919. Trucks, Wyse's adversary of tomorrow, was born in Birmingham, Ala., not two months later—on April 26, 1919. He, too, is of Indian extraction.

Trucks joined the navy March 2, 1944, and was the star pitcher of Comdr. Mickey Cochrane's Great Lakes Bluejackets during the 1944 season.

Trucks did not join the Tigers after his discharge from the navy until last Saturday. He started the game Sunday, in which the Tigers clinched the pennant. Trucks was relieved, however, by Hal Newhouser and was not the pitcher of record.

The presence of a right handed Tiger pitcher will not alter the Cub line-up except that Paul Gillespie, a left handed hitter, will catch.

HERE ARE TIPS FOR FANS WHO'LL ATTEND SERIES

Come Early and Go to the Proper Gate: Frain

BY EDWARD PRELL

Chicago's first world series crowd since 1938, which will flock to Wrigley field Saturday for the Cubs' fourth game against the Detroit Tigers, will be an orderly one, if suggestions issued last night by Andy Frain are followed.

Andy, head of the famous Frain organization of ushers, offered three major points to eliminate confusion. They are:

1. Go to the gate called for on your ticket.

2. Bring only the ticket calling for game No. 4 and leave the other two at home.

3. Don't wait until the last moment to leave for the ball park.

Frain, who will direct a corps of 525 ushers, then elaborated on his three point plan.

"All gates at Wrigley field are numbered," he said. "No. 1 is on Sheffield av., near Addison st.; No. 2 is on Addison, near Sheffield; No. 3 is at Addison and Clark sts.; Nos. 4 and 5 are on Waveland av. near Clark st."

Leave Later Tickets at Home!

Frain pointed out that by using all these gates, traffic jams will be eliminated, unless the fans wait until the last minute to show up. The reserved seat gates will be opened at 10:30 a. m. Bleacher fans will start assaulting the gate in their precinct at 8:30 a. m., but this always is a free-for-all, over which even Andy's ushers have little control.

The head usher man said that in 1938 many world series tickets were found which fans had lost during the progress of the games. He pointed out that if spectators bring the entire strip of three tickets they also will run the risk of the ticket taker tearing off the wrong pasteboard, for which there is no recourse. If fans bring only the ticket calling for each particular game, handling of the crowd will be expedited, Frain added.

"If I were a fan, I would plan on arriving at Wrigley field around the noon hour," said Frain.

Direct Ushers by Radio

For the first time in sports, a crowd will be directed by walkie-talkies. Girls with the radio gadgets will be posted at strategic points in the park in contact at all times with Frain, who will station himself at a vantage point. This will lessen the strain on Frain, whose practice in the past has been to dash all over a park or stadium in his capacity as supervisor.

One hundred of the 525 ushers will be girls. Frain has bought new outfits for them, consisting of a navy blue skirt with gold stripes down the sides, powder blue blouses, and blue and gold capes.

Taliaferro May Not Play Against Illini

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 3 [Special]—George Taliaferro, Indiana university's star freshman back, may be handicapped by an injured side in the Hoosiers' third Big Nine conference football game of the season, against Illinois in Champaign Saturday. Coach Bo McMillin said today Taliaferro's injury was not improving as it should and Bob Miller and Bill Armstrong, sophomores, and Don Jones, freshman, are being groomed to take the Gary Negro's place.

The Hoosiers worked hard on offense, especially on the blocking, which broke down in last week's game against Northwestern.

KOLENS, STASICA SEEK JOBS

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 3 [Special]—Lt. Bill Kolens, discharged navy bomber pilot who reported this week, is a new tackle prospect in the Illinois football camp. He is pressing Capt. Ralph [Babe] Serpico for the right tackle job.

Corp. Stan Stasica, one of the heroes of Bastogne in France and one of Rockford, Ill., High school's greatest all around athletes, reported for practice yesterday and may be in the back field when Illinois meets Indiana here Saturday.

Stasica, recently discharged from the army, is seeking permission to enroll at Illinois. He played freshman football at the University of South Carolina before going into the service, and transfer of his credits will determine whether he will be eligible to play Saturday.

IRISH BACK INJURED

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 3 [Special]—The Notre Dame football squad today lost the services of Roger Cadieux, sophomore quarter back, when the Springfield, Mass., youth suffered a broken collar bone in a scrimmage between the third and fourth teams which were battling for positions on the Irish traveling squad for the Georgia Tech game Saturday.

Coach Hugh Devore and the Notre Dame party will leave the campus tomorrow morning for Atlanta.

MARQUETTE FEARS PASSES

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 3 [Special]—Marquette's football team, hoping for its first victory next Sunday against Villanova in Buffalo, N. Y., concentrated today on forward pass defense. Coach Tom Stidham used his own best passers in demonstrating the Villanova aerial attack and hopes to avoid possible repetition of the defensive lapses which cropped up in the Wisconsin game.

Orlando [Pancho] Palesse, right end, has been named as Marquette's game captain for Sunday.

36 ON GOPHER SQUAD

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 2 [Special]—Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota today named a squad of 36 for the Nebraska game at Lincoln Saturday. Bierman also made a list of 20 plays to be used against Nebraska, deviating from the usual 25 on road trips.

way for Bill Nicholson's entry as the big villain. Nick hoisted a fly to right center and Roy Cullenbine backed against the wall, 370 to home plate. But the ball went right on thru Cullenbine's extended hands for a triple, Cavarretta and Pafko scoring. Then Mickey Livingston singled to center, the only genuine hit of the inning and Nick ran home with the fourth run.

Borowy's first two pitches of the day were strikes but Webb then singled. Mayo followed with a single to center but the situation eased up a bit when Roy Hughes captured Cramer's well hit grounder and turned it into a double play. The pressure went back on Borowy when he threw eight wide of the plate to walk Hank Greenberg and Cullenbine, filling the bases. But Rudy York sent up a pop foul which Cavarretta grabbed.

Still Wild in Third

Another double play lifted Borowy out of trouble after he had walked Richards in the second inning, but he continued his wildness in the third, which opened with Cavarretta making his one handed diving stop to rob Webb of a possible double. Mayo was dispatched on strikes, whereupon Borowy walked Cramer and put Greenberg on base by nicking the peak of the slugger's cap with an errant pitch. But this was cleared up by Cullenbine's pop to Johnson.

The real polishing off of Newhouser in the Cubs' half of the third began with Johnson doubling to right center, the 40 year old Cramer making a desperate but futile dive. Lowrey bunted to put Johnson on third and Cavarretta horned in with his second single, Johnson scoring.

Pafko picked the wide open spaces of left center for his double, Cavarretta galloping around to the plate. Nicholson popped out, but Livingston sent a single into center to score Pafko and bring about Newhouser's retirement. Al Benton came in and the incident closed with Livingston failing in an attempted steal.

Pafko's Throw Nips Mayo

Borowy's fondness for keeping himself in hot water was evidenced by a pass to York and Outlaw's single with none out in the fourth. But Hank set down the next three, two of them on strikes and the other, Webb, on a pop to Hack.

The fifth was another more or less turbulent inning for the ex-Yankee, but it had its compensations, at least for the Cub partisans. It brought Pafko's throwing arm into the limelight. Mayo led off with a single to left and, after a pop foul had sent Cramer back to the dugout, Greenberg lined a single into center. Mayo galloped for third, apparently having no knowledge of Pafko's skill. Mayo slid toward third base, but he still was several feet away when Hack tagged him with the ball which had arrived with the accuracy of a rifle shot.

York opened the sixth with a single to center and was safe at second when Hack, trying for a force play on Outlaw's grounder, threw too late. However, the next three men accomplished nothing and Borowy was master from then on.

Cavarretta Blasts One

Possibly because they wanted to show they were pretty versatile fellows the Cubs waited to make their move in the two run seventh after Johnson and Lowery had hit fly balls. Then Cavarretta added to his day's achievements with the homer that bounced off the railing of the upper deck in right field.

The blasting of Jim Tobin's butterfly pitch continued with a single by Pafko, his third hit. Pafko stole second with ease and a moment later was promoted to third by Richards' second passed ball. Then Nicholson scored Andy with a single, for the last Cub run and hit.

3 BEST MINOR LEAGUES TO ASK HIGHER RANKING

Columbus, O., Oct. 3 (AP)—George M. Trautman, president of the American association, disclosed today that the association and the International and Pacific Coast leagues may ask at the minor league baseball meeting here in December to be placed in a new class AAA among minor loops.

The three leagues now are the only ones in class AA, but the Southern association has applied for that same rating.

Creation of a new class would entail, among other things, a change in draft prices for the leagues involved. At present, the major leagues pay $7,500 for players drafted from class AA teams.

Sportsman's Open to Public Next Monday

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

There will be the usual number of races at Hawthorne next Monday, but Sportsman's park, the half mile racing plant just next door, will be thrown open to the public for inspection of the improved facilities offered for Chicago's closing race meeting which opens Oct. 15 and runs until Nov. 10, the last six days of which will be sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

John L. Keeshin, president and general manager of the track, will conduct a tour of the plant Monday and Tuesday.

10,000 Watch Card

Hawthorne's 23d day of its fall meeting drew a crowd of 10,000 for which four $2,500 purse events were presented. The first one, for 3 year olds at six furlongs, went to F. E. Keller's Lucky Colonel which got up just in time to beat Thomas Piatt's Lady Kentucky, a 30 to 1 shot.

Cherry Wine, owned by the Happy Hour farm and with J. W. Martin up, accounted for the second $2,500 feature, a six furlong sprint for older horses.

$926,839 Mutuel Handle

Art Fischer brought in A. and R. Craig's Tetros Jr., in the third $2,500 affair, also a six furlong sprint.

The fourth headliner, at a mile and a sixteenth, went to Mrs. E. E. Robbins' Late Thread, piloted by J. Dean Jessop.

The mutuel handle for the day totaled $926,839.

Borowy, weary after taming the Tigers, quietly accepted the congratulations of his mates, grinning with appreciation for their sharp and brilliant fielding.

Better Today, Says O'Neill

In the Tiger clubhouse the gloom wasn't quite as thick as the steam from the showers. Nobody offered any excuses, from Manager Steve O'Neill down.

"They just beat us. We'll be better tomorrow, I hope," O'Neill said calmly from his wired-in cubby-hole of a dressing room.

Catcher Paul Richards, peeling off his socks, looked up long enough to announce, "we didn't guarantee to beat 'em in four games."

"We were bad," Hank Greenberg added, ripping a strip of adhesive tape from his right ankle. "Borowy was erratic and I thought we'd get to him until he got that seven run lead. Of course he settled down after that. We just couldn't get started."

Mayo Praises Pafko's Arm

Eddie Mayo, thrown out trying to advance from first to third on Greenberg's line drive single to center in the fifth inning, praised the throwing arm of Andy Pafko.

"I didn't have a chance," said Mayo. "That throw came up to third like it was out of a cannon."

Roy Cullenbine, who went hitless, gave the bulk of the credit to Borowy for the Cub victory. "He pitched a beautiful game; he had good stuff and he kept it."

Hal Newhouser, who departed early after yielding eight hits to the first 16 Chicago batters, explained his sad fate.

"I have no excuses," the lean left hander said. "We were off to a bad start and couldn't do anything about it. I felt good and had plenty of stuff. I'll be back a couple of times. I'm not that bad."

PRECEDENT OF 9 YEARS BROKEN IN CUB VICTORY

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3 (AP)—The Cubs broke a long time precedent today in taking a one game lead over Detroit in the world series—it was the National league representative's first opening game victory in nine years. Not since Carl Hubbell, New York Giants' left hander, beat the New York Yankees' Red Ruffing in the first game in 1936 series has a National league club gotten away on top.

With Hank Borowy achieving the 47th shutout in the history of the series, he pinned the whitewashing on the most blanked club in series record. Detroit, in seven series, now has been cut down without a run in eight games altogether.

Borowy's shutout was the series' 28th by National league pitchers against 19 for American leaguers.

Cub bats almost set a new record in compiling Chicago's nine runs. In only one previous series shutout has the margin been heavier. That was Dizzy Dean's 11 to 0 victory for the St. Louis Cardinals against the Tigers in the final game of the 1934 series.

WILDCAT COACH SEES MICHIGAN AS TRUE TEST

Green Lines Will Fight It Out Saturday

BY WILFRID SMITH

Northwestern's game Saturday with Michigan in Dyche stadium will furnish a truer picture of the ability of the Wildcat squad, according to Coach Lynn Waldorf, than the 7 to 7 tie last week with Indiana in the opening conference game. Thirty-five thousand, an excellent crowd in view of the competition from the world series game in Wrigley field, will see the 20th contest between the Western conference foes.

"We had a psychological advantage over Indiana since the Hoosiers had pointed for Michigan the week before. Winning that game," Waldorf said yesterday, "meant Indiana could not readily reach the same peak of performance, particularly since Northwestern did not figure to cause much trouble. Michigan will be different.

Michigan Line Inexperienced

"There is one basis of comparison, however. Michigan's line is relatively inexperienced. If John Lintol is able to play, there will be three experienced men in Michigan's line. The others are Art Renner, end, and Harold Watts, center. Northwestern's line also is green for Max Morris, our left end, is the only player with experience."

The ends will be all important defensively against Michigan because of the speed of the Wolverine backs on wide runs. Morris will be at left end [he played right end last season] and Ken Wiitgen and Stan Gorski will handle the right end position. Gorski played 60 minutes against Indiana because Wiitgren was injured.

Michigan must be rated over the Wildcats on attack if for no other reason than Capt. Joe Ponsetto. This veteran quarter back is invaluable not only because of his generalship but because of his defensive ability and his forward passing. Northwestern's quarter backs for the T formation are all first year players.

Kemp to Get Chance

Ted Kemp, 18 year old graduate of Senn High school, will get an opportunity to play against Michigan, Waldorf said yesterday. Kemp was second in individual scoring last year in Chicago public high school competition. The leading scorer, Walter Teninga, from Morgan Park High school, is one of the freshman stars in Michigan's back field.

Northwestern drilled yesterday on defensive maneuvers aimed to stop Teninga and Bob Nussbaumer, Wolverine veteran right half who reported after Michigan's opening game with Great Lakes.

at a cost of $30,000. . . . Almost every one at the series agrees that the major league season stretches out too long. . . . Save for the contending clubs, sports interest is centered in football after Sept. 15. . . . Few world series contestants have had an infield to match the Cubs in age. . . . Stan Hack is 36; Don Johnson, 34; and Roy Hughes and Cavarretta, 29. . . . The Tigers are about the same. . . . Rudy York, Jimmy Outlaw, and Eddie Mayo are 32, and Skeeter Webb, 33. . . . Six of the Cubs' 13 pitchers are over 35. . . . Hank Greenberg and Tommy Bridges are the only Detroit players still with the club who participated in the series with the Cubs 10 years ago. . . . Greenberg batted against the Cubs' Ray Prim when both were rookies in the Piedmont league 14 years ago. . . . "He hit a long ball then, too," Prim recalls.

Bill Terry, former manager of the New York Giants and one of baseball's great all-time hitters and first basemen, was among the early arrivals. . . . And Terry was supposed to have lost interest in the national game. . . . Mickey Cochrane, back in civvies after a long stretch in the navy, and Tris Speaker, both of whom left reputations that will live forever in baseball lore, mingled with players of both teams before the field was cleared. . . . A hosiery firm wired Steve O'Neill it would donate a dozen pairs of nylons to every Tiger who knocks a home run in this series. . . . The only American league managers who were not present were Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox and Oscar Bluege of the Senators. . . . Coach Mule Haas was the lone White Sox delegate. . . . Four National league managers were whooping it up for the Cubs. . . . In addition to Southworth, they were Bill McKechnie of the Reds, Mel Ott of the Giants, and Frank Frisch of the Pirates. . . . Members of the Cubs and Tigers will play an exhibition game in Huron, S. D., after the series for an orphanage benefit. . . . Bill Summers was the home plate umpire. . . . Sid Keener, St. Louis sports editor who sent out a circular 10 days ago inviting the press to send him requests for accommodations for the 1945 world series games in St. Louis, was the most morose author in the press box. . . . It was apparent that Borowy was unwilling to give Greenberg a good ball to hit when he came up the first time. . . . Hank drew four straight balls. . . . When Borowy threw four more wide ones to Roy Cullenbine Manager Grimm rushed out from the bench to help settle his pitcher. . . . Grimm's counsel apparently worked because Hank forced Rudy York to pop to Cavarretta to retire the side. . . . Gaudiest dresser among baseball folk at the opening game was Eddie Brannick, traveling secretary of the Giants. . . . He appeared at the chilly stadium in a new camel's hair benny atop his other gorgeous raiment. . . . The Western Union crew on duty at the series includes all the regular baseball Morse mob from Chicago—Harry Lawrence, Eddie Eggert, Paul Ball, Eddie Kauffman, Joe Balasa, Augie Binder, Warren Morrow, Mike Seigel, Carl Bleecher, and Ed Totzke. . . . Tho the east is greatly shocked at being frozen out of the series for the second successive year, there was a full representation of columnists and reporters sending words and phrases back home to the pennant starved fans along the Atlantic seaboard. . . . The Associated Press had 23 men on the job, directed by its new sports editor, Bob Cavagnaro.

Seven of the first nine Cubs who got on base scored. . . . The other two died stealing. . . . Sec Taylor, sports editor of the Des Moines Register, received this message from his wife just as the Cubs were blasting the Tigers out of the premises in the first inning: "Drop series and come home at once. There's a mouse in the trap and I don't know how to get it out." . . . Don Johnson, Cub second baseman, wore sun glasses, a protection seldom employed by an infielder. . . . Zeb Eaton, who was sent in as a pinch hitter for Al Benton with two Tigers on base in the fourth inning, found Borowy much tougher to solve than the last time he faced him early this season. . . . On that occasion Eaton, who was replacing Benton in the lineup, hit a home run with the bases full. . . . Borowy was with the Yankees at the time and the Yanks won the game, 5 to 4. . . . Andy Pafko's long throw to Stan Hack that cut down Eddie Mayo at third in the fifth was as pretty a toss as any world series crowd ever has seen. . . . Greenberg almost fell to the ground trying to reach for one of Borowy's curve balls in the seventh. . . . Newhouser warmed his hands in the Tiger dugout on an electric heater and during the first and third innings probably wished he had it when those Cub drives were whistling all over the place.

Ten Years Ago Today—The Cubs lost to the Tigers, 6 to 5, in 11 innings, in the third game of the world series. . . . Tony Canzoneri retained his lightweight boxing championship, beating Al Roth in 15 round bout. . . . The U. of Detroit football team beat the Haskell Indians, 27 to 0.

A SETTER LEADS WAY TO HISTORIC INFANTRY FORT

BY BOB BECKER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 3—Hunstone Felicia, the blue Belton setter who is an important member of our hunting expedition to this state, did some pointing on pheasants this morning near historic ground when we were close to the Missouri river below this town. The first birds she found for us were just a stone's throw from old Fort Rice, a few miles south of Mandan on the west side of the Missouri.

We hadn't planned to hunt in this area, for we were on our way to Solen and the Hidden Valley, which we hunted last fall. But we ran into a big covey of pheasants not far from Fort Rice, which was built of big cottonwood trees in 1864 and housed infantry during the days when the Sioux Indians were making trouble out here.

Setter Goes to Work

The pheasants scattered in a coulee close to the road. Our shooting partners dropped several ringnecks and then we joined Lyman Barr, Highland Park, Ill., and the setter for a little workout on the scattered birds. The setup was perfect for a pointing dog, because the birds had run thru the brush and into a grassy swale.

The dog worked upwind thru the grass for a couple of minutes and then went on point. We flushed a young cock pheasant about six feet in front of the setter. The 20 gauge dropped this fellow in a hurry. After the retrieve the dog made another cast into the wind and froze again on point. This bird also was a cock pheasant and it didn't take long to add this fellow to the bag.

Ducks Are Plentiful

Besides pheasants, North Dakota also has the pinnated and the sharp-tailed grouse on the open list this fall, two birds that call for the use of a dog. No other state in the northwest offers pinnated grouse or prairie chicken shooting this year, but the area that is open to gunners is not large compared to the territory in which pheasants may be hunted.

There are lots of local ducks both in South and North Dakota this fall because every slough and lake is full of water. So far we have seen widgeon, mallards, pintails, teal, ruddy ducks, and redheads from the duck passed where we have shot, but the best duck hunting is due later this month when the northern flight comes down.

DAUMIT'S MEET PRIMA BEER PIN TEAM TONIGHT

The Prima Beer bowling team will attempt to protect its lead in the Thursday section of the Classic league when it meets Daumit's White Shirt Colognes tonight in Byrn Mawr recreation, 2015 E. 71st st. Only one game separates the teams in the league standings.

In the other games in the Bryn Mawr, Sunkist Pies meet Voss Belting and Jiffy Ball Kleen meets Congress Arcade.

In Gateway recreation, 6432 W. North av., the defending champion Meister Brau team meets Chapin & Gore, current leader in the Tuesday division of the league, while Thompson's Restaurant bowl against the Mobilgas team. The Monarch Beers face Washington Shirts to round out the schedule.

Paul Fagerlind to Lead Iowa in Ohio Game

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 3 [Special]—Paul Fagerlind, 170 pound right guard and one of three 1945 players who competed against Ohio State last fall, has been named captain of the Iowa team for the Buckeye game Saturday in Columbus.

Coach Clem Crowe said that Obern Simons, Negro freshman from Chicago who prepped at Austin High school, is a probable starter at left half back Saturday. Simons, a discharged veteran, is the faster back on the squad.

McGINNIS REJOINS BUCKEYES

Columbus, O., Oct. 3 [Special]—Coach Carroll Widdoes of Ohio State today had Bob McGinnis, guard from last year's championship team, report unexpectedly for duty and take part in practice.

Since the season opened, Widdoes has been trying to find another capable guard to take over the spot vacated by McGinnis in Warren Amling, Jack Redd, and Jack Roe. Now McGinnis probably will start at left guard and Amling will be shifted to right.

PURDUE DRILLS KICKERS

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 3 [Special]—With Dave Shaw still on the sidelines nursing a shoulder injury, Coach Cecil Isbell devoted considerable attention this afternoon to the development of punting replacements as the Purdue university squad continued preparation for its opening Western conference football encounter with Wisconsin in Madison on Saturday.

Bill Horvath, guard; Bill Canfield, left half back, and Bob Whitmer, reserve freshman end, were getting off the most consistent kicks.

BADGERS FIND PUNTER

Madison, Wis., Oct. 3 [Special]—The Wisconsin Badgers were lethargic today in their first scrimmage of the week, failing to show any of the drive that beat Marquette last week-end.

However, the drill uncovered a likely kicker for the Purdue game here Saturady in Rex John, tackle. John is just back from three years of service and has been out of football since 1939.

6 BILLION TAX SLASH STUDIED FOR NEXT YEAR

House Group Turns to Business Load

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP)—Prospects developed today that congress may provide 1946 tax cuts for individuals and business approaching 6 billion dollars—almost a billion more than the administration recommended.

The house ways and means committee, after voting individuals relief of 2½ billion dollars against a treasury request of 2 billion 85 million, tackled the slicing of corporation burdens.

Today's session broke up without a vote on a motion by Rep. Robertson [D., Va.] to repeal the 95 per cent war time excess profits tax, which would ease the burden on corporations by 2 billion 555 million. Treasury Secretary Vinson recommended repeal.

Additional Cut Drafted

Rep. Knutson of Minnesota, senior ways and means Republican, prepared an amendment proposing a 230 million dollar additional cut in corporate burdens, by repeal of the declared value capital stocks tax.

Other members discussed possibilities of reductions on corporate surtaxes.

Committee Democrats caucussed in the office of Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.] after today's session for a checkup on how members stand on repeal of the excess profits tax. When they adjourned one Democrat said, "It looks like we have plenty of votes for repeal."

Doughton told newspaper men, "We hope to complete a bill tomorrow, even if we have to meet at night." The committee vote on excess profits repeal was delayed pending the preparation of figures on possible "loopholes" in one provision of this tax, Doughton said.

Committee men said they received from their tax staff today an estimate that the federal deficit for 1946 will be 12 billion dollars.

Plan to Aid Service Men

Two plans to help service men and veterans with their income taxes also were suggested today.

Sen. Johnson [D., S. C.] introduced a bill to forgive or refund all income taxes for service men from Dec. 7, 1941, until the war is officially ended.

The American Legion urged congress to pass legislation which would cancel all delinquent income taxes owed by members of the armed services. The Legion proposal would affect enlisted men and junior commissioned officers [below the rank of major].

There were some indications that Republicans may renew an effort to cut individual taxes "across the board" instead of by the more moderate means already approved. The Republicans first proposed a 20 per cent horizontal reduction for each individual taxpayer, but now are talking about 15 per cent, under a plan whereby exemptions under the 3 per cent "normal tax" would be increased.

Excise Levies to Come Up

The plan adopted would reduce surtaxes 4 per cent in all brackets and increase exemptions against the normal tax.

In addition to the corporate tax slices the committee has yet to consider the administration recommendation that excise levies on such items as fur coats, jewelry, liquor, and cosmetics be cut back sharply next July 1, easing consumer burdens by 547 million dollars in the last half of 1946.

There was some discussion among committeemen on the possibility that they ignore the excise tax proposal, thus leaving the cutback date uncertain. Members favoring this procedure wish to hold the over-all tax relief as near the treasury's 5 billion figure as possible.

MEAT ANIMALS FIRM TO HIGHER; RECEIPTS FALL

Meat production went into a severe slump this week when, instead of an expected rise in volume, receipts of both cattle and sheep decreased sharply from last week. Markets were brisk and prices steady to higher yesterday.

Only 10,500 cattle arrived at Chicago yesterday, compared with 15,374 a week earlier. It was the smallest Wednesday supply in seven weeks. The three-day total of 35,400 was 10,400 below last week. Buyers paid steady to 15 cents higher prices for most cattle.

Lambs advanced mostly 10 cents in brisk competition to a $14.50 top, equal to the highest since mid-August. Hogs held firm at ceilings.

Urges Support for Synthetic Rubber Plants

BY ANTHONY WIRRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 3—The government should encourage a vigorous and enterprising synthetic rubber industry for economic and security reasons, M. W. Boyer, vice president and general manager of the Baton Rouge refinery of the Standard Oil company [New Jersey], said today.

A friendly policy to this new industry would tend to stabilize the price of natural ruber which has fluctuated between 3 cents and more than $1 a pound. He explained that a supply of synthetic rubber available at all times would reduce the dependence of rubber manufacturers and consumers on foreign sources which are affected by international politics, trade agreements, and monetary policies.

"Would Be Big Mistake"

Constant development of new uses for synthetic rubber and improvements in products already marketed also would prevent a recurrence of conditions after the Pearl Harbor attack.

"The government would make a big mistake if it did not keep up a lusty and growing synthetic rubber industry," Boyer said. "We don't know what the government is going to do with the synthetic rubber plants, but so far it has not seen fit to declare any of them surplus, and says the demand for rubber will take all of the synthetic output for the next two years."

Boyer made his recommendations on synthetic rubber at a press conference of 18 newspaper writers who are visiting 17 cities to report the reconversion progress of American industry. The interview preceded an inspection tour of the 2,000 acre layout which during the war produced large quantities of 100 octane aviation gasoline and various synthetic rubbers, including butyl, used in inner tubes.

Employment Is Doubled

Refinery employment increased from 4,500 to 9,000 during the war, he said, and all workers will be retained. Returning veterans will be upgraded to fill jobs they normally would have risen to if they had not been in service.

The gasoline produced at the refinery was described as the best the company ever has made. To the motorist this means smoother operation, freedom from knock, quicker acceleration, added power, and lower engine maintenance cost, he said.

Boyer declined to discuss the widespread strikes in the petroleum industry, except to say that his employes still were at work. An independent union representing the employes has asked a 30 per cent increase in pay, rejecting a 15 per cent hike offered previously by the company. The matter is being arbitrated. The situation is similar to that of the Standard Oil company [Indiana] refinery in Whiting.

MAYTAG ADDING NEW APPLIANCES FOR USE IN HOME

Newton, Ia., Oct. 3 [Special]—Addition of an automatic type washer, an automatic clothes drier, both gas and electric, a gas range, and an electric frozen food locker to the Maytag line of household appliances was announced today by Fred Maytag II., president. The new products were shown to Maytag branch managers and distributors at the home office here.

Maytag said the gas range and food locker may be on the market about Jan. 1. Distribution dates for the automatic washers and driers was not disclosed.

Dr. Walter Lichtenstein has obtained a leave from the First National Bank of Chicago to become an economic advisor to the United States control council in Germany with the rank of major general. Dr. Lichtenstein, who was born in Germany and came to this country as a child, has been with the bank since 1921 and a vice president since 1931. He is scheduled to retire on pension at the end of this year, but has taken a temporary leave to take up his army position. He will serve in Germany under Lt. Gen. Clay, deputy United States military governor. Another Chicagoan, Dr. Melchior Palyi, has been made an advisor to the control board staff with the rank of colonel.

Election of L. G. Fritz as vice president of American Airlines in charge of operations was announced by Ralph S. Damon, president. He succeeds Hugh L. Smith who will become vice president on special assignments. Fritz was vice president in charge of operations for Transcontinental and Western Air when he was called to duty with the army air forces in April, 1942. In 1944 he was promoted to brigadier general and became commanding general of the North Atlantic division of the air transport command.

FOX COMPANIES PLAN EXCHANGE OF STOCK SOON

Peter Fox Brewing company, Chicago, is planning to issue 90,000 shares of its capital stock in exchange for the common stock of Fox De Luxe Brewing Company of Indiana, making the latter a wholly owned subsidiary of the Chicago company, Frank G. Fox, president, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday.

The exchange would be on a basis of nine shares of Peter Fox for each 10 shares of Fox De Luxe. Peter Fox would have a capitalization then of 590,000 shares instead of 500,000. A special meeting of stockholders of the Chicago company will be held within a month to ratify the plan, Fox said.

A similar exchange plan is contemplated for Fox De Luxe Brewing Company of Michigan, which would involve a further 150,000 share increase in capitalization.

War Has Vast Influence on Chicago Area

Chicago in the six years between the start of the war in Europe and the fall of Japan underwent some of "the most striking economic changes in its history," the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago said yesterday. With the coöperation of the war production board, war man power commission, Illinois department of labor, and other agencies the bank has completed a study of the war's effects on the Chicago industrial district, which includes Lake county, Indiana.

The more important developments reported by the bank include:

1. Total population, including military personnel, was slightly above the pre-war level.

2. Civilian population was a little below the peace time level, military withdrawals having more than counter-balanced gains from in-migration and excess of births over deaths.

Labor Force Larger

3. The civilian labor force was substantially bigger, indicating larger utilization of man power.

4. Total employment gained significantly, with the largest gain occurring in manufacturing.

5. Expansion of industrial facilities was larger than in any other area in the country.

6. Reflecting the substantial expansion in employment and in manufacturing facilities the value of the area's industrial production at the end of the Japanese war was almost three times the 1939 amount.

7. Despite these phenomenal gains, the Chicago industrial area barely maintained its peace time proportion of the respective national totals of other areas, reflecting bigger relative production growth elsewhere.

Population Up to 4,850,000

The bank said that altho civilian population of the Chicago industrial area dropped from 4,820,000 in April, 1940, to 4,735,000 at the end of 1944, total population actually increased from 4,826,000 to 4,850,000 because of the military personnel stationed in the area. The latter increased from 6,000 to more than 100,000. The decline in civilian population was attributed to 450,000 persons from the area going into military service. Net civilian in-migration was estimated at 195,000 and births exceeded deaths by about 170,000.

At the end of 1944, an estimated 2,300,000 persons, or 48.6 per cent of the total civilian population, were in the labor force compared with 2,188,000, or 45.4 per cent, in April 1940. [The labor force includes all persons 14 years of age and over employed or actively seeking employment.]

Employment in manufacturing industries when Japan gave up was 50 per cent higher than in 1939.

GRAIN FUTURES TURN LOWER ON PROFIT CASHING

Heavy profit taking induced by the recent rapid rise in grain futures markets sent prices lower yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Altho rallies were attempted closing trades were near the bottom. Wheat futures finished 1 to 1¼ cents a bushel lower, corn lost ⅛ to ¼, oats ⅝ to 1⅝, rye 1⅝ to 2⅛, and barley ¼ to ⅝.

Mills and cash interests bought wheat futures early, but the market failed to reach new peaks and commission houses and southwestern interests sold freely disclosing a lack of the aggressive public and professional buying of the preceding day.

The office of price administration said current corn ceiling prices fully reflect parity and there is no reason for an increase at this time. Its statement was prompted by "erroneous reports" there would be an increase.

2 MONTHS PASS AS PRODUCERS AWAIT CEILINGS

Slow OPA Thwarts Reconversion

Almost two months have passed since the end of the war, but companies eager to get back into civilian production still are thwarted by the office of price administration's slowness in setting reconversion ceiling prices, manufacturers said yesterday.

A week after the end of the war, on Aug. 23, OPA announced that nearly all consumer goods would return to the market at pre-war prices. It also specified "1942 prices" for household washing machines, ironers, and aluminum kitchen ware. Last Monday, nearly six weeks later, it set dollars and cents ceilings on washers and ironers. A pricing formula for automobiles became effective Aug. 31.

Thousands Wait and Wonder

Manufacturers of thousands of other civilian items still are wondering about their prices. The only method by which they may sell their products under OPA regulations is to use 1942 prices until more specific ceilings are fixed, but most manufacturers assert increases are necessary to cover higher costs.

Altho the OPA is holding to its position that retail price hikes will not be permitted, it has granted some small price increases to manufacturers which the retailers must absorb.

It proposed a 5.2 per cent increase over October, 1941, factory billing prices for washers and ironers on Aug. 23. During the first week of September it notified manufacturers the increase probably would be raised to 7.7 per cent. This was not confirmed by OPA until Monday.

Must be Set at Every Level

An industry basic to reconversion by others—the castings industry—has been holding up production of civilian items because of what was described as a price squeeze and were unable to make deliveries of castings to manufacturers of a wide variety of capital and consumer goods. A 10 per cent increase in the price of gray iron castings finally was granted Sept. 17.

As a result of OPA slowness in setting prices all aspects of reconversion are delayed, manufacturers said. Ceiling prices must be set at every level, from parts and supplies thru the manufacturer's price to the final consumers' price. Nothing can be sold to the consumer until the entire pricing cycle is determined on any particular item.

Price Administrator Bowles has been calling for all out production of civilian goods ever since the war ended, but in effect has been preventing its accomplishment thru the red tape and delay in setting workable prices, manufacturers asserted.

FRISCO TRUSTEE SEEKS TO BUY 3 NEW TRAINS

St. Louis, Oct. 3 (AP)—Frank A. Thompson, trustee and chief executive of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company, today petitioned the United States District court for authority to spend $7,321,394 on new equipment to include three complete diesel powered streamlined trains.

Trains to be replaced are the Meteor, Frisco mainliner connecting Tulsa and Oklahoma City with St. Louis, and the Texas special, which the Frisco operates jointly with the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines between St. Louis and Texas.

Two complete new trains to cost $2,782,196 will be placed on the Meteor's run and one on the Texas special route. Plans call for the M-K-T to purchase a second Texas special.

Coal Miners' Union Campaign Threat to Steel Production

The steel industry faces a close-down unless labor difficulties that have halted production of coking coal are settled speedily, Chicago steel industry leaders warned yesterday. Most of the "captive" [steel company owned] coal mines were reported shut down as a result of United Mine Workers attempts to unionize the foremen.

Some companies are in better supply position than others, but unless coking coal starts moving into the Chicago district within three weeks steel production in the area by that time will be virtually nil, it was said. The situation in other steel producing areas is similar.

Inland Miners Out

Inland Steel officials said only four of the seven blast furnaces operating will be running by Sunday unless coking coal is obtained. They explained that altho miners employed at Inland owned mines have no grievances they have walked out to support the demand for unionization of the foremen.

A spokesman for the United States Steel corporation said if no coking coal is obtained within a week it will be necessary to start gradual curtailment of steel making operations.

The Republic Steel corporation said it had started to reduce steel and iron production to conserve coal supplies. Only one shipload of coal is expected at present, it said.

Reconversion in Peril

"At a time when the entire nation is crying for steel to supply the demands of reconversion we face a complete shutdown because of a lack of coking coal," one company executive said. "We doubt the public realizes how seriously reconversion may be affected."

The automobile industry, which is just getting into production of new automobiles, for weeks has been attempting to get assurance of adequate steel supplies.

Gasoline Output Falls

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—Gasoline production in the week ended Sept. 29 was 11,913,000 barrels, a drop of 2,632,000 barrels from the 14,545,000 produced in the preceding week, the American Petroleum institute reported today. Refining companies operated at 70.1 per cent of capacity against 82.8 in the preceding week.

Stocks Mixed; Coca-Cola Up 5 to New High

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—Steels, metals and oils advanced fractions to about 2 points and several soft drink and air line issues set new 1945 highs in today's stock market. The list closed irregular, however, with losses outnumbering gains.

News the sugar situation has been eased by discovery of 1,600,000 tons in Java helped Coca Cola—up 5 points—Pepsi-Cola and Nehi. Others reaching new highs for the year included Schenley, American Airlines, and Eastern Air Lines.

Most issues were down fractions to a point at the opening, but after about an hour buying orders lifted more than half of the leaders above yesterday's close. Some of the gains were partly erased in last minute selling, especially in rails and miscellaneous industrials.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS

Prices extended their recent advances in a reduced volume of trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Turnover was 42,000 shares. Volume leaders included Admiral, up ¾; Asbestos Manufacturing and Sangamo Electric, each unchanged; Chicago corporation, down ⅛, and Commonwealth Edison, up ¼ to a new 1945 high.

BOND PRICES NARROW

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—The bond market held within narrow limits today with secondary rails and some utilities and industrials selling off fractions. Sales were $5,460,000 compared with $5,790,000 yesterday.

16 OF RAIL'S 17 MEMBER BOARD RESIDE IN EAST

And Chicago Fails to Get Meetings

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

Sixteen of the 17 directors of the 10,000 mile Pennsylvania railroad system are residents of the east and the Chicago occupies a key position in the road's territory none of their meetings is held here, inquiry disclosed yesterday. Occasionally the road's directors make inspections of the property which take them to the terminals at Chicago and St. Louis, but the meetings where decisions are made affecting its destiny are all held in Philadelphia where 12 directors live.

The western region for which Chicago is the headquarters produces about 1/5 of all the railroad's revenues. It is also of vital importance to the road because within the region are three of the country's most important gateways which link the road with railroads serving the south and west.

Connects with South and West

The Pennsylvania connects at the Chicago gateway with the transcontinental railroads extending thruout the west and linking the east with the full length of the Pacific coast. At St. Louis it connects with roads serving the great southwest and the Cincinnati gateway provides a connection with a large part of the south.

Several leading roads with headquarters in Chicago in recent years have made a practice of having directors' meetings in cities thruout their territories as well as in Chicago. The purpose is to have their directors become acquainted with the problems of the various communities along their lines as well as to acquaint the communities with the men directing the policies of the railroad that serves them. Included among these are the Burlington, Santa Fe, and the Illinois Central.

Only One Is Westerner

The Pennsylvania's directors never have adopted such a course. Only one of its 17 directors is a westerner Philip R. Clarke, president of the

SEEKS ECONOMY PLEDGE IN BILL ON U.S. AGENCIES

Martin Says Shuffling Should Cut Costs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3—Legislation asked by President Truman for sweeping powers to reorganize the structure of federal agencies ran into stiff opposition as debate on the measure opened today in the house.

Minority Leader Martin [R., Mass.] declared such vast powers should not be delegated to the President without a promise of government economy. He proposed an amendment making Truman's authority to regroup federal agencies contingent on at least a 25 per cent cut in government expenditures. Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.] sponsored an amendment that would require confirmation by congress of any plan to revamp federal agencies.

Effective Unless Overruled

As it now stands the bill authorizes the President to reorganize, combine or abolish about 100 agencies, or shift them to new jurisdictions. Such actions would become effective unless both houses of congress voted to nullify them within 60 days.

Hoffman observed that the President could make his revamping proposals effective if congress takes no action or if one house disapproves and the other approves. He asserted it was "an attempt to change the Constitution by subterfuge, by making it possible for the President, with the aid of a majority of one house, to amend legislation."

Rep. Vursell [R., Ill.], supporting Hoffman's amendment, said adoption of the bill in its present form would mean further "abdication of congress to the executive branch."

Would Exempt FDIC

Rep. Manasco [D., Ala.], floor leader for the bill, said he will sponsor an amendment to exempt the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation from the general reshuffling powers granted under the measure. He would require that any change affecting FDIC must be submitted separately to congress. Voting on the various amendments is slated for tomorrow.

The bill forbids the President to make any organization changes in the interstate commerce commission, federal trade commission, and securities and exchange commission. It stipulates that plans for four other agencies must be submitted individually and not as part of a general regrouping. These are the civil service commission, federal communications commission, tariff commission, and veterans' administration.

Included were a new 6 million dollar issue of 3½ per cent debentures, due 1960; 40,000 shares of 5 per cent $100 par cumulative preferred stock, and 100,000 shares of no par common stock. The debentures were priced at 101 and accrued interest, the preferred stock at $102 a share, and the common at $17.25 a share.

All the securities represent new financing except 50,000 shares of the common. These are from holdings of Nathan Cummings, president. Consolidated Grocers formerly was Sprague Warner-Kenny corporation.

The company operates local transit lines in several cities including Springfield, Ill.

Wilson Financing Delayed
